The Space Marine Collectors Guide is the definitive tome for anyone interested in the Space Marines miniatures range. It's ideal for anyone who collects Space Marines, containing the full range of Space Marines models and their component parts.

We've laid the range out following the Space Marine Codex classification of each model so all the HQ choices are in one section, followed by Troops, Elites, Fast Attack and Heavy Support. We hope this will make it easier for you to navigate through and find the models or components you are looking for.

The Space Marine Collectors Guide is far more than a simple catalogue, also included within are a number of other features such as painted examples of Space Marine Chapter colours, some fantastic armies painted and collected by Games Workshop staff, conversions, Golden Demon winners and great dioramas.

So if you collect, paint or game with Space Marines then this is the book for you.

Anyway what are you waiting for, stop reading this and take a look inside.

You will see in the pages of this book that some of the models are named "Classic" and others "Archive". These models are only available by ordering direct (you cannot buy them in Games Workshop stores). "Classic" models are no longer in the main range but have stood the test of time and are great to game with (please note that these are supplied in component form). "Archive" models are a small selection of older miniatures that may be of particular interest to collectors of the Space Marine range.

CHAPTERS OF THE ADEPTUS ASTARTES

Over the years, many Space Marine Chapters have been mentioned in either rulebooks, painting sections or fiction. When the original Rogue Trader showed colour schemes for some of the major Chapters, little did anyone dream just quite how many different variants and colour schemes we would eventually have! Although this list is by no means exhaustive, as many collectors have invented their own Chapters, here we present every single Chapter colour scheme that has been mentioned since Warhammer 40,000 first started!

DARREN LATHAM'S SPACE WOLVES

Darren now works as part of the Studio's 'Eavy Metal painting team. Before that, he created this stunning Space Wolf army. Originally devised to fit in with the 2nd edition rules of Warhammer 40,000, Darren has been working recently on some new squads to make it legal with 3rd edition Warhammer 40,000. If you're thinking some of this looks familiar, you're right' as a lot of Darren's army was lucky enough to feature in the last Codex: Space Wolves.

Some interesting things to note are Logan Grimnar's wolves. Whereas most players will use the Warhammer plastic wolves, Darren found a Warhammer miniature (the Hobgoblin wolf Warghan) that looked sufficiently big and menacing, to represent his Fenrisian wolves. Elsewhere, Darren has utilised the plastic Space Marines and Space Wolves accessory sprue to add character to his recent Grey Hunters and Long Fangs, pictured on the left.

CHRISTIAN VALENTIN'S BLACK TEMPLARS

Black Templars
Terminator Captain

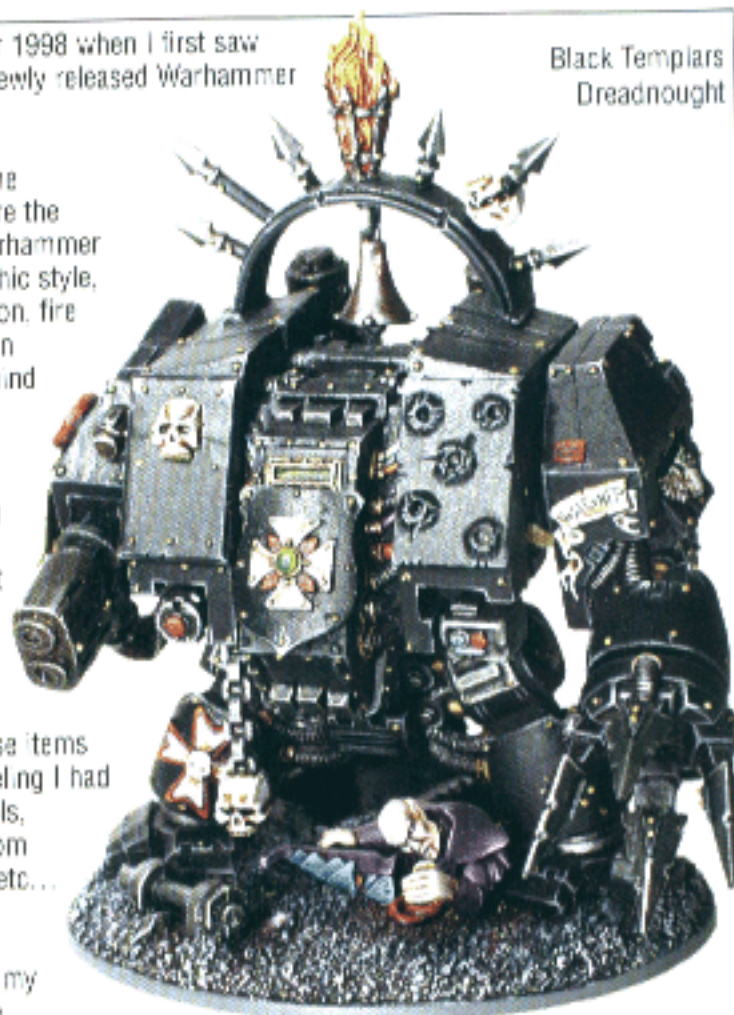

Black Templars
High Marshall

Christian says: It all started in October 1998 when I first saw John Blanche's cover painting of the newly released Warhammer 40,000.

When I saw this cover, the choice of the Black Templars was obvious as they are the embodiment of everything I like in Warhammer 40,000: high and dark technology, gothic style, mysticism, fanatical Space Marines, iron, fire and blood! It was also a tribute to John Blanche's art whose vision filled my mind during all those years.

When you start an army of Space Marines from an 'official' Chapter, you can easily get a very 'normal' army unless you're ready to put some effort in it. I had a very strong view of what these zealous Space Marines would look like. Being able to order components from Mail Order offered me the opportunity to pick very precise items that would help me to recreate the feeling I had when I saw John's art: angelic symbols, specific shoulder pads, Crux made from Empire shields, Witch Hunter heads, etc...

An army is never totally finished. There's always something waiting on my painting station, eager to be given life...

Black Templars
Dreadnought

Work in progress on Christian's new Assault squad Sergeant. Note the Warhammer components he has used to enhance the "fanatical zealot" look of this model.

Part of Christian's Black Templars squad. Note the amount of detail he has put into even this basic Troops choice.

SPACE MARINE DIORAMAS

The traditional definition of 'Diorama' is 'a three-dimensional scene with figures', generally depicting a moment from a story or event. With the wealth of background in the Warhammer 40,000 universe, many gamers and hobbyists have used this as an inspiration to create their own scenes. This form of modelling has become so popular that the Golden Demon competition has a separate category for these 'three-dimensional scenes'.

Here we showcase the Space Marine dioramas taken from past Golden Demon competitions, and hobbyists personal collections.

SPECIAL EDITION

Over the years we've released a huge range of miniatures and the range as we know it today is constantly evolving. New models are released every month and old ones are often retired from the battlefield.

On these pages you can see some of the Space Marines that we've released over the years that are no longer available. You may ask yourself why we've gone to the trouble to show you models that aren't actually for sale. The answer is simple. It's something we wanted to show you because we enjoy looking back to see those 'old favourites'. You may have some of these models in your collection. We look back on these old models and the history that is associated with them with pride.

Some mark special occasions within the history of our hobby such Games Day, others like the original plastic set are the founding fathers of our plastic Space Marine sets available today.

I hope you enjoy looking at them as much as we do and that they bring back some pleasant memories.

Remember him? Yes, it was way back in 1984 when the first incarnation of the Space Marine appeared in stores.

The box that started it all! Also known as RTB01 (so called because it was the first ever Rogue Trader Box set released!). The Imperial Space Marines box set gave you thirty of the Emperor's finest, along with parts to arm them with flamers, missile launchers and bits for a sergeant.

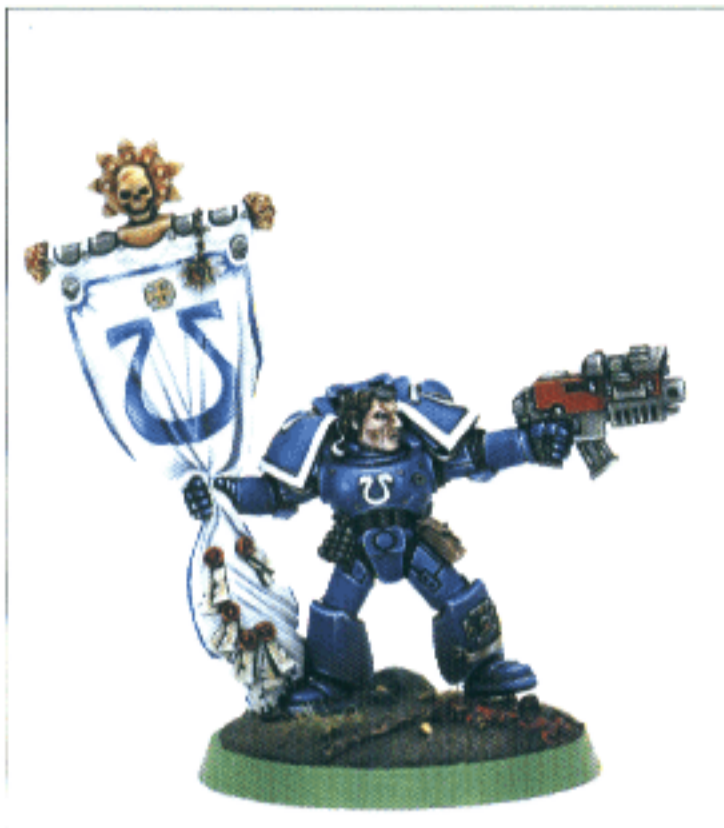

Sergeant Centurion, a special character for the Legion of the Damned, was released as part of the Apocalypse 100 promotion, celebrating the opening of the 100th Retail store in the UK.

Only 500 of the original Thunderhawk Gunship were ever made. Costing £400, this massive white metal kit proved so popular even years after it had sold out that ForgeWorld are now making a resin version. This Thunderhawk has been painted to feature in the German Studio's Black Templars army.

This Space Marine Captain was only available to attendees of Games Day 1991.

Please Note! These models are not available for sale. The models and moulds no longer exist.

This Ultramarines Standard Bearer with scenic base was only available as part of the Mail Order Skulz promotion which ran from 1999-2001.

This Space Marine Captain was available at Games Day 1999. A very rare version of this model featured a bolter/melta combi-weapon instead of the standard bolter.

The Emperor's Champion was created by Juan Diaz especially for Games Workshop's 25th Anniversary and was only available for the weekend of it's release. This model has been painted by Christian Valentin.

More characters from Bloodquest. Cloten and Lysander appear on this Black Library special edition Diorama.

Captain Leonatas from Bloodquest was available only to Black Library subscribers.

This alternate Dark Angels Sergeant was available as part of the 2002 Steel Conspiracy Necron roadshow.

This Diorama based on the historical statue at Iwojima, was available as part of the Mail Order Skulz promotion. Sculpted by Aly Morrison, this one was painted by Mark Edwards.

Please Note! These models are not available for sale. The models and moulds no longer exist.

DOMENICO RENZI'S RONIN SPACE MARINES 2000 GRAND TOURNAMENT BEST ARMY

Domenico: At the end of September '99 I wondered what army I could possibly field at the next Warhammer 40,000 Grand Tournament. Scouring through old White Dwarfs and Rulebooks I found a picture of the antechamber of the Golden Throne. There I saw a Japanese-style banner. I could do a Samurai Space Marine army!

Now was the time to get my army list ready. Since it was going to be my fourth Space Marine army I knew fairly well what I wanted it to include. If you embark on a project like this, the army list should be done first – it helps save you time and money, because you will only buy and paint the models you really need, as opposed to impulse-buying.

While positioning and gluing the Space Marines together I got the idea to create my own helmets, as I wanted them to look highly individual compared to the 'standard' Space Marines of the known Chapters, but nevertheless uniform. For the Sergeants I modelled every helmet individually, as they represent battle-hardened warriors whose armour has been embellished by the Chapter's artificers. I also spent a long time on banners for nearly every model.
