

Secrets in Sand

Bonus Material for Blood and Sand: The Levant Tribunal

by Niall Christie

Introduction

Ahlan wa sahan! Welcome to Secrets in Sand. This PDF download occupies the slightly unusual position of being a supplement to a supplement, in that it contains material that I was unable to squeeze into Blood and Sand. In this PDF you will find the following:

1. The Islamic Tradition in the Order of Hermes: Information and rules for magi who approach Hermetic magic from an Islamic point of view.
2. Magi of the Levant Tribunal: Game statistics for some of the Hermetic magi described in Blood and Sand.
3. Husn Maryam's Talisman: A powerful magic item, adapted from the Arabian Nights.

Acknowledgements

The author would like to acknowledge the contributions of Eve Kimbrough, who wrote Convocation of the Faithful and gave invaluable assistance with the development of the rules for the Islamic Tradition; Richard Read, who suggested Spiral's sigils; and all the playtesters, who gave helpful comments and suggestions. Special thanks also to David Chart, Davelon Kimbrough, Angus Macdonald and Steph van Willigenburg: you all know why. Dedicated, as always, to Steph van Willigenburg.

The Islamic Tradition in the Order of Hermes

The Islamic Tradition within the Order of Hermes dates back to the time of the earliest Hermetic settlers in the Levant. Since the first contact and exchange of ideas between Hermetic magi and the Muslims, some Hermetic scholars have worked to incorporate Islamic ideas into their magic. The result of this has been the growth of a small tradition within the Order, knowing no boundaries of House or faith (although most are Muslims, and members of Houses Jerbiton, Criamon and Ex Miscellanea), whose magi have applied Islamic ideas to their magic in order to give it greater flexibility.

Given the current atmosphere in the East, it is understandable that the majority of the magi of the Islamic Tradition are keeping a low profile at the moment. However, some are active in opposing the Crusades and their crusading Hermetic brethren. Members of the Islamic Tradition are often suspected of involvement in counter-crusading activities. In most cases, these suspicions are unfounded.

Virtues and Flaws

There are three Hermetic Virtues and Flaws specifically associated with the Islamic Tradition, available to all magi at character creation. They are as follows:

+1 Virtue: Islamic Magic

You are a member of the Islamic Tradition. Although you do not have to be Muslim, you may make use of the ranges, durations and targets listed under “The Islamic Influence” in Blood and Sand, with the following restrictions:

1. Spell-casting: You may only cast Formulaic or Ritual spells using these ranges, durations and targets. They may not be used with Spontaneous magic.
2. Lab Work: In all lab work involving Islamic spells (learning, inventing etc.) your score in Theology: Islam is applied as a requisite to your Magic Theory score. Islamic spells are those involving Islamic ranges, durations and targets. The requisite is not applied to work with normal Hermetic spells.

You have a starting score of 2 in Theology: Islam, and the –1 Flaw Bad Reputation, among other magi of the Order, representing the fact that your abilities make other magi uncomfortable or suspicious of you.

+3 Virtue: Interfaith Magic

You are an unusually adept member of the Islamic Tradition. You have unrestricted access to the ranges, durations and targets listed under “The Islamic Influence” in Blood and Sand. You have a starting score of 3 in Theology: Islam, and the –1 Flaw Bad Reputation, among other magi of the Order, representing the fact that your abilities make other magi uncomfortable or suspicious of you. If you wish, you may take Speak Arabic and Scribe Arabic instead of Speak Latin and Scribe Latin as starting Abilities. Simply substitute “Arabic” for “Latin” in the list of starting Abilities for your House.

–1 Flaw: Poorly-Meshed Hermetic-Islamic Magic

You were trained primarily in Islamic magic, with the result that you have trouble with Hermetic magic. You may make unrestricted use of the ranges, durations and targets listed under “The Islamic Influence” in Blood and Sand. However, should you try to make use of “normal” Hermetic ranges, durations and targets, you suffer from the following restrictions:

1. Spell-casting: You may only cast Formulaic or Ritual spells using Hermetic ranges, durations and targets. They may not be used with Spontaneous magic.
2. Lab Work: In all lab work involving spells, whether standard Hermetic or Islamic, (learning, inventing etc.) your score in Theology: Islam is subtracted from your Magic Theory score.

Instead of starting scores in Speak and Scribe Latin, you have starting scores in Speak and Scribe Arabic, reflecting your Islamic-orientated magical upbringing. Simply substitute “Arabic” for “Latin” in the list of starting Abilities for your House. You have a starting score of 2 in Theology: Islam, and the –1 Flaw Bad Reputation, among other magi of the Order, representing the fact that your abilities make other magi uncomfortable or suspicious of you.

Adapting Islamic Magic to Hermetic Standards

While followers of the Islamic tradition may make use of the Islamic ranges, durations and targets, “normal” Hermetic magi still labor to adapt these to Hermetic standards. As suggested in Blood and Sand, such adaptation should be the result of a Major lab discovery (WGRE, pages 84-85). Should the discovery actually be made, suggested restrictions on the actual use of the ranges, durations and targets with standard Hermetic magic are as follows:

1. The spell or magical effect designed may not break the limits of magic (ArM4, pages 67-68).
2. The magnitude of the spell or effect is increased by one for each Islamic range, duration or target incorporated (5 levels). Thus a Ball of Abysmal Flame spell with a range of Voice will be eighth magnitude (level 40).
3. The Islamic ranges, durations and targets may never be used with spontaneous magic.

These restrictions are similar to those placed on Hermetic use of Faerie magic (WGRE, page 136).

Sample Islamic Spell: Convocation of Faithful

(Islamic equivalent of Hermetic Rego Mentem, Level 35)

R: Touch, D: Salat, T: Minaret

All persons within the area covered by the targeted minaret have a sudden urge to go there. They cannot explain why, but they do have a sense of urgency that grows stronger as the duration of the spell draws towards its end. The urge is of course stronger for good Muslims than for *dhimmi*s: Muslim characters can resist the urge on an Intelligence + Concentration stress roll of 12+, whereas other persons only need a 9+. Modifiers should be applied for appropriate Personality Traits (such as Pious) or Virtues and Flaws (such as Strong-Willed). If the roll is successful, the person still feels that something important demands his or her presence at the minaret, but can ignore the summoning for the next hour (re-roll each hour). Victims who failed their roll must obey the summoning, and head towards the minaret as soon as possible. They still behave in a sensible way: while they are adamant that they must go to the minaret, they will not endanger their lives to reach it in time. On a botched roll, a victim drops everything and run as fast as possible towards the minaret. He or she will not stop before crossing streets, and may even jump out of the window if it means reaching the minaret faster!

When the next call to prayer is uttered from the minaret, the spell wears off, people gathered at the feet of the tower will probably disperse, and people who have not reached it yet no longer feel the urge to go there.

This spell is usually used as an emergency means to summon the population of a town, to prepare the town's defenses in case of an imminent attack, for example. By adding an Intéllego requisite, magi may specify what category of people will be affected by the spell. The sentence describing the summoned group must be uttered loudly and clearly, and cannot be more than six words long. "All able men" or "all Shi'is" are acceptable choices, but "all able men between 15 and 50 with no family" is too restrictive. Only persons who believe they belong to the appropriate group will answer, so if the caster summons "all pregnant women" to the minaret, they will not attract any woman who has not yet realized that she is with child. (Level Rationale: Instill the urge to go to the minaret in a person (ReMe 20), substitute Islamic categories (Touch, Salat, Individual), then increase Target to Minaret (+15) = ReMe 35).

The Faerie Problem

Blood and Sand refers to a problem suffered by Middle Eastern mages: due to the scarcity of faeries in the area, these magi suffer penalties to their magic rolls when in Faerie auras, reflecting a lack of familiarity with them. Some players may wish to formalize this problem in the form of a Hermetic Flaw. An example is given below. This Flaw is available to all Hermetic magi, not merely those who are members of the Islamic Tradition.

-1 Flaw: The Faerie Problem

You were trained exclusively in the Levant, and hence have had little experience with faeries. You suffer from "The Faerie Problem," described in Blood and Sand.

Magi of the Levant Tribunal

This section contains statistics for the following magi, described in Blood and Sand.

From Aedes Veritatis:

Sharaf al-Din 'Umar of House Jerbiton
Amber the Golden of House Tremere

From Domus Pacis:

Felix of House Guernicus
Esther of House Verditius

From Foothold:

Guillaume de Bourne of House Flambeau
Rufus de Clary of House Tytalus

From the Hermetic Embassy:

Spiral of House Criamon

Power levels vary wildly in Ars Magica sagas, so no doubt there will be some players who regard the magi detailed here as being under- or over-powered. The statistics given should be regarded as mere suggestions. Note that all characteristics were generated using the random method.

Statistics are not given for Tau of House Flambeau, Aurora Borealis of House Jerbiton or Scipio of House Guernicus: "powerful enough" is probably the best approach to take regarding these characters. It should also be noted that Sharaf al-Din 'Umar of House Jerbiton has been generated as a member of the Islamic Tradition, detailed above.

Shape of the Barnyard Creeper

MuCo 25 (Amber's casting total: 37)
 R: Touch/Near, D: Sun/Perm., T: Ind.
 Spell Focus: A Cat's Claw (+2)
 Requisite: Animal

You place a cat skin over yourself or another, and the target turns into a cat. The target may change back at will, ending the spell. The spell requires possession of a cat skin (Level rationale: Turn a human into a land animal = MuCo(An) 25).

Shape of the Spotted Stalker

MuCo 25 (Amber's casting total: 32)
 R: Touch/Near, D: Sun/Perm., T: Ind.
 Spell Focus: A Leopard's Tooth (+4)
 Requisite: Animal

You place a leopard skin over yourself or another, and the target turns into a leopard. The target may change back at will, ending the spell. The spell requires possession of a leopard skin (Level rationale: Turn a human into a land animal = MuCo(An) 25).

From Cat to Cat

MuAn 20 (Amber's casting total: 38)
 R: Touch, D: Sun, T: Ind.
 Spell Focus: A Leopard's Tooth (+4)

Turns a cat into a leopard. The cat may transform itself back at will. Amber of Tremere uses this most often on her familiar, Luigi, who enjoys the power the leopard form gives him (Level rationale: Turn an animal into another animal = MuAn 20).

Husn Maryam's Talisman

During the reign of the caliph Harun al-Rashid, Husn Maryam was a Muslim princess of Genoa, the granddaughter of a powerful enchantress, who gave her this talisman and taught her its powers. It takes the form of a carnelian bead on a gold chain, which has on it five faces, each of which is engraved with a picture, around which are written in Arabic the names of God. A different power is associated with each face. All command phrases must be spoken in Arabic.

1. Engraved with a travel bed. When the picture is rubbed, and the words, "In the name of Sulayman, o carnelian, I order you to bring me a traveling bed,” are spoken, a traveling bed appears, complete with cushions and covers. When the bead is held with this face upwards, and the words, “Carnelian, o carnelian, I conjure you, in the name of Sulayman, to rise with us,” are spoken, the bed rises into the air, and carries those upon it wherever they direct it. The bed’s movement is controlled by moving the face of the carnelian (storyguides may wish to impose Dexterity rolls). The bed remains in existence until it is dismissed, at which point it disappears. (Level rationales: Create a bed with covers and cushions, R. Reach, D. approx. Sun, T. Ind. = CrHe(An) 20, control the bed, R. Reach, D. approx. Qira’a, T. Ind. = ReHe 25).

2. Engraved with a pavilion. When this face is held towards the holder, and the words, “In the name of Sulayman, o carnelian, let a pavilion be set up here,” are spoken, a large pavilion appears, with curtains and floor mats. This pavilion remains until it is dismissed. (Level rationale: Create a pavilion with curtains and mats, R. Reach, D. approx. Sun, T. Str. = CrHe 25).
3. Engraved with a tree. When this face is pointed downwards, and the words, “By virtue of the names of God, let trees spring up here, with a large river by their side,” are spoken, a group of trees appears, with a river flowing past them. The river appears to rise from the ground 100 paces away, and to disappear into it again 100 paces away in the other direction. The water of the river is not only refreshing, but also provides genuine sustenance. The river and trees remain until dismissed. (Level rationale: Create a body of water and a group of trees,

R. Reach, D. approx. Sun, T. approx. Minaret = CrAq(He) 45).

4. Engraved with a table. When this face is held towards the holder, and the words, “By virtue of the names of God, let a table be spread,” are spoken, a table appears, covered with rich food. The food is fully nutritious, and tastes delicious. The table and its contents remain until dismissed. (Level rationale: Create a table of food, R. Reach, D. approx. Sun, T. Ind. = CrAn(He) 25).
5. Engraved with a knight on horseback. When this face is rubbed, an Arab knight on horseback appears, and fights any enemies of the holder. The knight should be created as a normal companion character — he wears a chain-mail hauberk, and fights with a sword, shield and lance. The horse has the normal scores listed on page 260 of ArM4. When the enemies have been routed or slain, the knight, his horse and their equipment disappear. If either the knight or his horse are slain, they and their equipment both vanish. (Level rationale: Create an armored knight and horse and make them fight, R. Reach, D. approx. Qira’a, T. approx. Group = CrCo(Re, An, He, Te) 40).

All powers may be used an unlimited number of times. The talisman’s powers are extremely powerful, breaking many Hermetic limits, and it contains more powers than a Hermetic mage could instill. Thus the item is likely to be sought by many Hermetic magi. Such magi are likely to go to great lengths to obtain it, and may be prepared to slay those who oppose them. Due to its utterly non-Hermetic composition, the levels listed under the rationales for all its powers are doubled for purposes of investigation.

Blood and Sand

The Levant Tribunal

AN ARS MAGICA SOURCEBOOK OF THE NEAR EAST
BY NIALL G. F. CHRISTIE

Welcome to a land of contrasts, from the lofty mountains of Asia Minor to the luxuriant green of the Nile valley, from ageless cities to young kingdoms, from bustling sea ports to impregnable castles. Welcome to a land torn between religious wars and tortuous politics, theater of the clash between East and West, a place where two cultures collide. Welcome to a land of wonders, haunted by stone memories of lost civilizations, inhabited by powerful sorcerers, home to the finest scholars of both worlds. Welcome to a land of opportunities, where the lucky and strong can achieve fame and riches beyond measure, but where the corpses of the weak and the slow litter the ground.

Blood and Sand is the guide to the Hermetic tribunal of the Levant. It details the mundane and Hermetic geography and history of the area, shaped by Islam and the Crusades. It describes the mundane and magical inhabitants of the region, be they emirs in mighty castles or traders in the Latin states, magi of Hermes or Muslim sorcerers, jinn or naddahas. From the Ark of the Covenant to the criminal underworld of Acre, this book provides everything you need for a saga set in this most volatile of Hermetic tribunals.
