Originally known to the public only by his fight name — “Aries” — Hendry piloted the L'Morte to victory, emerging from four fights with barely a scratch. Deciding to quit while he was ahead, Steve retired from competition in 3054 and ordered L'Morte destroyed. However, the lure of the Arena would prove too much, and Hendry was persuaded to come out of retirement to fight for Galahad Stables in 3060. While Steve has never been able to recapture his old success, L'Morte II has carried him to several notable victories in the '67 Class VI Championships.

L'Morte II is the latest incarnation of Omnitech Industries popular Morpheus design. In the '65 Championships, fight fans were treated to a gruesome exhibition of just how deadly the 'Mech-mounted claw on the Morpheus can be when Jo “Silesian Streak” Davis stalked Joseph “Lockjaw” Brendal’s War Dog through the tunnels of Ishiyama, eviscerating the DeLon Stables’ ‘Mech.

Briefly sidelined due to a serious head injury during the 3062 Championships, Kelley Metz was out of action for nearly a year before returning to the arenas in late 3063 and achieving a fifteenth-place ranking. Her come-back over the next few years was nothing short of astounding, as was her spectacular victory over Ervin Rebelke at the rebuilt Steiner Stadium, at the helm of a deadly Ti Ts'ang.

Proven on the battlefields of the Capellan-St. Ives War, the Ti Ts'ang is a brutal 'Mech and particularly fearsome at close range. In a joint venture with Ceres Metals Industries begun in 3065, Omnitech Industries has begun extensive modifications on stock Ti Ts'ang shipped directly to their facilities on Solaris VII. Kelley Metz immediately fell in love with a variant that sacrificed over-all ground speed for Omnitech's new improved jump jets and the 300 VLAR supercharger.

KELLEY METZ

HAMMERDOWN!

Get ready to feel the Rumble!™

L'Morte II will challenge China Doll in a fight for the ages. Coming out of the tunnels of Ishiyama, Aries will be looking to retake the glory from his days piloting L'Morte and knock Metz down a peg or two! Will Metz find her game in time?!

But you won't find this in any Class VI Arena. For this match, you've got to leave the safety of Solaris City and travel far into the Reaches, braving the street gangs and underworld of Burgton. That's right fans, the Kelley Metz vs. Steve Hendry spectacular will be fought in the fiendish Scrapyard, where wobbling piles of junk, acid pits and heavy sensor interference can ruin a pilots day—and career!—before a shot ever lands.

September 24th will be a day to remember for any true dueling fan!

Advanced Commentary from the Solaris Sentinel & Review

William "Eclipse" Wrigley Jr.: Janet, this will definitely be a down and dirty fight. Between the axe and the claw, in one of Solaris' most notorious and dangerous Reaches' Arenas... no doubt about it.

Janet Lynn-Doyle: You're right, Willy, this will surely have some clashes to be remembered. But I believe Metz has the upper hand here.

William "Eclipse" Wrigley Jr.: I'm not so sure about that, Janet. L'Morte II got some unique defenses against Kelley's axe. And despite the wicked increase in the Ti Ts'ang jump capability, thanks to some bleeding-edge Omnitech, she's sacrificed the triple-strength myomer that has made her China Doll so feared in close quarters.

Janet Lynn-Doyle: You've got a point, Willy. But Kelley's been off her game of late, giving the usually inferior Hendry the chance to make his career in one fell swoop. And at a charity match-up, no less. His image consultant has got to be lovin' it!

William "Eclipse" Wrigley Jr.: Too true. And let's not forget Omnitech Industries, which makes out like a bandit, regardless of which MechWarrior wins. Talk about lovin' it.
