LONDON DRIVER'S LICENSE

This prop is a replica of an actual vintage London driver's license.
Print this page on heavy cardstock, if possible. Cut out rectangles above.

Print following two pages on ordinary white paper.
Trim blue cover at edges of color. Use a straight pin or thumbtack to poke small holes through cover at small white dots in corners. Glue cardstock rectangles to the back of the blue cover, using the punched holes as your guide for placement. Fold over corners at 45° angles and glue in place. Then fold over edges and glue in place, making stiff blue cover, as shown at right.
Score Page Unit A on dashed line, and trim at solid black crop marks.

Assemble Page Unit B according to instructions on that sheet.

Sew or staple Page Unit A to Page Unit B along the scored center line. You should have a four-page booklet when you're done.

Glue back of first page of booklet to inside front blue cover. Fold cover closed around booklet to determine proper placement. When placement is right, glue back of last page of booklet to inside back blue cover. There should be some free play in the spine of the finished license booklet.
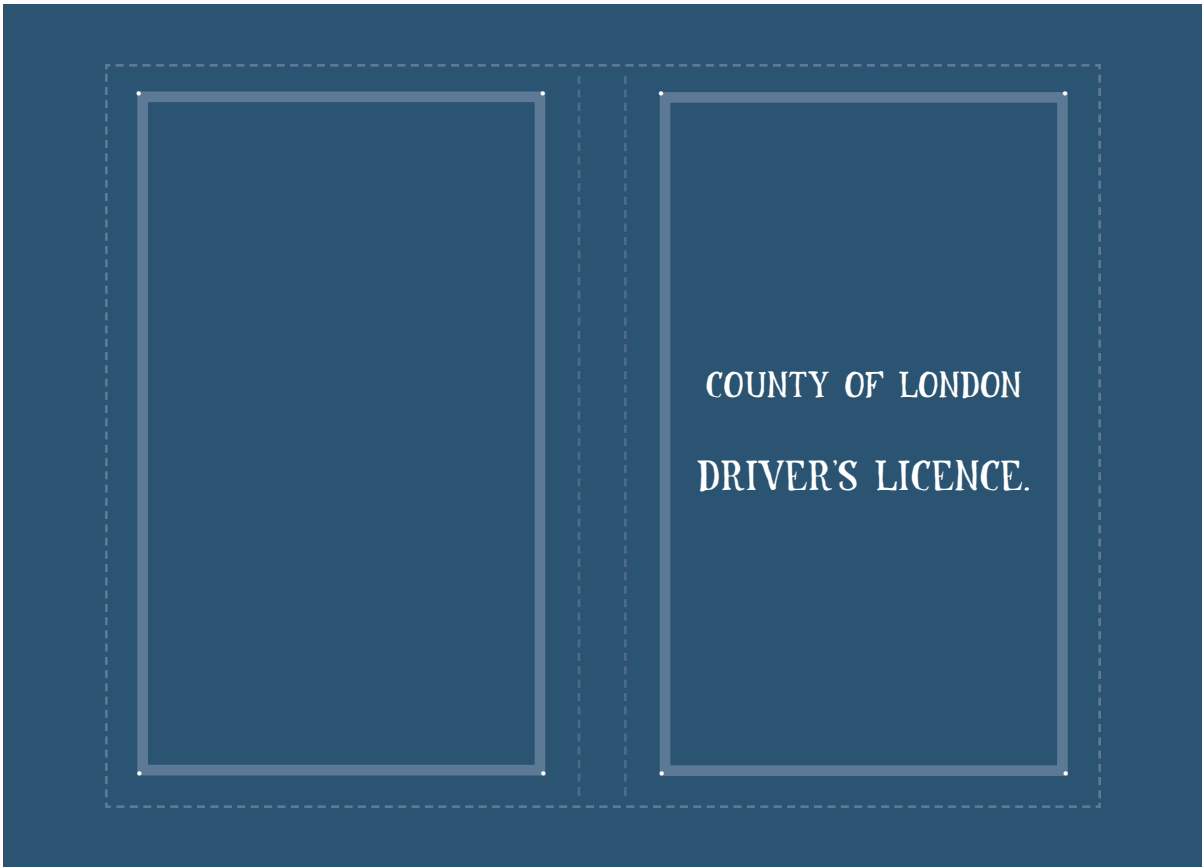

Enter driver information by hand.
