NEW YORK, CENTRAL & WESTERN LINES RAILROAD COMPANY

Passenger's Claim Check

To

Via N.Y.,C.&W.	Junction Points

M 869361-23

Agents will write Destination points plainly and the State also, together with the route over which the ticket reads and the Junction points at which baggage is to be delivered to connecting lines.

Show date and train received at station on face of this check.

NOTICE TO PASSENGERS

To avoid payment of storage on baggage it should be claimed immediately on arrival at destination.

In all ordinary cases baggage should arrive at its destination on the same train as passenger, but this Company will not guarantee such service, nor be responsible for any delay to baggage.

Baggage liability is limited to wearing apparel not exceeding $100.00 in value, unless at time of checking a greater value is declared and paid for.

RAILROAD BAGGAGE CLAIM CHECK PRINTING AND FINISHING

Print on buff or manila cardstock, if possible.

Hand-write appropriate information on form.

After information is entered, fold tag at indicated dotted line and glue sides together with permanent glue stick. Perforate, if possible, along heavy dotted line in middle of tag. (You can obtain rotary perforating cutters at many art supply stores (Olfa is one common brand), or you can use a dressmaker's pounce wheel available in the notions department of a fabric store.)

Trim folded, glued tag along solid black outline using X-acto knife. Punch or cut a hole at the top of the tag where indicated. (For added realism, cut out the brown capsule shape above and fold at the dotted line. Then glue it over the top of the tag, forming a reinforcement. Punch the hole through all layers. And if you're going to the fabric store notions department anyway, a metal eyelet applied to the hole with a pair of eyeletting pliers will really sell it.)

Run a length of string or shoelace through the hole, or loop a rubber band through it. Attach to luggage packed with incriminating evidence. When boarding train, tear off lower half and give to passenger.
