

DOUBLE CROSS

INFINITY CODE

Shunsaku Yano/F.E.A.R

Today is a repeat of yesterday.

Tomorrow will be a repeat of today.

This perpetual cycle of time made the world seem stagnant.

Who could have suspected that the world has been horribly twisted?

The world has been changing rapidly. First the rise of the Renegade Beings, the return of Alfred Caudwell, and now the revival of a long-lost Syndrome.
Known as Ouroboros, this Syndrome is vital to uncovering the Infinity
Code, the key to the next stage of Overed evolution.

But no matter how chaotic the world becomes, people will continue to fight, to protect what they hold dear.

As the world evolves,
so does the Overed.

They now wield a new,
greater power...

INTRODUCTION

Overview

This is Infinity Code, the latest supplement for the Double Cross Roleplaying Game. This book introduces several new mechanics, as well as adding new abilities and items. Some of this new data are additions for mechanics from other supplements, but a quick overview of those mechanics will be given at the appropriate sections.

The contents of this supplement are as follows:

-New Mechanic: Progressive Check System

The Progressive Check system that takes a complicated situation and breaks it down into a series of smaller events. Instead of trying to beat a number with a single roll of the dice, players roll to earn points, which accumulate until they reach the goal amount. As progression milestones are reached, the difficulty of checks and the Skill they are rolled against change.

This system would be used for tasks that cannot be properly represented by a single roll or Skill, such as extracting allies from an imploding building or disarming a complicated time bomb.

-New Syndrome: Ouroboros

This supplement introduces Ouroboros, the Syndrome of infinite evolution. This Syndrome can copy Powers from other Syndromes, giving it an extremely wide range of abilities to choose from.

Other than its copy powers, Ouroboros has several anti-Overed Powers. By taking or dealing damage to an Overed, you will be able to gain various bonuses.

-New Sample Characters

Five new sample characters have been created using the new Ouroboros Syndrome.

-New Powers

Other Overeds also get new abilities. The original twelve Syndromes each receive a new set of Powers.

-New Trait Loises

Seven new T-Loises are added to the game.

The Trait Lois system was originally introduced in the Advanced Rulebook supplement. By sacrificing a Lois slot, players can give their characters unique abilities and traits to their characters.

-New Unique Items

Your experience points can be used to purchase several new Unique Items.

Like Trait Loises, the Unique Item mechanic was introduced in the Advanced Rulebook supplement. In exchange for experience points, players can buy various weapons, armor and other helpful items.

-New Items

The selection of regular Items has also been expanded.

The Sample Characters

The new sample characters have been created using the new Ouroboros Syndrome. Use them for Quick Start games or as references for creating your own characters.

• Infinite Destroyer

The Infinite Destroyer is the typical Chimaera Overed that relies on Melee attacks. Nearly all of its Powers come from the Chimaera Syndrome.

The beginning strategy of this character is to attack with the Infinity Breaker combo. When damage is dealt, use Consumed Sacrifice to gain an Attack Power bonus that lasts for the remainder of the Scene.

• Phantom Mirror

Phantom Mirror is the new Ranged character. Like the Infinite Destroyer it draws mostly on other Syndromes for its Powers.

When you are using Phantom Mirror, use Acceleration Mechanism during the Initiative Process. This increases your [Initiative], which allows you to take your turn earlier.

When your turn does come, use Hundred Guns as your Minor Action, then attack using the Bullet Storm combo. When attacking, you have the option of using Gigantic Mode, but this Power will destroy every weapon that you have equipped.

• Consultor Minor

Consultor Minor is a support Tri-Breed. Its Power set shows the appeal of the Ouroboros. As you can see from its Power list, Consultor Minor draws on four different Syndromes.

Consultor Minor's strategy is to use the Guiding Thunder combo on her allies. Add Healing Water to the combo if a character needs HP. Use Flood of Colors if you want to buff or heal multiple allies.

• Mirage Prisoner

Mirage Prisoner is a <RC> attack character. He is built with a Trait Loises that's introduced in this book. This Trait Loises allows a player to select a Power from another Syndrome.

Mirage Prisoner's preset combo requires an Encroachment Rate of 80%, although you should have at least 80% by the time you get to the boss battle. If you need to use the combo earlier, simply removing Cross Burst from the combo and reducing Attack Power by the appropriate amount.

Flood of Colors can be mixed into the combo to make the attack [Area: Select]. However, this Power can only be used (LV) times.

• Dark Avatar

The Dark Avatar is a Purebreed Ouroboros. Like Mirage Prisoner, he is also a <RC> character.

With the way this character is set up, you want to start your turn by using Origin: Legend. This gives you a score bonus for all [Mind] checks. This bonus applies to your main attack, the Shadow Viper Combo.

Shadow Viper as it is only deals damage and a penalty to a single target. You can mix Flood of Colors into this combo, allowing you to attack any number of characters in a single Engagement.

I'll take it all back!

Infinite Destroyer

You remember the moment when your arm became part of the darkness. You don't understand what happened, but you clearly remember a shadowy person grabbing your arm, and the darkness that spread from that touch.

You lost much when you turned into an Overed: a peaceful life; a body that you are always in control of; friends that you can tell your deepest secrets. All of it was taken away by the Renegade.

Prestigious scientists are fascinated by the revolutionary ability to steal the powers of others. They laud your new found abilities, but all you have to say in return are a few select curses.

But you haven't quite given up. If your black arm can steal things, then it can also take things back. You will get back what you lost. Every last bit, with no exception.

Phantom Mirror

Who said a copy can't beat the original?

You were always good at mimicking ever since you were young. You just needed to see one practice run and you could perfectly replicate even the most complicated of jobs and techniques.

Eventually, you realized how unusual your talent was and how it affected your Renegade strain. You started copying the powers of other Overreds. It came naturally, as if you've always done it.

People around you were left utterly speechless, while you felt yourself get excited for the first time in a long while, if only slightly so. You wanted to mimic more powers, to copy what was inside people's hearts. So you head out on your missions, looking forward to that little joy you found.

Consultor Minor

Let me show you what my little friend can do.

You've never considered your powers to be special. You do have the Ouroboros Syndrome, but your powers are so...plain. The people under your command are more superhuman than you'll ever be.

But you feel that this plainness is what makes your powers exciting. There is a sense of accomplishment to be had when you overcome immense obstacles with your simple and "weak" powers.

Today is another day on the job, and your ladybug partner is sitting on your fingernail. For now, only you know that your little partner is the ace up your sleeve.

Mirage Prisoner

My friend is burning mad now.

Your friend first appeared a few months ago during a battle with the UGN. You slipped up and were being chased by their elite agents. Just as you were about to die, a ball of fire came out from your chest and blew your enemies away. Confused by what happened, you returned to False Hearts and learned that what you saw was an Avatar, a manifestation of your powers.

Since that day, your Avatar has fought along side you. It burns as hot as your rage, incinerating your enemies and giving you pure satisfaction.

You sometimes wonder if the real you is actually a ball of fire and that your body is a prison. But in the end, you do not care what the real you is. All you want is a good fight.

say about you?

Dark Avatar

The world around you is bustling. You open your eyes and you see these little people, these "Overeds." They're fighting, playing, and doing all these little things.

On a whim, you take a human form and sneak into their world. Every Overed you met was unique, and before you knew it you became obsessed with them.

You especially like to touch shadows. To you they are like souls, a window into their minds. Some are weak, some are glorious, but all are utterly fascinating.

Since your first contact, you have switched to a body that garners more good will. You continue your journey in the world, anxiously waiting for the next human story to unfold.

The Cannibalistic Snake

*Feed on the super humans! Consume the traitors!
Sate yourself and evolve into the ultimate being!*

*...Wait. What happens after you've eaten every last Overed?
Will you consume your own tail?*

No, that's ridiculous...

-A crazed scientist who witnessed the power of Ouroboros.

■ The Alpha or the Omega?

Ouroboros is the latest addition to the Syndrome categorization system. Overeds with this Syndrome have the ability to steal Renegade strains from other Overeds and make their abilities their own.

Its ability to copy abilities is the reason why Ouroboros has gone unnoticed for so long, and is now a major point of debate. For the past six months, academic circles arguing whether Ouroboros represents the ultimate evolution of the Renegade, or if it is the virus' original strain. The split comes with how people view the Ouroboros' ability to copy abilities.

One side argues that the copy ability is an evolutionary adaptation. In this conjecture, Ouroboros strains increase their chances of survival by consuming other strains and taking possession of their power.

The opposing side argues that Ouroboros is a sort of "stem" strain that has not developed into one of the twelve original Syndromes. They believe that the Ouroboros strain simply mutate itself into a copy of whatever Power or strain it was exposed to.

Much like the serpent that this Syndrome is named after, the debate over the mechanics of copying will likely continue until more research has been completed.

■ Characteristics

Ouroboros is a very new Syndrome, only revealed six months ago by Professor Caudwell as part of Project Infinity Code. Although still shrouded in mystery, Ouroboros has shown three unique characteristics.

◆ Self-Evolution

Ouroboros can strengthen itself using the strains it stole from others. Much like how the introduction of a new predator will affect the evolution of a species, introducing foreign strains will force preexisting strains to adapt and develop new abilities.

◆ Power Copying

Ouroboros can copy the abilities of other Overeds. Various instances have shown that Ouroboros Overeds can copy any ability, such as Chimaera mutations or Salamandra's control over fire.

The Ouroboros strain responds to whatever outside power it is exposed to and makes it part of itself. Coupled with the ability to self-evolve, a copied Power can eventually surpass the original in strength.

◆ Shadow Manipulation

Self-evolution and copying both require outside stimuli, but that does not mean Ouroboros is entirely reliant on outside sources for power. Ouroboros Overeds can manipulate their shadows and use them in an offensive capacity.

The Ouroboros shadow is not a true shadow. The most supported theory about the Ouroboros shadow is that it is a flattened bodily extension that is being used by the Ouroboros strain as an outside vehicle. The discovery of Avatars, shadows that are semi-independent from its hosts, gives weight to this theory.

■ Ouroboros Syndrome Character Creation Stats

Syndrome	Body	Sense	Mind	Social	Description
Ouroboros	1	1	2	0	A Syndrome that eats Renegade strains. It can copy the Powers of others and manipulate the shadows.

■ Recommended Powers

The following are a few recommendations on what Powers to acquire from the Ouroboros Syndrome. These are only recommendations, not requirements. Powers that are not listed are just as viable as the ones you see below.

● General

«Primordial__» - There is no reason why you should not copy Powers. Some of Ouroboros' Powers require that they be used with a copied Power.

If you're playing offensive, consider using «Primordial Red» to copy an [Armor] negating Power. If you're defensive, consider «Primordial Blue».

«Flood of Colors» - This Power changes combined Powers to [Area (select)]. The only drawback is that this Power must be used with a copied Power.

● Offense

«Consumed Sacrifice» - By damaging an Overed, you gain an Attack Power bonus towards your Ouroboros Powers. This bonus also lasts an entire Scene.

«Starving Shadow», «Ravaging Jaws» - If you're running a <RC> attack character, these will be your base attacks. Take «Starving Shadow» if you want damage. «Ravaging Jaws» and other Powers like it are meant for debuff attacks.

● Defense

«Entropic Shadow» - A quick way to reduce damage for multiple allies. The drawback is that the damage must originate from a Power.

«Mystic Mirror» - If you're playing a <RC> character and don't have any points devoted to [Body], use this Power so that you can roll <RC> for your Dodge checks.

Copy Power Mechanics

■ Copy - Ouroboros' Unique Ability

Ouroboros has the ability to copy the Powers of other Syndromes. By acquiring certain Ouroboros Powers, characters can learn Powers from other Syndromes, although they must pay a higher usage cost. These Powers have a special set of rules governing them, which will be explained in this section.

For the sake of convenience, these Powers will be referred to as "Copy Powers." The Powers that are taken from other Syndromes will be called "copied Powers."

● List of Copy Powers

«Shadow Armory» «Primordial Blue» «Primordial Red» «Primordial Yellow»
«Primordial Green»
«Primordial Purple» «Primordial White» «Primordial Black» «Primordial Void»
«Fake Simple Power»

● Acquiring Copy Powers

When acquiring one of the above Copy Powers, clearly record the copied Power in the following manner: «Primordial Red: Beast's Strength».

A character cannot acquire two instances of a single Copy Power, even if he intends to copy two different Powers. A character cannot have «Primordial Red: Beast's Strength» and «Primordial Red: Dancing Hair» at the same time. This restriction is only lifted if a character has «Endless Helix», and even then only partially.

● Using Copied Powers

Copied Powers will be considered Ouroboros Powers rather than Powers of their original Syndrome. This ruling may confuse players, as it changes how some Powers work.

«Primordial Red: The Lord's Right Arm» shall be used as an example of how a Power's working may change. Normally, «The Lord's Right Arm» must be combined with an Angel Halo Power, as it is a [Skill: Syndrome] Power. However, because this version was copied using «Primordial Red», it must be combined with an Ouroboros Power. Using an Angel Halo Power will not satisfy the Skill requirement of the copied version.

Powers that specifically name a Syndrome in its effect description will not be affected by the above ruling. So even if «The Lord's Blessing» was acquired via «Primordial Blue», the Power will still only give a bonus to checks that use an Angel Halo Power.

● Buying Powers - Limitations

Two copies of the same Power cannot be acquired. A copied Power shall be considered to be the same as its original.

For example, if a character has «Primordial Red: The Lord's Right Arm», he cannot use experience points to buy «The Lord's Right Arm» normally, even if he has the Angel Halo Syndrome. Likewise, Items and Trait Loises like Duplicate (Advanced Pg. 16) cannot be used to acquire a second copy of a Power.

The reverse situation has the same limitations. A player cannot copy a Power he already owns. So if a player already bought «The Lord's Right Arm» for his Angel Halo Syndrome, then he cannot use «Primordial Red» to get «The Lord's Right Arm» again.

● Leveling Copied Powers

Like with any Powers, copied Powers are leveled using experience points. There is no change in cost.

● Max Level of Copied Powers

The Max Level of a copied Power is determined by what kind of Ouroboros Breed the character is.

If a Power normally has a Max Level of 3, then an Ouroboros Purebreed can level that Power to 5. A Crossbreed can level the Power to 3, and a Tri-Breed can only go up to 2. It does not matter if a character has the original Syndrome or not.

● Working Around Sub-Syndrome Restrictions

As previously mentioned, copied Powers are treated as Ouroboros Powers. This ruling can be used to a player's advantage is so desired. For example, a Tri-Breed character with Angel Halo as a Sub-Syndrome can use «Primordial White» to acquire «Robe of Light», a Power that would normally be unavailable to him.

● Defining Powers with Limited Number of Uses

Many of the Copy Powers apply modifiers if a Power with a limited number of uses is being acquired. Any Power that has "Can only be used x times per..." in its effect description is considered to have a limited number of uses.

● When a Power Cannot be Copied

Copy Powers like «Primordial Red» require that only Powers with a single timing are copied. Powers with multiple Timings (e.g. Major/Reaction) cannot be copied by these Powers. Thus, «Primordial Red» and «Primordial Green» can never copy Neumann's «Combat System».

However, Powers like «Primordial White» can be used to copy «Combat System», as they do not require Powers to be of a certain Timing.

Powers: Ouroboros

Ouroboros absorbs other Renegade strains and uses them to strengthen itself. With this Syndrome, Overeds can copy abilities, negate attacks, or supplement their own powers. Another ability unique to Ouroboros is the power to control shadows. With these abilities, this Syndrome possesses infinite potential.

Encroach: 10 Restrict: 100%

Move at super-fast speeds.

Timing: Use after successfully Dodging.

Effect: Take another turn (Main Process). You can do this even if you are in the Post-Action state, and you will not enter the Post-Action state afterwards.

You will lose 10HP once your extra turn is completed. This Power may only be used once per Scenario.

Simple Powers: Common

The following are new Simple Powers that any Overed may acquire.

Freakish Scarring

Max LV: 1 Timing: Auto
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

You acquired an unique mutation when you became an Overed.

Effect: Mutate part of your body into a distinct and unique shape or appearance. This mutation acts as an identifier.

If you're wearing a disguise or your appearance was changed, and you need to prove who you are, you can use this mutation as proof.

Secret Conversation

Max LV: 1 Timing: Auto
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Single RNG: View
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Converse using a sound frequency that only Overeds can hear.

Effect: During the current Scene, you can speak using a frequency that non-Overeds cannot hear. While this Power is in effect, you will also be able to hear replies that are using the same frequency.

Keep in mind that all Overeds can hear this frequency, not just your allies or intended target.

Superhuman Stare Down

Max LV: 3 Timing: Major
Skill: <Will> DFCLTY: Opposed
Target: Area (Select) RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Use your powerful Overed presence to intimidate people.
 This Power can only be used on non-Overeds.

Effect: Target character becomes an Extra-type NPC.

People that are immune to «Warding» are also immune to this Power. This Power may be used (LV) times per Scenario.

Superhuman Ability

Max LV: 5 Timing: Constant
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Expand the range of people that your Simple Powers can affect.

Effect: Select (LV) number of your Simple Powers that can only target Extras and non-Overeds.

The chosen Simple Powers can now target any non-Extra NPC and Overed that agree to be targets.

Superhuman Metabolism

Max LV: 1 Timing: Constant
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

You have an amazingly quick metabolism.

Effect: You recover from minor injuries and diseases (e.g. The common cold, paper cuts, and anything that does not warrant damage calculation) quickly.

You are also able to metabolize alcohol and drugs faster, but your body now requires a huge amount of calories.

Complete Mutation

Max LV: 1 Timing: Constant
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Your body was completely changed when you became an Overed.

Effect: You look completely different after you became an Overed.

When you meet with people who only know the old you, the GM may ask that they perform a <Perception> check before they recognize you.

Marking

Skill: <RC> DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Refer RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Leave a mark that only Overeds can see.

Effect: You can leave a special mark at your current location or on a nearby object. This mark indicates that an Overed was in the area. Non-Overeds cannot see this mark.

Work with the GM when deciding what this special mark looks like.

Shame

Max LV: 10 Timing: Auto
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: 3 Restrict: -

You hide the fact that you are an Overed.

Timing: Use when someone checks to see if you are an Overed.

Effect: You will cover up the biological signs that are unique to Overeds. If needed, perform an Opposed check using <Perception>, in which case you will receive a + (LV) bonus to your score.

Trait Lois Overview

Trait Loises (T-Lois for short) are a mechanic that was introduced in the Advanced Rulebook. For those without this supplement, we will give a general overview of the mechanic, allowing you to utilize this part of the supplement.

• What is a Trait Lois?

A Trait Lois is a special Lois that represents a character's unique characteristic or history. All Trait Loises grant a character special bonuses or skills, but increases the chance of character loss.

• Acquiring a Trait Lois

During Character Creation, select a Trait Lois and record it on the character's Lois List. That Trait Lois will permanently occupy that space. This means that a character will only have enough space for six regular Loises instead of the usual seven. It is recommended that a character only has one Trait Lois.

• Restrictions

A Trait Lois can never be discarded, unless the GM sets up a role-play explanation for its removal.

Trait Loises cannot be turned into Tituses, and thus cannot be used to gain any bonuses.

When calculating dice during Backtracking, Trait Loises cannot be counted, as they are not actual Loises but representations of a character's personal nature. That means a player has fewer potential dice he can roll to lower the Encroachment Rate.

Certain Trait Loises require that a character has a certain Work or Syndrome. If a character does not meet the requirements, he cannot acquire that particular Trait Lois.

No. 58 Demi-Crystal

You failed.

You overcame so many hardships, devoted so much time. You lost friends and gave up love. You sacrificed so much, and all you have to show for it is a useless piece of junk.

You aimed to create the Philosopher's Stone, but ended up with Fool's Gold. An inferior and poorly-made fake. The glory of the illusive Renegade Crystal continues to stay out of your reach. Now you have to figure out what to do with this rock. It may be a piece of garbage, but it's all you have left.

The blood of your friends, the warmth of your lover, your tears, and your life were all put into this rock. Your mind is spinning around in a cycle of hope and despair, contemplating if you really want to use this rock.

After much thought, you steel your nerves and fuse the fake with your body. You won't stand a chance against a true Crystal, but you still have something to prove. It is time to take the fight to the arrogant Renegade Crystal holders and show them what the weak can actually do!

Description

You are in the possession of a Demi-Crystal, a man-made Renegade Crystal. However, no organization has been able to create a crystal that matches the power of a true Renegade Crystal.

These fakes are much weaker and are sometimes referred to as Fool's Gold. What you have is a poor imitation, garbage that is discarded if the scientist had any sense of mind. The question now is why you possess it.

Did a scientist entrust you with the failed result of his arduous experiments? Was it something you created after much sacrifice? Or perhaps it was once a true Renegade

Crystal, but lost most of its power?

Effects

The Demi-Crystal increases the effects of Powers, but puts a heavy strain on your body.

Timing: Use this ability before performing a check with a Power. Increase the level of each Power being used by + 1. You lose (2D10) HP once your turn is completed.

The above level bonus will not increase the number of uses a Power has. This ability may only be used once per Scenario.

If a character with this T-Lois dies, his body is reduced to ash, leaving behind a burnt-out Demi-Crystal. The GM may add extra story background or data to facilitate the aftermath of this occurrence.

No. 59 Special One

Do you have someone you love? I do. Listen to what I have to say. I have to get this out now.

Look, the two of us fought together for a very long time. We never really talk, but we didn't need to. There was a sort of...understanding between us.

The heart is a mysterious wonder, you know? Every time I think about that special someone, I feel this power come out of me, and it's powerful. Way more powerful than the Renegade will ever be.

...So, yeah. Get out of here. I can take this guy.

No, don't argue! Just go!

Damn it, I love you! Don't you get it!?

With you by my side, I can't possibly lose, and I'm going to kill this guy in two seconds flat!

Description

You have strong feelings for a certain someone, stronger than what most people would ever feel for another person. These may be positive feelings like love and loyalty, or they may be negative like anger and hate.

The recipient of these feelings is your Special One, a person who occupies a unique place in your heart.

A Lois with your Special One is powerful. While normally you must choose between the protection of the Lois and the power of the Titus, your Special One can be both your armor and sword. However, if you were ever to lose that special person, the pain will tear your heart apart.

Effects

When acquiring this T-Lois, select one of your Loises to be your Special One. You may select your S-Lois, in which case the S-Lois bonus will stack with this T-Lois' effects. If needed, you may make this choice during a Scenario instead of before. Once selected, you may not change your selection until the next Scenario.

Declare this ability right before you calculate damage output for your attack. You may ignore your target's Armor and Guard stat, and another character may not Cover for your target. This ability may only be used once per Scenario.

If your selected Lois is turned into a Titus, you will suffer a penalty during Backtrack. When reducing your Encroachment Rate, you will be unable to double your dice for your initial roll. You will still have the option to perform a second roll.

No. 60 Living Dead

... You're alive. That's amazing. I guess that's the benefit of being an immortal superbeing. Did you miraculously survive, or are you just a zombie now?

No no, forget I asked. In our world, everyone is the walking dead anyways. Only your ability to work truly matters.

...But deary, it might have been better if you stayed dead. I'm sorry, but your wife...she's moving on. She has a good life, and she has plenty of friends, friends who are cleaner than you. Oh yeah, your daughter is starting middle school next year.

...And your wife is getting remarried. The man's a bore, but he's a good person. Better than the murderers and back-alley shits like us.

The dead are happier six feet under. Just...give up. OK?

Description

You once died, and the experience has changed you forever. The death you experienced may be a physical, mental, or social in nature.

Once you returned to the living, you found that you lost so much. Your family may be taken by surprise or fear when they see you. Someone else may be residing in your home now. In the worst case, your existence may have been erased from all records.

For the "lucky" ones, the cycle of death and resurrection may have been quick, meaning that no one will realize what you went through. You may have been killed in a back-alley by a Gjaum, only to be revived ten minutes later as an Overed.

Effects

Your experience with death has made you more difficult to kill.

All HP damage you take is reduced by 2D10 points. How this damage reduction is interpreted in terms of role-play is up to you.

The drawback of your experience is that your emotions have been dulled. When you are rolling to reduce your Encroachment Rate during Backtrack, you must select the die with the highest result and treat it as a 1.

For example, if you roll an 8, 8, 4, and 4, you must consider your roll to be 1, 8, 4, and 4. The end result is instead of a rate reduction of 24, you only get a reduction of 17.

The above penalty still applies if you double your dice. However, it will not be applied to the second roll.

No. 61 Living Legend

Do you want to hear my story?

Well, I'm going to tell you anyways, because I only do what people don't want me to do. See, you're already getting to know me!

First off, hi! I'm a legendary assassin. Yeah, everyone in the underworld knows who I am. I have like a million followers.

My job has me killing bad guys that have no conscience, people who can somehow live with themselves. One hit usually costs a million dollars, but sometimes, I'll accept a word of gratitude as payment. Because when it comes to killing, it's not about the money. It's all about the heart, man.

So that's why I thought I'd just pop in. See how you're doing. Then kill you.

OK, you're probably wondering how I got onto your super-secret space station. Well, I bought a space shuttle!

Look, I'm famous. I got connections.

...Now then, let's play a game. I'm the hunter, and you're Bambi's mom. When you die, I mark your grave with a rose.

Now run!

Description

You are a living legend whose face and name are known throughout your profession. Using your fame and charisma, you can acquire any item you desire. You can easily get what you desire, no matter how rare it is.

You decide what you're famous for. Your fame may have been achieved through skill and effort, lies and luck, or some other means.

Effects

During a Procure Check, you may declare this T-Lois' ability instead of rolling. You instantly procure the Item you wanted.

Items that do not have a cost, Unique Items, and T-Lois Items cannot be acquired. Like all procured Items, Items you procured using this T-Lois are lost at the end of the Scenario. Use this ability only once per Scenario.

The GM may deny the use of this T-Lois, in which case the number of your limited uses does not decrease.

You may use this T-Lois to acquire objects that have no data (e.g. buildings or organizations), but you must inform your GM. Also, keep in mind that buying out an enemy organization does not mean that the members will now be loyal to you.

When reducing your Encroachment Rate during Backtrack, your roll suffers a -1 dice penalty. If you are doubling the number of dice, apply this penalty after you doubled the number of dice you will roll. This penalty does not apply to the optional second roll.

No. 62 Guardian

"I trust that you'll have my back."

So much for trust. He's dead and buried, and all because he put his faith in me.

The worst part is, I didn't fail him because I was weak. I failed him because I was afraid. Afraid to die, to give my life to the person I promised to protect.

He would probably forgive me, but I can never forgive myself. I will bear the shame so that I will never forget to carry on his will, to protect the lives that he would have protected.

I know he would not want me to live like this. I saw him in a dream, and he was giving me such a sad look. But I can't stop. I just can't...

Description

You have devoted yourself to protecting others. You would rather suffer than to see someone else be hurt. One must either be very loving or very guilty to commit to such a lifestyle.

Your commitment to your duty is fierce. No matter what attacks, be it a man or a force of nature, you will always be there for the people.

Even if you suffer, even if you die, even if your choices saddens the people around you, you are happy knowing that you served your purpose.

Effects

Declare this ability when a character in the current Scene is attacked. Switch that attack's target to you and you alone. You may perform a Reaction check once you are targeted.

Once you use this ability, no Powers, Items, T-Loises, or any other effects can be used to change who the attack targets. Likewise, the damage you receive cannot be passed on to other characters.

Increase your Encroachment Rate by 1D10 once your turn is complete. This ability may only be used once per Scenario.

If you acquire this T-Lois, you will no longer be able to add +10 dice to your check when discarding Tituses.

No. 63 Harmonizer

It's now or never. Time to use your ace in the hole. Once you do it, there's no coming back, no chance to have regrets. You may lose your soul, but everyone will be saved.

As you take a deep breath and ready yourself, you feel a gentle touch of your partner's hand against your back. "I'm here for you. You don't have to sacrifice anything today."

You let out a laugh. In all your worry and angst, you've forgotten about the one person who's always at your side. The one who will share in your burdens and joys.

Without turning to look back, you nod in agreement, and proceed to unleash your powers. You will win this battle, and return with your partner by your side.

Description

You have the ability to stimulate a person's immunities and natural healing ability, but this ability is not used medically. Instead, it is used to help a person resist the Renegade virus. By stimulating a subject's cells, you are able to control the rise of the Encroachment Rate, allowing both the subject and virus to exist in equilibrium.

Scientists refer to your kind as "Harmonizers." Your ability to "harmonize" other Overeds is very desirable, but it comes at a price. Whenever you use your ability, your own resistance against the Renegade virus weakens.

Effects

Declare this ability right before a character uses a Power. The target Power's Encroach cost is reduced to zero.

You can only reduce the cost for one Power. If the character is using a combination of Powers, select only one to receive the bonus.

Once this ability is completed, increase your Encroachment Rate by 1D10. Use this ability only once per Scenario.

No. 64 Shadow Buddy

Ouroboros Only

I'm possessed by a monster right now.

...Don't look at me like that. I know this sounds crazy, and at first, I thought I really was losing my mind, but the monster is right here. It's with me day and night. No matter what I'm doing or where I am, it's always nearby.

No, it's not an EX Renegade, or a Servant, or a Renegade Being. I wish it was that simple. This monster is something I've never seen before. It does things that I've never even heard of.

I can't even completely control it. As we speak, it's struggling to break out, so it can kill you before you kill me.

...Alright, if you insist. Time to set the monster free.

Get them, buddy! Kill them!

Description

All Ouroboros Overeds wield strange powers, but you, or rather your shadow, is an interesting case.

Your shadow is an Avatar, an individual Overed that possesses its own distinct power set and will. They are a rare occurrence among Ouroboros Overeds, making known Avatars the subject of various experiments.

Avatars acquire forms that are based on humanity's mythologies and stories. Avatars may take the more traditional form of a mythological beast, or they may choose to look like the latest comic book hero.

It is believed that when Avatars search for a form, they tap into either their owner's mind or humanity's collective subconscious. However, as with all assumptions regarding Ouroboros, there is no conclusive evidence to support any conjectures.

Effects

Only characters with the Ouroboros Syndrome may acquire this T-Lois.

Select one Power from a Syndrome you do not have and acquire it at level 1. This will not cost you any experience points. Increase the Power's Encroach cost by +1. The selected Power cannot be [Timing: Constant], cannot be an Enemy Power, and must be [Restrict: -].

Treat the selected Power as a «Primordial» Power. This makes the selected Power an Ouroboros Power, and thus can be affected by «Eternal Evolution» and other such Powers.

Refer to Copy Powers on page 4 for more on leveling your selected Power.

When you use your selected Power, your Avatar will appear.

No. 65 Anima Regium

Ouroboros Only

A black sandstorm, its winds polluted with blood, blows through the ruins. The ground is littered with smoldering weapons and corpses. Standing in the middle of the desolation is the monster that is responsible for it all.

The monster stands tall, its enormous body supported by its equally-enormous legs. Although it wears a pure-white mask, the monster's blood-red eyes and feral growls give away its inhuman nature.

You let out a cry of pain as your mind attempts to comprehend how this hell came to be, but you only hear the monster's roar. Only then do you realize that you are the monster, the one who laid waste to everything before you.

Description

The Anima Regium are a special kind of Overed that is rarely seen in our modern era. They are powerful beings who possess a form of immortality; upon dying, they are able to replicate themselves and jump to a nearby person.

People who become host to an Anima Regium acquire immense power, but are also overcome with extremely strong Impulses. They often become Gjaums, and they are difficult to eliminate, as their immortality allows them to continue their destructive rampages in another body.

You are one of the rare few who acquired an Anima Regium but were able to maintain their sanity. Your Ouroboros Syndrome or some other factor saved you, but no one knows exactly what kept you from becoming a complete monster. Only time will tell if the connection between the Ouroboros Syndrome and the Anima Regium will ever be fully explained.

Effects

Only characters with the Ouroboros Syndrome may acquire this T-Lois.

Use this ability right after a character performs a check. That check automatically fails. This ability cannot be used against [DFCLTY: Auto] Powers or any other abilities that do not require a dice roll. When this ability is used, you must discard one Titus. This ability may only be used once per Scenario.

When you receive the Bad Status Berserk, you will turn into a bipedal monster that wears a white mask. This transformation stays in place until the Berserk status is negated. As long as you do not turn into a Gjaum, you will still maintain your sanity even while in this form. However, once you turn into a Gjaum (via character loss or some other plot device), you will be trapped in monster form.

The World

Double Cross

What is the Infinity Code?

■ It is What Professor Caudwell Seeks

After Professor Caudwell made his return, he consolidated False Hearts Japan and concentrated its efforts into the search of something special. Every action taken by the Master Wraiths, the unearthing of ancient Renegade artifacts, and the return of a forgotten Syndrome were all part of Caudwell's search.

UGN intelligence worked feverishly to learn what Professor Caudwell was searching for, but to no avail. The UGN's failure is not due to incompetence, but to Caudwell not sharing his plan with anyone else in False Hearts. It is very likely that the only people who know the plan in its entirety are Professor Caudwell and Central Dogma.

What little information that was gathered pertained to Professor Caudwell's theories on the Renegade's origins and evolutionary path, as well as the projects that were set forth to test those theories.

Professor Caudwell's projects all attempt to realize the Renegade's potential, either by rediscovering long-forgotten powers or developing new abilities. Throughout the intelligence reports on these projects, one keyword was constantly repeated: Infinity Code.

This Infinity Code represents the Renegade's past and future. It may be the key to unlocking the secrets of the Renegade, but what is the Code exactly? Is it a detailed map of the Renegade's biology? Is it the next stage of the virus' evolution? Or is it an Overed that embodies the entire Renegade's potential? No one knows, but it is what Professor Caudwell seeks.

■ It is the Renegade's Past and Future

Despite the two decades that have passed since the Renegade Liberation, very little is known about the Renegade virus. The virus is ancient, yet its origins are still a mystery. Perhaps the Renegade is not even a true virus at all.

The Infinity Code may hold the answers that the scientific community is looking for. It may show us where the Renegade came from and how it may potentially develop. If anything, we may finally learn what the source of the Renegade's powers and what it can potentially accomplish.

The Renegade has already been shown a glimpse of what the Infinity Code could accomplish. The numerous Renegade Crystals have granted unimaginable power to Overeds, while the Shikoten Crystal can grant any wish to anyone who can gather its parts. These artifacts and other like them are all believed to be linked of the Infinity Code, and studying them will lead to the Infinity Code's discovery.

■ The Infinity Initiative

The search for the Infinity Code has been codenamed the Infinity Initiative. This initiative encompasses any mission or project that sets out to discover the Infinity Code.

These missions are mainly carried out by the Apostles - Professor Caudwell's personal army - or the Master Wraiths. However, other Master agents, special ops teams, and Liaison Lords have participated in the Infinity Initiative. The number of personnel that have been assigned to the initiative speaks to how important the Infinity Code is to False Hearts.

The Quest for the Infinity Code

■ The Role of Master Wraiths

The Master Wraiths are the elite agents of Professor Caudwell. They act only on their own will or the orders of Professor Caudwell. No one, not even the Liaison Lords, are able to give them orders. Why do they only obey Professor Caudwell? Why does Caudwell need them in the first place? Those answers lie with their desires and the role they play in the Infinity Initiative.

● Their Desires

The Master Wraiths are powerful individuals, but they were not chosen for their strength. Instead, they were chosen for their desires. Through the pursuit of their desires, Master Wraiths gather new information and technology, which brings Caudwell closer to the Infinity Code. However, not all desires will lead to the Infinity Code. A Master Wraith's desire must be grand and world-changing.

Due to the countless unknown factors about Caudwell's splinter group, it cannot be said for certain if strong desires is the only criteria to be chosen as a Master Wraith, but it is a very common trait among the known Master Wraiths. Cain A. Caudwell seeks to eliminate betrayal from this world. Sakyo Kurosu wishes to separate people from the Overeds. Chiaki Nanasato, the newest Master Wraith, wants to create a "tranquil world."

Professor Caudwell actively encourages the Master Wraiths to realize their desires. As a result, they involve themselves with any incident that has a connection to the Infinity Code. This hints that either the Infinity Code has the potential to change the world as we know it, or the desire to change the world is necessary in order to find the Code.

● The Relationship between the Professor and his Master Wraiths

Many Master Wraiths claim to be Professor Caudwell's child. The ones with the Caudwell surname refer to the Professor as their father, but so do some Master Wraiths who joined Caudwell after he made his return. Blood relationship cannot be verified, but one cannot deny that there is a strong bond and trust between Caudwell and his Master Wraiths.

Considering the age of the Caudwell Master Wraiths and the length of time that Professor Caudwell was missing, it is very possible that Caudwell acted as a surrogate father. But their bond goes beyond the paternal relationship. It may be why the Master Wraiths are allowed such freedom, doing anything and fighting anyone in order to realize their desires.

■ The Apostles

Like the Master Wraiths, the Apostles are followers of Professor Caudwell. However, instead of operating as individuals agents, the Apostles act as a single army.

The Apostles have placed loyalty and obedience to Professor Caudwell above their own personal desires. Many members have developed a cultist mentality, personally swearing loyalty to Professor Caudwell. Some even worship the man.

Many were drawn to Caudwell's charisma and power, as well as to the immense dream and desires that can be felt from Caudwell's words. Their loyalty is to Professor Caudwell, not False Hearts, making the Apostles less of a cell and more akin to a Liaison Lord's Clan.

The Apostles are divided into divisions, each with its own role in the Caudwell Faction.

● The Divisions

The Apostles are divided into thirteen unique divisions. With the exception of the mysterious Apostle Thirteen, each division has a designated role and mission.

Apostle One to Three: Highly-organized combat units that usually operate independently from the other combat divisions. In the event that all three must coordinate for a single mission, Apostle One is given operational command, as it is the best-trained division.

Apostle Four: An intelligence division that specializes in reconnaissance and scouting. They also carry out capture/abduction operations.

Apostle Five: This division handles defense and security.

Apostle Six: Carries out assassinations in small squads.

Apostle Seven: They are in charge of the army's R&D.

Apostle Eight: A support division that provides military medical services and backup.

Apostle Nine: An intelligence division that specializes in sabotage operations.

Apostle Ten: This division is charged with finding and obtaining Legacy relics, ancient items with Renegade powers.

Apostle Eleven: All of the Apostle's heavy firepower and heavy hitters are gathered together in this division.

Apostle Twelve: An intelligence division that specializes in economic subterfuge and counter-intelligence.

Apostle Thirteen: There is no information available pertaining to the members and purpose of this division.

The Legacy

As most people are already aware, the Renegade strain that the world is infected with was originally excavated from ancient Middle Eastern ruins. Knowing this, we can safely assume that the Renegade existed during historical times, possibly for several thousand years in our past. Many powerful items - known collectively as the Legacy - come from this period in time.

The Legacy refers to Renegade items and technologies that predate the Renegade Liberation and cannot be reproduced using our current technologies. Renegade Crystals, EX Renegades, as well as some forms of sorcery and witchcraft are considered to be part of the Legacy.

False Hearts and the Legacy

Ever since False Hearts Japan fell under Professor Caudwell's command, the organization has been actively seeking and studying Legacy relics.

Since False Hearts predates the Renegade Liberation, they are more knowledgeable than the UGN in regards to the Legacy. However, this knowledge was scattered among the various cells and Clans, carefully guarded and never shared with other factions within False Hearts.

Since Professor Caudwell's return, most of False Hearts' knowledge pertaining to the Legacy has been centralized, but not willingly. Caudwell acquired much of the knowledge through other channels. Caudwell was able to discover some secrets during his vigilante years, but the bulk of it was personally taught to him by Central Dogma.

Professor Caudwell now holds secrets that were once the proprietary property of individual Clans and ancient Overeds, and is privy to knowledge that was supposedly lost to time. This has made Caudwell a very powerful individual, and if the rumors are to be believed, he does not hesitate to use it for his own means.

One such rumor deals with a certain Clan, one that shall remain unnamed. This Clan's Legacy was a recipe for a special Renegade-enhanced poison. This recipe was a secret that no one outside of the Clan knew of, but one day, Professor Caudwell sent the Clan a theoretical list of the poison's secret ingredients, as well as new ways to utilize the poison. The Clan responded by sending a team of assassins to kill Caudwell, but that team was wiped out.

The Clan's Liaison Lord denied knowledge of the assassination attempt. The Lord thanked Caudwell for his gift, but deep down, that Lord was filled with hatred and fear of Professor Caudwell.

Professor Caudwell is currently devoting his resources towards the Legacy. Two-Time and other R&D cells, Apostle Seven, and Apostle Ten continue to search for and restore any potential Legacy relics.

The Legacy and other Organizations

● UGN

The UGN has an archive on the Legacy, but it is lacking compared to what False Hearts holds. Allied scientists, national agencies and institutions, and nobles all hold information pertaining to the Legacy, yet despite the threat that Professor Caudwell presents, the UGN has made no efforts to centralize or utilize this information.

This inaction is partially due to the chaotic state that the UGN is currently in. The UGN continues its research on the Legacy, but results have not been forthcoming.

● Xenos

Xenos is the only known organization other than False Hearts that has a substantial amount of information on the Legacy. This information comes from its leader Kyoka "Planner" Tsuzuki, who is said to be the oldest Renegade Being in existence.

Unlike False Hearts, Xenos has no intention of using the Legacy. While the organization does take control of some powerful Legacy relics, they tend to seal them away, hide, or outright destroy relics and knowledge. Outsiders speculate that Xenos will destroy any part of the Legacy that poses a threat to the Renegade itself.

The Legacy's Power

Countless different items and technologies have been classified as part of the Legacy. Although each discovery is unique, they are still placed in one of three general categories: relics, knowledge, and Renegade strains.

EX Renegade items, inanimate objects that were infected by the Renegade, and crystallized formations of the Renegade are considered Legacy relics. Weapons, jewelry, art, and tomes are categorized as relics. They could be unknown pieces from history, or they could be famous items from legend and mythology. The most well-known relic is the Renegade Crystal, which is often referred to as the Philosopher's Stone. In many cases, the purpose of these relics is to enhance Renegade powers.

Legacy knowledge is any kind of forgotten information that pertains to the Renegade. Certain types of magic and voodoo are thought to be Powers that were lost to time or techniques that utilized the Renegade in a unique way.

Information pertaining to locations or ruins that have a strong Renegade presence is also considered to be Legacy knowledge.

Lastly, strains of the Renegade may be considered part of the Legacy. The Original Renegade, a strain that predates the modern strain, is a perfect example of a Legacy Renegade strain. However, there are exceptions to this categorization, one of which was made recently. The Ouroboros, a forbidden Syndrome that was revived by False Hearts, is being treated as part of the Legacy.

The Ouroboros Syndrome

The Ouroboros is a new Syndrome that was made known half a year ago. While it may seem bizarre that a new Syndrome is only now being added to the current categorization system, it is quite understandable given that advances in technology and scientific understanding will change how an ability is perceived. In fact, the Balor, Morpheus, and Orcus Syndromes are relatively recent additions that were created to accommodate the changing understanding of Powers.

The Ouroboros Syndrome is characterized by the ability to absorb and copy other Powers. Unlike the Exile Syndrome, which at best can only mimic the abilities of others, the Ouroboros Syndrome assimilates Renegade strains and becomes one with it. This Syndrome adapts and evolves.

The general consensus among scientists is that Ouroboros Powers has been around for some time, but have been mistakenly classified under different Syndromes. However, this contradicts False Hearts' research. Ouroboros cannot have existed until recently, as it was a Syndrome that was once purposefully wiped out.

■ The Threat to the Renegade

Ouroboros is a Syndrome that essentially preys on other Renegade strains. In the distant past when this Syndrome still existed, Kyoka Tsuzuki and other ancient Overeds saw Ouroboros as a threat to the virus, and thus set out to destroy the Syndrome. They exterminated the entire Ouroboros Overed population and banished the originators of the Syndrome from this world.

While a normal Syndrome cannot be wiped out through genocide, it worked with the Ouroboros Syndrome because it cannot naturally occur within a potential Overed. Rather, it is bestowed upon a person by special Renegade Beings known as the Anima Regium.

■ The Anima Regium

The Anima Regium are a rare species of Renegade Being, of which only a handful exists in the world. They survive by living inside host Overeds.

The Ouroboros Syndrome is the proprietary power of the Anima Regium and can only be acquired through them. One does not need to come in direct contact with the Anima Regium though. The Ouroboros Syndrome can be passed on by secondary sources.

The Anima Regium escaped extermination because they possess immortality. Not the pseudo-immortality of the Resurrect Power, but a true immortality that likely became the inspiration for many legends. Whenever their hosts die, they create a copy of themselves that enters a new host.

This ability self-replicate means that the Anima Regium cannot be wiped out, no matter how many hosts are killed. In order to wipe out the Ouroboros Syndrome, the Anima Regium had to be banished so that they can no longer spread their strain.

Those that become a host to an Anima Regium acquire absolute power, but they also will be overcome with very powerful impulses that can initiate the Gjaum transformation. Since the Renegade Liberation, there has only been one case where a host did not become a Gjaum. The discovery of this host led to the UGN learning about Project Ouroboros.

■ Project Ouroboros

Project Ouroboros is one of many projects that comprise False Hearts' Infinity Initiative. Its objective is to revive the Ouroboros Syndrome and increase the carrier population.

If the Ouroboros Overed population can be restored back to what it was in the past, Professor Caudwell believes that Ouroboros' assimilation ability will accelerate the Renegade's evolution process, which will eventually lead to the Infinity Code.

It is not known when Project Ouroboros was started. The UGN only learned of its existence half a year ago, when they discovered and secured Kuro Ichinose, the only known Anima Regium host that did not get turned into a Gjaum.

■ The Battle for the Forbidden Snake

In the new power struggle that the Ouroboros Syndrome initiated, the UGN is severely far behind False Hearts. Although the knowledge of Ouroboros' existence helped explain several unusual situations and accidents, such as times when a person unintentionally absorbed an ally's power and lost control. Unfortunately, the UGN is still learning how to properly handle the new Syndrome.

For False Hearts and Project Ouroboros, some unexpected interference came in the form of Xenos. Kyoka Tsuzuki continues to see the Ouroboros Syndrome as a threat to the Renegade virus, and she has put forth a plan to once again annihilate the Syndrome.

Xenos attacks any Ouroboros Overed regardless of their affiliation. It does not matter if the person is UGN, False Hearts, or some other organization, Xenos will not rest until the body is utterly obliterated. If death is not an option, Xenos will capture their target instead.

The situation has turned into a three-way war between the UGN, False Hearts, and Xenos. The Ouroboros Syndrome continues to spread, but will Professor Caudwell be able to achieve his goals? Will Xenos succeed in once again wiping out this Syndrome? Perhaps the UGN will find a way to control Ouroboros. The chaos cannot continue forever. Someone will eventually win.

Master Wraith Hexa (06), Chiaki Nanasato

"Now I must ask that you please be silent."

Chiaki Nanasato has been chosen as the newest Master Wraith. Her wish for quiet solitude has grown into a desire to change the very world.

Many question why a mere support agent was selected to be a Master Wraith, but it has become evident that she has power worthy of the position.

Whether that power was given to her by Professor Caudwell or was inherent ability does not matter. What matters is that she now has the ability to freeze the world in its place.

Caudwell's Follower

Morbus the Demonic Disease

"Let the infinite power consume you..."

Morbus is an agent whose appearance and history is shrouded in mystery. Morbus is unique among Caudwell's followers; neither Apostle nor Master Wraith, yet is an important component of Project Ouroboros.

Morbus is one of the initial carriers of the newly-revived Ouroboros Syndrome and instrumental in its spread. Some people believe that Morbus is an ancient Overed who was sealed away or is an Anima Regium. Speculations as to why Morbus is a carrier cannot be confirmed, but there is no denying that Morbus has mastered the Ouroboros Powers.

Yayue "Night Legion" Lee

"By the order of the Professor, you will die today."

Yayue Lee is an Apostle. His loyalty to Professor Caudwell is fanatical, even by Apostle standards. Unlike the typical False Hearts member, he does not have a dream or desire. His is only motivated to serve Caudwell.

Yayue serves in Apostle One as a combat squad leader, but he will perform assassinations and sometimes act as Caudwell's messenger.

Although he has been confirmed dead in the past, he somehow returns to active duty shortly afterward. Apparently Yayue will occasionally have a different set of Syndromes and Powers.

Kaie the Collector

"I've never seen something so wonderful! Give it to me!"

Kaie is a member of Apostle Ten. Her job is to absorb and collect powerful and rare Powers from various Overeds. To carry out her task, Kaie was imbued with an artificial Ouroboros Syndrome. Unfortunately for Kaie's targets, the collection process usually results in their deaths.

Once considered a defective FH Child, Kaie was given a second chance and power by Professor Caudwell. She is madly in love with the Professor, and quite literally so. No words or threats will deter her from completing the work that was given to her by her "dear Professor."

Komae Tatsumi is a former False Hearts agent and founder of the school of Renegade Karate. She now lives as a wandering martial artist, which may sound romantic, but she's essentially an unemployed hobo.

Komae claims that she only seeks adversaries to test her Renegade Karate against, but she just gets into (and fight her way out of) trouble.

Despite her ridiculous behavior, Komae clearly has a hidden agenda. She involves herself with any situation that is even remotely connected to the Infinity Code, attacking both UGN and False Hearts agents. No one has learned of her true intentions.

Kuro Ichinose is a newly-awakened Overed and host to an Anima Regium. He is the only case that the UGN is aware of where a person did not get turned into a Gjaum by the Anima Regium. The UGN keeps him under observation to see if he develops the Ouroboros Syndrome.

Kuro has always been a negative person. His dangerous powers and the cold treatment from the UGN has only served to exacerbate his self-depreciative attitude. His disposition seems to stem his father's death, but only those who are close to Kuro know happened in the past.

Haruna has fought the Anima Regium numerous times before, and each time she was thoroughly defeated. Yet these failures have not broken her spirit. Her inner strength has become an inspiration to the people around her.

Introduction

The Progressive Check system introduces a new way to perform checks for in-game tasks. With Progressive Checks, instead of rolling once to get a high score, players roll several mini-checks to gain points. They continue to do so until they gain the amount needed for the check to be successful.

The Progressive Check system is best used when a single check is not enough to convey the severity of a situation. It should be used to give complexity to a single task. Preferably, a Progressive Check should not be burdened with two goals. Players should not have to roll to disarm a bomb and keep someone from turning into a Gjaum at the same time.

■ Concept

With Progressive Checks, players are collecting points until they reach a goal. To do so, they each take turns performing rolls that get them a certain number of points. Players successfully complete a Progressive Check once the goal amount is reached.

When starting a Progressive check, tell players what Skill to check. You may keep secret the goal amount and Difficulty.

Example

The following is a simplified example using some arbitrary roll scores. This will not show you all the mechanics, but should give you an idea of how these checks are done.

GM presents a Progressive Check. Goal point amount is 9. The GM asks players to roll <Perception>. Difficulty is 9.

-Round 1

Player 1 rolls 20. He gains 3 points.

Player 2 rolls 10. He gains 2 points, bringing the party's total to 5.

Player 3 rolls 7. He failed and gains no points.

-Round 2

Player 1 rolls 30. He gains 4 points. This brings the party's total to 9.

The party reached the goal amount. They completed the check and may move forward on their adventure.

Terminology

Progression Points: Points that players gather when they roll. Progressive Checks are completed when a certain number of points have been gathered.

Progression Roll: A roll a player performs to gain Progression Points.

Support Roll: A roll a player may in place of a Progression Roll. Progression Points cannot be gained with this type of roll. Instead, this roll confers a score bonus to another character.

Goal: The number of points needed to complete a Progressive Check.

Check: The Skill that players must roll against when performing a Progression Roll.

Difficulty: A Progression Roll must equal or beat this number in order to be considered successful.

Max Score: A score cap that limits how many points can be earned with a single Progression Roll.

End Condition: The time limit in which the Progressive check must be completed in. This limit is usually - but not always - measured in Rounds.

Progression Events: Events that occur when predetermined point thresholds are met. These events often modify the Check, Difficulty, or another aspect of a Progressive Check.

Progressive Check - Flow

Like battles, Progressive checks are split into Rounds. Players take turns to perform a roll. This section will go through each step of the Progressive check and explain the rules.

◆ Progression Points

The goal of the players is to gather Progression Points. They must gather a certain amount of these points in order to complete a Progressive check.

◆ Preparation

The GM presents to players the objective of the check. He informs the players what Skill the Progression roll must be rolled against and the Difficulty they must beat. He should also tell players what Skill the Support Roll uses.

Progression and Support Rolls will be explained later. Just remember that at this point, the GM is telling players what Skill to roll when they try to earn points.

The GM is not required to tell players what the goal amount of points is, but for the example below it shall be given.

Example

The GM asks his players to perform a Progressive check. He presents the following information:

- Objective - Diffuse the Time Bomb
- Goal - 10 Points
- Check - <Knowledge: Bomb Disposal>
- Difficulty - 10
- Support Roll - <Perception>

◆ Starting the Check

As mentioned above, Progressive checks are done in Rounds. We will start off with the Setup Process.

● Setup Process

During the Setup Process, the Situation Chart is rolled. This is a random selection of events that changes the situation characters are in. These situational changes will either help or hinder players. Refer to page 62 for more on this chart.

The GM usually rolls the Situation Chart. The chart may be rerolled if deemed necessary.

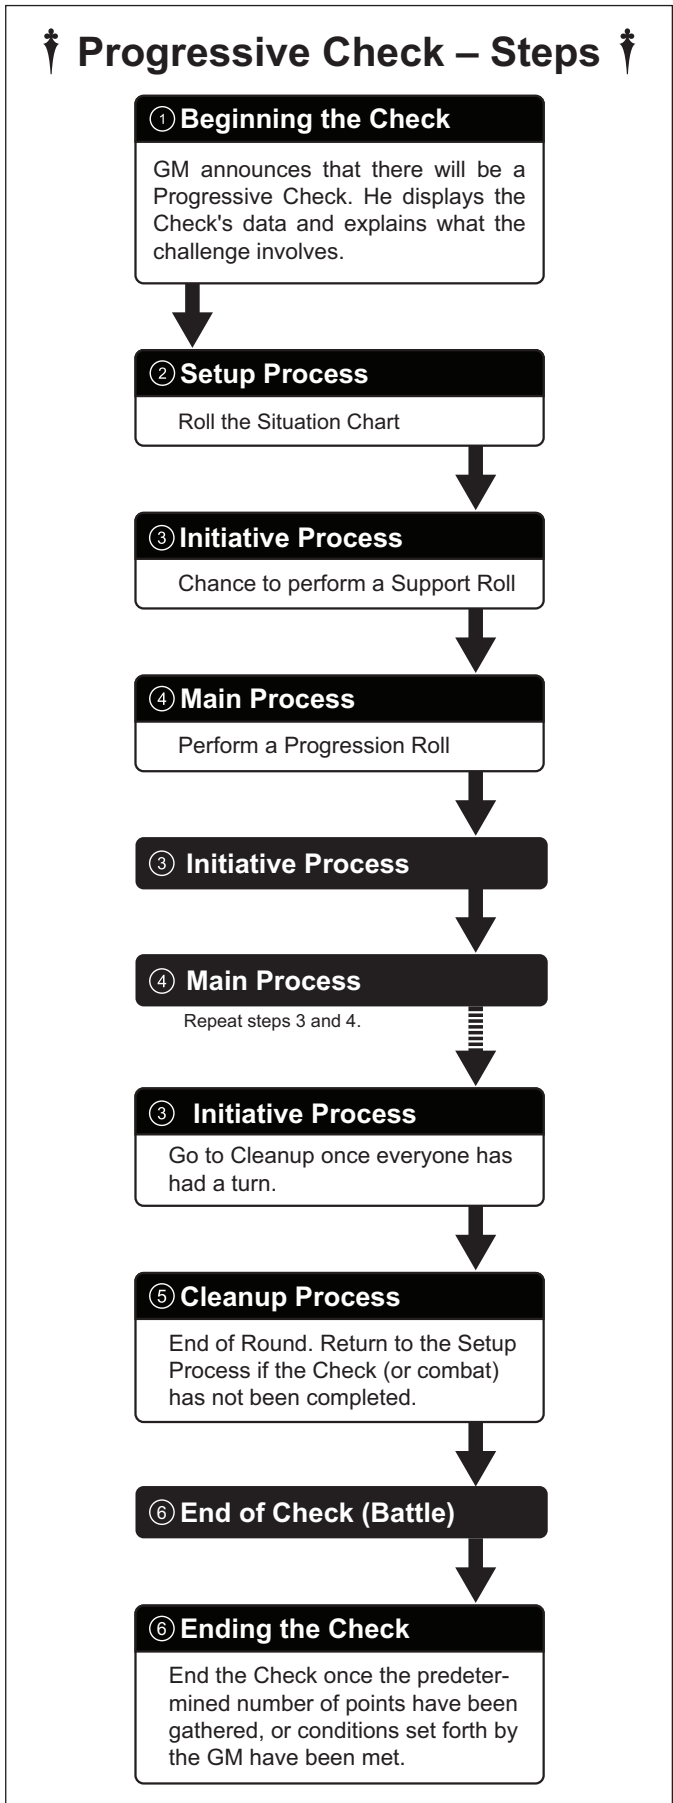

Example

The GM rolls the Situation Chart and gets 72. Players gain a +5 dice bonus when they perform a Progression Roll.

● Initiative Process

Like in battles, characters are ordered highest to lowest based on their [Initiative] stat. The character with the highest [Initiative] may roll first.

During the Initiative Process, a player may declare a Support Roll. This will be touched on later.

• Main Process

Once it has been decided who will take a turn, move on to the Main Process. Just like in battle, a character has a Minor and Major Action. A Progression Roll may be performed using a Major Action.

• Progression Roll

The Progression Roll is the only way to gain Progression Points. It is performed in the following manner:

1) Declare a Progression Roll

The player declares that he wants to use a Major Action to perform a Progression Roll. The GM checks if the character can physically perform the task.

2) Perform the Roll

The player rolls the Progression Check's required Skill and tries to get a score that is higher than the Difficulty.

3) Determining Success

If the player's roll is equal or above the Difficulty, he succeeded and can gain Progression Points. If his roll is lower than the Difficulty, he has failed.

4) Calculating Progression Points

The amount of Progression Points gained depends on the score the player rolled. The formula is [roll score/10] + 1. Round down when dividing the score.

Please refer to the Max Score when calculating Progression Points.

Max Score

The Max Score is a limit that is placed on Progression Rolls. When calculating Progression Points, scores are capped at this Max Score, essentially limiting the amount of points that can be earned with a single roll.

If the Max Score is 30, then even if a player rolls a score higher than 30, his roll will only be counted as a score of 30.

The Max Score cannot be lower than 1.

Anything above the Max Score must be reduced to the max limit before being inserted into the Progression Point formula.

For example, a player rolls 36 and adds a Skill level of 3 for a score of 39. If the Max Score is 30, then that score of 39 is brought down to 30. Calculating Progression Points based on 30, the player gains 4 Progression Points.

Reducing Total Progression Points

If a player fumbles his roll, then the total Progression Points is reduced by 1D10. The die is to be rolled by the player who fumbled.

5) End of the Progression Roll

Once Progression Points have been calculated, mark the increase (or decrease) on the Progression Check Sheet.

Example

Player 2 had the highest [Initiative], so the Round moves on to his Main Process. Player 2 decides to perform a Progression Roll.

Player 2 rolls <Knowledge: Bomb Disposal> and gets a 17. Adding his Skill level of 3 and gets a final score of 20. He plugs his score into the formula, which results in 3 points.

Player 2 completed his Roll and ends his turn.

• Cleanup Process

Perform the Cleanup Process as you would in battle. Once done, go back to the Initiative Process and see who is next to take a turn. Repeat until the goal amount has been reached.

• Progression Events

Progression Events are occurrences that change the current situation. This often results in a change in Difficulty, Skill, or some other modifier.

These Events occur whenever a player accumulates a predetermined number of points. This will be discussed in detail on the following page.

• Ending the Progressive Check

The Progressive Check ends when it is successfully completed or the time limit is reached. If the end comes during the middle of a Round, immediately move to the Cleanup Process and finish off any remaining tasks.

◆ Experience Points

Players earn extra experience points for successfully completing a Progressive Check. These points are given to players during the After-Game.

The amount of experience players earn for a Progressive Check is equal to the amount of points earned for achieving a Scenario's main goal. For example, if achieving the Scenario's goal of saving the heroine is worth 5 experience points, then players earn 5 points for completing a Progressive Check.

Every check performed is worth the same amount of experience points. If three Progressive Checks were done and the Scenario's goal is worth 5 experience points, then players earn 15 experience points completing all three checks.

◆ Progression Events

Progression Events occur when a certain amount of Progression Points have been gathered. These events represent new challenges and obstacles that the player must overcome if they wish to succeed. When these events occur, some aspect of the Progressive Check will change, such as its Skill or Difficulty.

● When Progression Events Occur

Progression Events occur at set intervals based on the amount of Progression Points gathered. These intervals are determined beforehand by the GM. If you refer to the sample Progressive Checks you will see that Progression Events often occur once every 2 to 3 points gathered. However, you may have your Events occur at completely random intervals.

● Effects of Progression Events

The following may occur with Progression Events:

1) Skill is Changed

Events may force players to roll a different Skill or stat. To see how this change is plausible, imagine that you are looking for survivors in a destroyed city.

The Progressive Check has you first roll <Perception> because you are searching for signs of life. You gain two Progression Points and a Progression Event occurs. You find survivors, but they're under some rubble. You must dig them out, so the Check's Skill becomes [Body].

2) Difficulty is Changed

Difficulty may rise or increase to represent changes in the situation. If a Progressive Check has you sailing down a river, than a change in Difficulty would represent the currents becoming rougher or gentler.

3) Change in End Condition

Changes in End Condition mean players have more or less time to complete the task at hand. If a time bomb's clock speeds up, than the number of Rounds before the end are reduced. In the reverse situation, the bomb's clock stopped, giving players more Rounds to completely disarm the bomb.

4) Any Combination of the Above

For very tough situations, a Progression Event may change any combination of Skill, Difficulty, or End Condition.

● Why Have Progression Events?

Progression Events serves two purposes, the most obvious of which is maintaining a tense atmosphere. When the same Skill is constantly being rolled against the same Difficulty, the fun disappears and the act devolves into grinding.

The second purpose of Progression Events is to make the game more inclusive. Progressive Checks represent difficult tasks that cannot be done by one person, but not all characters will have a high level in the Skill you require. Those characters may be relegated to Support Rolls, or have to pass altogether. By changing the required Skill, players will bet a chance to really contribute to the cause.

◆ Support Roll

As mentioned earlier, Support Rolls can be performed during the Initiative Process. These rolls cannot earn Progression points, but they give other characters a bonus to their Progression Roll. This allows those characters to earn more points than they could have unassisted.

The drawback is that the character who performs a Support Roll will immediately enter the Post-Action state. The declaring character essentially forgoes his turn so that another person can perform better.

● Performing a Support Roll

A Support Roll is performed in the following manner:

-Timing and Requirements

Support Rolls can be performed during the Initiative Process by any Pre-Action character. They are declared in the same manner as [Timing: Initiative] Powers. [Timing: Initiative] Powers cannot be used at the same time as a Support Roll.

-The Roll

The player performing the Support Roll selects one character to give the bonus to. He then rolls against the Support Roll Skill. The Difficulty is equal to the Progressive Check's Difficulty. If successful, the target character receives a +3 score bonus to his Progression Roll. This bonus lasts until either the character performs a Progression Roll or the current Round ends.

If multiple players target the same character with their Support Rolls, those score bonuses will stack.

-Completion

Upon completing a Support Roll, the acting character enters the Post-Action state.

■ The Situation Chart

The Situation Chart represents sudden occurrences that make the job difficult. As mentioned earlier, the Situation Chart is rolled at the beginning of the Setup Process, usually by the GM. Whatever is rolled will occur in-game, giving players bonuses or penalties to their rolls.

Unless otherwise specified, these modifiers only last for one Round. They are replaced with a new modifier when the Situation Chart is rolled the next Round.

◆ Rerolling

The GM may reroll the Situation Chart if he decides that the result is inappropriate considering whatever is happening in-game. If the players were the ones that rolled the chart, they must get permission from the GM if they wish to reroll.

● Rerolling during a Round

If he wishes, the GM may roll the Situation Chart a second time during a Round. Such an action may be written into a Situation chart if so desired.

If the Situation Chart is to be rolled during the Round, do so after a character has completed his turn and the Round has returned to the Initiative Process.

● Ignoring the Chart's Results

You may reverse the effects of the Situation Chart at any time you feels it is appropriate. For example, if the Situation chart gives a penalty because players are on rocky ground, you may cancel out that penalty if your players have reached stable ground.

◆ Creating an Unique Situation Chart

The Situation Chart was designed to be applicable in any situation, which means it may not always accurately describe what is occurring in your Scenario.

Instead of using what is provided, create your own Situation Chart. Tailor it to meet the needs of your Progressive check and Scenario. It is more work, but the extra attention to detail will make your session that much more entertaining.

■ Situation Chart

1D100	Result
01 - 05	Nothing of interest happened. No modifiers this Round.
06 - 10	The task requires expertise. During the Round, Progression Rolls done with a Skill of LV4 or below earn one less point. Min. points is zero.
11 - 15	You're panicking. Difficulty during this Round is increased by 1D10.
16 - 20	A single mistake could prove fatal. If the next Progression Roll this Round fails, then the total accumulated Points is reduced to zero.
21 - 25	You're unusually agitated. If a character fails at a Progression Roll this Round, then he receives the Bad Status Berserk.
26 - 30	You're feeling pressured. During this Round, characters will receive the Bad Status Pressure after performing a Progression Roll.
31 - 35	Luck is on your side. All Progression Rolls this Round receive a -1 Critical Value bonus.
36 - 40	You met with some horribly bad luck. All Progression Rolls this Round receive a +1 Critical Value penalty.
41 - 45	All or nothing. During this Round, both Max Score and Difficulty is increased by +10.
46 - 55	All is well. No modifiers this Round.
56 - 60	You're walking a proverbial tightrope. Difficulty during this Round is increased by 1D10.
61 - 65	This is a once in a lifetime chance. Max Score this Round is increased by +10.
66 - 70	You're dealing with a very tiring task. During this Round, characters receive 1D10 HP damage after performing a Progression Roll.
71 - 75	Your chance has come! All Progression Rolls this Round receive a +5 dice bonus.
76 - 80	Unexpected issues have arisen. All Progression Rolls this Round receive a -5 dice penalty.
81 - 85	The stress is causing your virus strain to become active. A Progression Roll this Round causes your Encroachment Rate to increase by 1D10.
86 - 90	You found a solution to your problem. The Max Score this Scene is increased by +10. This bonus is noncumulative.
91 - 95	The situation is getting periodically worse. During this Scene, Difficulty increases by 1D10. This penalty is cumulative.
96 - 100	All is proceeding as planned. During this Round, characters gain an extra Progression Point if their Progression Roll is successful.

■ Creating Progressive Checks

Instead of using a pre-made Progressive Check, you may create a new one from scratch. Use the Progressive Check Sheet from the Appendix.

Whether you have it prepared or filling it out on the spot, be sure to explain the important entries so that players clearly understand what needs to be done.

◆ Create an Objective

First, set an objective for the Progressive Check. This will give some context as to what characters are trying to do. This will help you decide what Skills to have players roll and how difficult the check should be. Try to keep it simple and limit yourself to one objective.

◆ Select a Skill

Next, select which Skill players must check order to gain Progression Points. Previous examples and many of the pre-made checks only set one Skill to roll against, but you may set more than one Skill so that players have a choice.

◆ Set a Goal Amount of Points

Decide how many Progression Points must be gathered before your Progressive Check is beat. The higher the goal, the longer your check will last. Ten to fifteen is a good range to be in, as the average Progression Roll will net about one to three points.

For a more precise goal, use the following formula:

$$2(\text{Participating Characters}) \times (\text{Rounds in your time limit})$$

If you're running a game with a small number of players (less than five), set your goal to be less than the number you get from the above formula.

◆ Set the Max Score

As mentioned previously, the Max Score is a cap on the score of Progression Rolls. This limits the amount of Progression Points that can be earned with a single roll. To be blunt, the Max Score is a handicap that you place on the character that is most likely to excel at your Check.

If the Max Score is set at 30, then even if a player rolls a number higher than 30, or if he has a Skill level of 35, his roll will always be counted as a score of 30.

The Max Score cannot be lower than 1. If the Max Score is anything below 10, then players can only earn a max of one point per Progression Roll. This within itself is not bad, especially if the goal amount is also low, but it makes rolls very un motivating.

◆ Set the Difficulty

As with any check, the Difficulty is the minimum a player must roll in order to succeed. Difficulty cannot be lower than 1, and it cannot exceed the Max Score.

7 to 9 is the recommended range for Difficulty. Assuming that the goal is 15 points and the Max Score is 30, a Difficulty of 7 will make a check last for two Rounds for a table of five.

Avoid setting the Difficulty so high that it requires players to Critical. Your players' characters may not always have the necessary Skill levels, so a high Difficulty will be needlessly tough to achieve.

◆ Set an End Condition

Create a condition that forces the check to end before players achieve the goal amount of points. You want to motivate players to complete the Progressive Check within a certain amount of time. This condition may be set to a time limit or a certain event.

The End Condition may be a time limit, such as "Complete in X number of Rounds," or "Complete in X number of Rolls." Calculate the number of Rounds you want the check to continue and then add two Rounds to the total. If you want a stricter End Condition, only add one Round.

Alternatively, you can ask players to complete the check before certain in-game events occur. Examples of such events include as a rival NPC group completing the Progressive Check, or a certain NPC being reduced to zero HP.

◆ Create Progression Events

If you want, you may also add Progression Events to your Check. Have them activate on the Cleanup Process of the Round when the required number of points was achieved.

You may have your Events occur at any particular interval. You may have Events occur once every two to three Progression Points, at completely random intervals, or once every Round. If you decide to go with the final option, have the event coincide with the Situation Chart and the changes that it brings.

● Do You Reveal the Events Beforehand?

As GM, you have the option of revealing or hiding the Progression Events from your players. The choice should be made based on whether or not foreknowledge makes sense in the situation. For example, if players are diffusing a time bomb, it would not make sense for them to know about the secret security measures that activate when the point total reaches 3.

● What if Two Events Occur Simultaneously?

In some cases, players may satisfy the requirements of two events at the same time. For example, the events at 3 points and 6 points are triggered because the players' point total jumped from 2 to 8. If both events apply different types of modifiers, then feel free to apply the effects of both events. If the events conflict, only trigger the later event.

■ Samples

Sample Progressive Checks can be found in this section on page 66. Beginning on page 116 of the Scenario section, you will find Scenario Starters that include a Progressive Check. Refer to these samples and Starters when incorporating a Progressive Check into a Scenario.

Progressive Checks - Tips

■ When to Use Progressive Checks

Now that the rules of Progressive Checks have been explained, let's talk about what situations this system is appropriate for. Progressive Checks are best used for jobs that either require more than one skill set, or requires a great deal of time to complete.

Simple tasks should not be turned into a Progressive Check. Doing something like jumping from building to building is not enough. It is difficult to convincingly break down that task down into multiple rolls.

Multiple rolls are an important part of this system, which is why time-consuming tasks -such as constructing a building- make for good Progressive checks. The task is complicated enough that it can be broken down into several rolls, its difficulty cannot be properly expressed in a single roll, and it is lengthy enough that trying to work it into several Scenes would be too much work.

◆ How Many Checks per Scenario?

How many Progressive Checks you should have in a single Scenario will depend partially on your players. While Progressive Checks can be fun, having too many will make the game feel like a grind session.

Progressive Checks should be treated like battles. Have only one to two Checks per Scenario. If you want to have more, then you need to balance each Check so that each one is of a shorter, more reasonable length.

◆ Consider the In-Game Situation

Because Progressive Checks utilize the same Round system as battles, you need to be mindful of when during a Scenario you're implementing a Check.

Imagine that you created a Scene where only half of the player characters can enter. Would it be fair to implement a Progressive Check that had a time limit of X Rounds? Not really, especially if the Check was meant for five players or it requires a particular Skill that characters who could participate do not have.

■ Creating Progression Events

Progression Events were designed to stimulate the players by changing both the in-game situation and the kind of rolls that are performed.

One Progression Event every one to two Rounds is the recommended pace. Your events can either benefit or hinder players. The recommended ratio between good and bad events is 2:1.

For extra enjoyment, the sequence of events may also be roleplayed. Using a manhunt Progressive Check as an example, the chain of events that involve finding a clue, deducing the hideout, acquiring transportation, and finally capturing the target can be incorporated into your Scenario.

◆ Make Use of the Situation Chart

If creating Events proves too time-consuming, you may instead use events from the Situation Chart.

Whenever a Progression Event triggers, you may instead roll the Situation Chart. The introduction of this random element will make the Check somewhat thrilling.

The drawback of using the Situation Chart is that Skill will never change, in which case some players will not get to contribute. If you use the Situation Chart, at the very least create some Events that cause the required Skill to change.

■ Making Checks More Challenging

Once you have a Progressive Check prepared, you may want to add some twists that make it more challenging. Simply increasing Difficulty is a quick way to make a Check harder, but that method has its limitations. Instead, we will provide other tricks you can use to make a check more challenging.

● Limit Which Players Can Perform a Progression Roll

Instead of leaving the Progression Roll open for all characters to perform, you may place conditions on the Roll that limit which characters may roll. You can restrict participation based on whether or not a character has:

-A Certain Skill

You may require that a character have a Skill at a certain level before he is allowed to roll.

-A Certain Power

Have a character use a certain Power or Simple Power before he can roll. Alternatively, you can award an extra Progression Roll if a certain Power is used.

-A Certain Lois

Like in the example above, you can require a character to have a Lois with a certain character, or you can give a bonus for having that Lois.

-Performed a Certain Task Beforehand

You may ask that characters Engage a character or object before a roll is allowed. You could also require that all enemies are killed first.

These kinds of restrictions work better if you are combining Progressive Checks and combat together. This subject will be discussed on the following page under Adding Gimmicks.

-Only Certain Characters May Roll

As part of your story, only certain player characters may perform a Progression Roll.

● Limit the Support Roll

Support rolls can be limited in the same fashion as Progression Rolls. Additionally, you could allow Support Rolls to be only performed a certain number of times, or you can completely ban them.

● Warning: Do Not Overdo It

Do not place too many restrictions on your Progressive Check. While you do want a challenging check, you need to balance challenge with fun. Too many restrictions turns a Scenario into work, and that is the last thing you need during a game session.

■ Adding Gimmicks

The possibilities of Progressive Checks go far beyond its own rule set. By adding your own house rules or combining them with other mechanics, you can create a unique and exciting Progressive Check. The following are examples of what you can do modify Checks.

◆ PvP Progressive Check

You can create a competitive mini-game by having two separate teams of players working on the same Progressive Check. Both teams will have separate Progression Point totals, and the team that successfully completes the check first will earn some reward or bonus.

You decide how teams are set up. They do not need to have an equal number of characters. You may also apply different restrictions on each team.

In addition to group restrictions, you may also create global restrictions. For example, out of all characters from all groups, only three characters may participate in the Progressive Check.

◆ Allowing Simple Powers

During a Progressive Check, there will be times when a Simple Power seems like the best tool to use. Going back to the time bomb example, Simple Powers like Neumann's «Ultimate Appraisal» or Black Dog's «Electronics Master» can be used to great effect.

Players will certainly ask to use Simple Powers, and you should consider their request. Judge each request on a case to case basis. If you allow a Simple Power to be used, then allow the player to roll against a Skill that is appropriate to the Simple Power he is using instead of the check's Skill. You can also give bonuses when certain Simple Powers are used.

◆ Progressive Checks During Combat

Because Progressive Checks use the same Round system as combat, you can run a Check and a battle at the same time.

It certainly makes for a more compelling Check. Players will have to decide whether to use their Major Action to perform a Progression Roll or to fight off enemies.

Running combat and a Progressive Check parallel to one another is already quite entertaining. You can use bonuses and rewards to increase the synergy of these mechanics. You can give combat bonuses for completing the Progressive Check or vice versa.

You can also make Progressive Checks an integral part of combat. For example, you can separate your players into an assault team and a sneaking team. The sneaking team could be responsible for unlocking doors and disabling security for the assault team.

Combat and Progressive Checks work well together. Use your imagination to create all sorts of gimmicks.

◆ Utilize Loises

Double Cross is a game about the bonds between people. To further emphasize this theme, try incorporating Loises into your Progressive Checks. As we have already mentioned, you can restrict Progression Rolls to only characters that have a certain Lois.

No matter how you incorporate Loises, remember that they work best when used in Progressive Checks that involve a character. We are referring to checks that have players trying to negotiate, to track someone down, or to keep a person from becoming a Gjaum. The idea of love (or hate) motivating a person to do something for someone else is what brings the game's theme to full circle.

◆ Work Checks into Enemy Powers and E-Loises

Not all Enemy Powers and E-Loises serve a combat purpose. Many are world-changers and tricks. As part of their effect, these Powers require that create conditions or tasks that players can complete to cancel out the Powers' effects. As part of those tasks, you may incorporate a Progressive Check.

● Enemy Powers

For many Enemy Powers, Progressive Checks can easily be used to prevent them from triggering in the first place. For Powers that involve brainwashing, a Progressive Check rolling [Mind] or the like can be used to revert the effects.

● E-Loises

E-Loises can also be set up in a similar fashion. But for abilities that are far more devastating than Enemy Powers, the Progressive Check should be equally grand.

Consider creating a situation where an E-Lois triggers if the Gjaum completes a Progressive Check. This plays into the concept of PvP checks that was discussed earlier. As for dramatic presentation, begin the Check when either the character using the E-Lois or the potential victim is at the center of the proverbial stage.

PROGRESSIVE CHECKS

Use these sample Progressive Checks for your own Scenarios or as templates.

DOUBLE CROSS

Title	Close the Deal									End Condition	5 Rounds have Passed
Check	<Negotiate>				Difficulty	9				Max Score	30	Exp. Points	3
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description

Use this particular Check when a player is engaging in complex and vital negotiations with a NPC.

Goal: 12 Points

Support Roll: [Social]

Recommended for: 3 Players

This Check and its events assume that the player and NPC are equals who are trying to close a business deal. If your negotiations are going to be under-handed or between a stronger and weaker party, adjust event timing and Difficulty accordingly.

Success means that the deal was closed. If players fail, than the other party will not return to the negotiation table until new terms are presented.

Negotiations are a battle fought with words and information. The spoils are profit and cheap prices. If you fail, blood will be spilled.

Pride and profit are on the line for both you and the opposing party. Cut a deal where everyone wins, but you win more. As you exchange words with the opposing party, you may feel a thrill that a physical fight cannot offer.

Progression Events

3 Points: The opposing party is interested in your proposal. Difficulty is changed to 7.

The opposing party is responsive to your proposal. Something you said must have peaked their interest.

6 Points: The opposing party now on guard. Difficulty reverts back to 9.

The opposing party is clamming up. Did you say something wrong, or are they trying to get a better deal for themselves?

9 Points: The opposing party is clearly nervous now. Players now roll <Perception>.

You hit on something sensitive. Keep pushing and you will get a deal that everyone benefits from.

Title	Diffuse the Time Bomb									End Condition	3 Rounds have Passed
Check	<Knowl: Bomb Disposal>			Difficulty			10			Max Score	30	Exp. Points			3
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description
 This Check involves disabling or temporarily stopping a complicated mechanism. In this particular instance, players will be dismantling a time bomb, but this sample can easily be converted for computer hacking, the disabling of electronic locks, or any task that involves tampering with complicated machinery. The only modification necessary is to change what Skill players roll.

Goal: 10 Points
Support Roll: [Mind]
Recommended for: 2 Players

This check is best used when players did not have time to properly prepare. If you give players time to prepare, consider decreasing the Difficulty.

This Check was built to be a task that one man carries out while his allies are fighting incoming enemies.

If players complete this Check, the bomb will be disabled. If they fail, the timer will continue to run. Without any time left to try again, players will have to figure out another way of getting rid of the bomb.

Progression Events
3 Points: Players have figured out how the bomb works. Decrease Difficulty to 8.

You figured out the general steps needed to disable the bomb. All you have to do is go through each step calmly but quickly.

5 Points: A fail-safe system has activated. Players now check <Perception>. Increase Difficulty to 9.

A fail-safe activated. Was it part of the system, or did you trigger it? No matter, you still have to find a way to disable it.

6 Points: The fail-safe has been shut down. Players now check <Melee>.

A cover is protecting a section you have to get into. You'll have to force it open.

8 Points: All that's left is a blue wire and a red wire. Only one needs to be cut. Players now check <Knowledge: Bomb Disposal>. Increase Difficulty to 12.

Title	Sneak into the FH Base									End Condition	5 Rounds have Passed
Check	[Body]			Difficulty			7			Max Score	30	Exp. Points			3
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description
 This Progressive Check is used for sneaking into secure facilities, such as False Hearts bases. This sample assumes that players are breaking into buildings of "average" security. You may need to increase Difficulty if the place your players are infiltrating has better security or is on alert.

Goal: 10 Points
Support Roll: <Perception>
Recommended for: 2 Players

If players succeed, they will enter the facility undetected. If they fail, they will be seen by security forces and will likely have to run or fight their way out. Failure ultimately results in security being tightened, making future attempts even more difficult.

Lastly, if players decide to fight their way in, both player characters and enemies will suffer heavy losses.

Progression Events
2 Points: Players must avoid patrols as they look for a way past the outer walls. Increase Difficulty to 9.

You see guards and sensors placed at key points. Be careful, you don't want to be detected so early in the mission.

4 Points: Players are inside the base. They must reach their target undetected. Players now roll <Perception>.

You slip in and out of hiding places, steering clear of every sound you hear. Right now, your heartbeat may be louder than anything walking by.

6 Points: Players have gotten close to their target. They haven't been detected, but security is only getting better. Increase Difficulty to 10. Player now roll [Body].

You've gotten close, but rushing now will only lead to failure. Stay frosty.

8 Points: Players have reached their target. Now they have to finish the job they came to do. Players now roll <Perception>.

You've reached your target without being seen, but patrols can walk past at any time. Finish your job before you are spotted!

Title	Lose your Stalker								End Condition	10 Rounds have Passed
Check	[Body]				Difficulty	7				Max Score	30	Exp. Points	5
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description

Use this Check when players are being stalked by the enemy. Players must move around the town until their pursuers lose sight of them.

If successful, the player loses his stalker. If he fails, he will have to deal with the enemy in another way.

Goal: 20 Points

Support Roll: [Body]

Recommended for: 1 Player

This template assumes that the player will try to get rid of his stalker without confronting him. Attack is only an option after this check has ended.

This check ends once the goal is achieved, the player passes the time limit, or he gives up on stealth and decides to attack.

When combat begins, place the stalker X meters away from the player. X equals [Goal – Current Points] x 5.

Progression Events

3 Points: The player notices that someone is following him. Player now rolls [Sense] Decrease Difficulty to 6.

After wandering aimlessly around town, you are now certain that the person behind you really is following you. Why is somebody stalking you?

10 Points: The player has an ID on his stalker. Player now rolls <Perception>. Increase Difficulty to 8. Give information on the stalker if needed.

It has been long enough. Time to lose your stalker.

15 Points: The stalker still has the player in his sights. Increase Difficulty to 8. Player now rolls [Body].

You begin to walk faster. By now the stalker knows that he's been spotted. A professional would know to give up once he's spotted, but is your stalker that kind of man?

18 Points: A lot of distance has been put between the player and his stalker. A little more and he will be able to lose the man. Increase Difficulty to 9.

Title	Follow the Target								End Condition	5 Rounds have Passed
Check	[Body]				Difficulty	7				Max Score	30	Exp. Points	5
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description

For this Progressive check, the player will follow a person until he leads him to the enemy hideout.

Goal: 13 Points

Support Roll: <Perception>

Recommended for: 1 Player

It's assumed that the player will not attack his target. If he does, it will be because:

- A) The player reached the hideout.
- B) The five round time limit passed.
- C) The player gives up and attacks.

The last two cases constitute failure. The player will not find the hideout and will have to look to other sources for information.

When combat begins, the player and target will be X meters away. X equals [Goal – Current Points] x 5.

Progression Events

3 Points: The target has noticed the player. Decrease Difficulty to 6. Player rolls <Perception>.

Your target wanders around aimlessly, occasionally stopping in front of a store. He knows that someone's following him, but doesn't seem to know that that person is you.

6 Points: The target is slowly walking through town. He's trying to identify his stalker. Increase Difficulty to 8. Player rolls <Knowledge: Stalking>. Give the player information about the target if needed.

Your target is on guard and actively trying to identify his pursuer. Don't let him find out that it's you.

10 Points: The target believes he has lost his pursuer and is now heading to the enemy hideout. Decrease Difficulty to 7. Player rolls [Body].

Your target is finally heading back to his hideout. Does he think he lost you, or is he trying to lure you into a trap? Either way, you'll finally find what you've been looking for.

Title	Looking for Something?								End Condition	4 Rounds have Passed
Check	<Info: Rumor>				Difficulty	8				Max Score	30		Exp. Points	4
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description
 Players will search for an item or person that is lost somewhere in the city. If your players are instead looking for information or something intangible, rewrite the Progression Events.

Goal: 12 Points
Support Roll: [Social]
Recommended for: 4 Players

Missing people and items are hard to find, especially if they were intentionally hidden. Players will have to gather information and sort the real clues out from the red herrings. One clue will lead to another, and will eventually lead to the target.

If players are successful, they will find their target. If they fail, their work was for nothing, and they will have to find something else that leads to their target.

Progression Events
3 Points: Players must gather as much information as possible on their target's location. Increase Difficulty to 9. Players now roll [Social].

If you're going to find your target, you're going to need information. However, not everything you hear will be helpful. People may not always remember things right, or they may deliberately mislead you. Figure out which leads are good.

6 Points: Players have narrowed down the locations where their target may be. Reduce Difficulty to 6.

You've narrowed down the list of places where your target may be. You now have to visit each location and ask the locals for more detailed information.

9 Points: Players are now close to their target. Increase Difficulty to 9.

The locals have pointed you in the direction of your target. Now you just have to actually find it. Be careful, certain parties want to keep you away from the target and are willing to resort to violence.

Title	Stop the Runaway Bus								End Condition	5 Rounds have Passed
Check	<Ride: 4-Wheel>				Difficulty	8				Max Score	30		Exp. Points	5
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description
 A bus driver has passed out and his bus is barreling through the city. In order to save the passengers, the players drive up to the bus, get onto it, and then somehow stop it.

The bus can be switched out for any passenger vehicle. Events will need to be rewritten to coincide with your changes. Be ready to change Difficulty and Check Skill so that the check coincides with what caused the driver to pass out in your Scenario.

Goal: 18 Points
Support Roll: <Perception>
Recommended for: 4 Players

Progression Events
3 Points: The bus has picked up speed. Increase Difficulty to 10.

6 Points: The players are now right next to the bus and must now jump onto it. Players now roll [Body].

You signal the bus driver to stop, but it looks like he passed out. You're going to have to jump onto the bus.

9 Points: The players are now on the bus. They now must take wheel and somehow slow the bus down. Decrease Difficulty to 8. Players roll <Ride: 4-Wheel>.

12 Points: The cars up front are not moving. Apparently there's a traffic jam. The players must somehow maneuver out of the way! Increase Difficulty to 10.

You're running out of open road. It's dangerous, but you have to either get onto the sidewalk or go off-road. This will put your driving skills to the test.

16 Points: A crash was avoided, but now the bus is heading straight for the ocean. The players need to stop the bus before it goes into the water! Increase Difficulty to 12.

Title	Escape from the Base!								End Condition	8 Rounds have Passed
Check	[Body]				Difficulty	7	Max Score				40	Exp. Points				5
Progression Point Total	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
		21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39

Description
Players are inside an enemy base and must escape. Success results in the players safely getting out of the base. Failure means that players will have to fight their way through security. Although it is possible for players to fight the security and safely get out, it will be very unlikely during this check.

Goal: 25 Points
Support Roll: <Perception>
Recommended for: 4 Players

The current Difficulty reflects the assumption that security is not on full alert. If players fought their way in or spent most of their resources, increase this check's Difficulty to reflect the player's disadvantageous situation. Alternatively, if players took precautions that weakened security, you may choose to lower the Difficulty.

This particular Progressive Check utilizes a special Situation chart, which you can find below.

Progression Events
3 Points: The players found their planned escape route, but they need to check to see if it is still usable. Players roll <Perception>.
7 Points: The players are running down their escape route. Security is more lax than expected, so run faster. Decrease Difficulty to 6. Players roll [Body].

12 Points: The players have reached a 4-way intersection. Voices and footsteps can be heard, but players cannot tell which corridor they're coming from. They will need to hide and wait for the men to pass. Increase Difficulty to 8. Players roll <Perception>.
17 Points: The players have reached a locked door. The passcode they have is not working, so they'll have to crack the new code. Increase Difficulty to 9. Players roll <Knowledge: Machinery>.
21 Points: The players have reached the outside walls. They're free once they jump over the wall. Increase Difficulty to 10. Players roll [Body].

Description
 In front of the players is a person who is going turning into a Gjaum. In order to save this poor soul, the players will have to talk to the man and help him keep a grip on his sanity. The victim will be saved if the players are successful. In the event of failure, the players will have to kill the man.

Goal: 30 Points
Support Roll: <Will>
Recommended for: 4 Players

Depending on the events that lead to this Progressive Check, you may need to increase Difficulty to reflect issues that may confound the task at hand. If False Hearts had a hand in changing the victim, it is reasonable to assume that they may try to stop the players.

This particular Progressive Check utilizes a special Situation chart, which you can find below.

Progression Events
5 Points: After calling out to the man several times, he finally reacts to the players and his movements slow down. Decrease Difficulty to 7.
10 Points: The man suddenly attacks the players. The players must avoid these attacks. Increase Difficulty to 9. Players roll <Dodge>.
15 Points: The man's Renegade strain is becoming very aggressive. The players must assert themselves if they want to get through the mental trauma the virus is causing. Increase Difficulty to 11. Players roll <Will>.

You can actually see storms of power raging around the man. This man's strain is clearly awake now.

20 Points: At this rate the surrounding area is going to be destroyed. The players must restrain the man. Increase Difficulty to 15. Players roll <Melee> or <Ranged>.
25 Points: The man's Renegade strain is becoming dormant. One more push and the man will be saved. Decrease Difficulty to 10. Players roll <Will>.

■ Stop the Gjaum Transformation! Situation Chart

1D100	Result

06 - 10	Your Renegade strain is reacting oddly. If a character fails at a Progression Roll this Round, then he receives the Bad Status Berserk.
11 - 15	You're knocked away by the man's Powers. During this Round, characters receive 1D10 HP damage after performing a Progression Roll.
16 - 20	A single mistake could prove fatal. If the next Progression Roll this Round fails, then the total accumulated Points is reduced to zero.
21 - 25	Things are going as planned. All Progression Rolls this Round receive a +1D10 Score bonus.
26 - 30	You're hit by a roar of rejection and denial. Characters will receive the Bad Status Dazed after performing a Progression Roll this Round.
31 - 35	Unexpected issues have arisen. All Progression Rolls this Round receive a -5 dice penalty.
36 - 40	You met with some horribly bad luck. All Progression Rolls this Round receive a +1 Critical Value penalty.
41 - 45	This is the best chance you're going to get! If the next Progression Roll succeeds, players gain an extra 2 Progression Points.
46 - 55	All is well. No modifiers this Round.
56 - 60	It's getting dangerous. Difficulty during this Round is increased by +3.
61 - 65	You have the worst luck! If the next Progression Roll fails, total Progression Points is reduced by -2. The point total cannot go past zero.
66 - 70	You're panicking. Difficulty during this Round is increased by +1D10.

Skill: <RC> DFCLTY: Opposed
Target: Single RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Effect: Perform a <RC> Opposed check with your Target. If you win, select one of your Target's Powers and acquire at the same level.

You retain the stolen Power for the rest of the Scenario and the Target no longer has use of it.

This Power may only be used once per Scenario and is negated when you die.

Banish Power

Max LV: 1 Timing: Major
Skill: <RC> DFCLTY: Opposed
Target: Single RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -
Drain your enemy of most of his Renegade viruses and power.

Effect: Perform a <RC> Opposed check with your Target. If you win, then for the rest of the Scenario your Target can no longer use any of his Powers.

This Power is negated when you die. The GM may create additional ways to negate this Power.

Warding Canceler

Max LV: 1 Timing: Auto
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Scene RNG: View
Encroach: - Restrict: -
Absorb the Renegade Material that makes up a Warding field.

Timing: Use at any time.

Effect: No one can use Warding during the current Scene. If Warding is already in effect, it is immediately negated.

This Power is negated when you die.

Common Powers

Any enemy NPC may acquire these Powers regardless of Syndrome. Treat these as Common Powers when applying modifiers.

Avoid Danger

Max LV: 5 Timing: Auto
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Your reflexes and gut instinct will save you from danger at the last minute.

Timing: Use after rolling a check.

Boost: The check receives a +5 score bonus.

You can boost your soldiers' abilities and change the flow of an entire battle.

You can only target Troop enemies that are under your command.

Boost: During this Round, all checks your Targets perform gain a + (LV) score bonus.

Instant Retreat III

Max LV: 1 Timing: Auto
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Single RNG: View
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Immediately remove a person from the area.

Timing: Use at any time.

Effect: The Target character is immediately ejected from the current Scene. You can only target characters who agree to leave or are unconscious.

This Power may only be used once per Scenario.

Enhance Armor

Max LV: 10 Timing: Setup
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Protect yourself in some way, such as reinforcing your skin and/or clothes, or creating protective gear.

Boost: You gain a + [LV x 2] [Armor] bonus that lasts for the rest of the Round.

Superhuman Weakness I

Max LV: 10 Timing: Constant
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

You have an unusual weakness.

Penalty: Give yourself a weakness to something (e.g. a Power, substance, environments, etc.). When you are exposed to your weakness, you take [LV x 2] more damage. You can also add on additional penalties, such as being unable to use certain Powers.

This Power cannot receive the Encroachment Rate level bonus.

Superhuman Weakness II

Max LV: 10 Timing: Constant
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

You must have acquired «Superhuman Weakness I».

Effect: Attacks do [LV x 2] less damage if they do not make use of the weakness you acquired via Superhuman Weakness I. This Power is negated for the rest of the Scenario if you are hit with your weakness.

This Power cannot receive the Encroachment Rate level bonus.

Tidal Wave Tactics

Max LV: 5 Timing: Major
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Scene(Select) RNG: View
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Order your soldiers to launch a relentless assault.

You can only target Troop enemies that are under your command.

Effect: Your Targets enter the Pre-Action state. Troops that are already Pre-Action are unaffected.

This Power may be used (LV) times per Scenario, but cannot receive the Encroachment Rate level bonus.

Flight II

Max LV: 1 Timing: Constant
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Encroach: - Restrict: -

Thanks to an ability or contraption, you are constantly in the air.

Effect: You are in a constant state of Flight. If an effect causes you to lose Flight, use a Minor Action to regain it.

Review

Exhausted Loises (E-Loises for short) are “burnt-out” Loises that represents an enemy’s negative emotions and obsessions. These E-Loises confer various special abilities.

E-Loises possess the following restrictions:

-An enemy may only have a max of seven E-Loises.

-Impulse-specific E-Loises cannot be given to enemies who do not have the matching Impulse.

-If the players fight an enemy with an E-Lois, they earn a bonus reduction to their Enchroachment Rates during Backtrack. This bonus reduction is equal to 1D10 multiplied by the total number of E-Loises that every enemy they fought possessed.

-As an optional reward, the GM may give an extra experience point for every E-Lois and T-Lois used by the enemy.

Exhausted Loises

Any enemy may acquire the following E-Loises regardless of Impulse.

Successor of Infinity

Timing: Major Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: REFER

Target: Single RNG: View

You are obsessed with preserving your memories and consciousness. You fear death and try to avoid it by escaping into other people’s bodies.

After using this E-Lois and meeting certain conditions created by the GM, you may transfer your consciousness into another person’s body. Your new body’s original inhabitant will disappear completely, but for story purposes you can have the original personality only partially disappear or be absorbed into your personality.

The condition for gaining a new body must not be easily achieved. They should involve a difficult task, such as sacrificing hundreds of people or finding a specific treasure/catalyst.

Endless Power

Timing: Auto Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Single RNG: View

Your insanity and unbridled greed fuels the powers that you wield.

Timing: Use at any time.

Effect: Select an E-Lois that you or a Gjaum in your view has acquired. That E-Lois gains an extra use.

This E-Lois will always be [Target: Single]. No Powers, effects, or Items can change this.

Eternal Slave

Timing: Auto Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: REFER RNG: View

You have complete control over your slave's mind and body. They are not even allowed the freedom to die.

Timing: Use in conjunction with «Growing Despair» (Advanced pg. 107).

Effect: Characters summoned via «Growing Despair» this Round cannot be Incapacitated. Even if their HP reaches zero, they can continue fighting as normal.

Summoned characters that are at zero HP during the Round's Cleanup Process will automatically die.

Primordial Fear

Timing: Auto Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Scene (Select) RNG: View

Force nearby Overeds to relive the moment their Powers awakened. You find joy in the pain others feel as those wretched memories float back up to the surface.

Timing: Use with an Impulse Check.

Effect: In addition to the usual Encroachment Rate increase, players will receive an additional Rate increase.

Players roll 1D10, then add the Base Encroachment Rate they got from their "Awakening" Life History. The resulting sum is the amount players further increase their Rates by.

Example: Player rolls 6, and the character has an Awakening of Destruction (Base Rate 16). The resulting additional increase is 22.

Oncoming Destruction

Timing: Setup Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Scene (Select) RNG: View

Your insanity drives people towards death. Your presence alone causes cells to break down as the madness causes their biological functions shut down.

Effect: Roll 1D10 and add 1 to the result. The resulting sum is the number of Rounds your Target has before his HP is reduced to zero.

A Round is subtracted from the countdown after the Cleanup Process is completed.

This E-Lois' effect is negated if you are Incapacitated before the time limit is up.

Cursed Restraints

Timing: Setup Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Scene (Select) RNG: View

You place too much value on beliefs. You force the people around you to protect their values, even if the cost is too high. The audacity of your beliefs and behavior drives a figurative stake into people's hearts and the things they value.

Effect: During the Round in which this E-Lois was used, Tituses can only be discarded to recover from Incapacitation.

This E-Lois is worth double the experience points and Rate reduction. Remember this when rewarding experience.

Superhuman Energy

Timing: Constant Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Self RNG: -

Your obsessive nature causes your Renegade strain to be extra active, giving you more power at your disposal.

When you acquire this E-Lois, select one Power that you own.

Effect: The selected Power receives a + 2 level bonus. This bonus may take a Power past its normal Max Level.

Multiple copies of this E-Lois that target the same Power have a cumulative bonus.

Twisted Nightmare

Timing: Constant Impulse: -

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Self RNG: -

You are a clone that separated from your original and developed a unique set of Powers. You may look like your original, but you are your own person.

You can only acquire this E-Lois if you have «Mirror Image of Nightmares» (Advanced pg. 106).

Effect: Your stats and Powers are different from your original. Regardless of what your original desires, you are different.

Thanks to this E-Lois's effect, you can also acquire a different set of E-Loises.

E-Loises: Release

Only Gjaums with the “Release” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Superhuman Foolishness

Timing: Auto Impulse: Release

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Single RNG: View

You can take the violent impulses of man and shape them into tangible power. You bestow your “gifts” in an attempt to save humanity.

However, those very gifts may be what destroys humanity, yet you treat the destruction you indirectly caused as “trivial” matters.

Timing: Use at any time. The character you target must agree to accept this E-Lois’ effects Effect: The target character acquires an E-Lois that corresponds to his Impulse. This new E-Lois will take one space on the Target’s Lois list. If the Target is not already a Gjaum, he immediately becomes one.

You are exempt from the effects of your Target’s new E-Lois, and you can negate it at any time.

Superior Superhuman

Timing: Setup Impulse: Release

Target: REFER RNG: View

You believe that you are best, strongest, and most unique Overed in this universe. Your ego has become so inflated that you display immense rage whenever you see anyone that uses powers that are similar to yours.

Effect: During the Round when this E-Lois is used, all characters in the Scene (other than you) lose the dice and Power level bonuses that they normally get from their Encroachment Rate.

E-Loises: Bloodsucking

Only Gjaums with the “Bloodsucking” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Blood War

Timing: Setup Impulse: Bloodsucking

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: REFER RNG: View

Your blood can be used to make others powerful. Those that partake in your blood become just like you: violent, rash, power-hungry, and hopelessly insane.

Effect: Sacrifice any amount of HP up to fifty points.

For every 5HP you spent (rounded down), your Targets gain a constant + 2 bonus for their check scores. The maximum bonus is +20.

This effect lasts until the end of the current Scene.

Vampire’s Curse

Timing: Setup Impulse: Bloodsucking

Skill: <Will> DFCLTY: Opposed

Target: Scene (View) RNG: View

Your thirst for blood is maddening. It drives the people around you insane, taking away their ability to act and think normally. The weaker of your victims will likely try to drink the blood of others.

Effect: Perform a <Will> Opposed check with your Targets. If you win, your Targets receive the Bad Status Pressure.

Once this E-Lois is used, you will repeat the above effect and Opposed Check during the Setup Process of each Round.

This E-Lois’ effect and cycle of Opposed Checks will cease at the end of the current Scene.

E-Loises: Hunger

Only Gjaums with the “Hunger” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Glutton’s Stomach

Timing: Auto Impulse: Hunger
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: REFER RNG: View
Consume the world. Even large buildings will fit into your stomach.

When you use this E-Lois, the Scene’s location becomes the inside of your body. You can make the location change obvious, or completely unnoticeable.

When this change occurs, you may start a new Scene instead of continuing with the current one. The Scene may be inside your physical body or inside your mind.

While this E-Lois is in effect, if a character other than yourself attacks you, their accuracy check receives a -2 dice penalty. Every character other than you will receive 2D10 damage during each Round’s Cleanup Process.

Immediately negate this E-Lois if you are Incapacitated at least once.

Preta’s Banquet

Timing: Constant Impulse: Hunger
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Digest a person and make his life force your own. All intelligent life is nothing more than your prey.

Effect: The E-Lois «Depths of Hunger» (Advanced pg. 109) receives the following additional effect: +50 to your Current and Max HP.

The above effect is cumulative and applies to every copy of «Depths of Hunger» you have.

E-Loises: Slaughter

Only Gjaums with the “Slaughter” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Death Machine

Timing: Major Impulse: Slaughter
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: REFER RNG: View
Use humanity’s malicious hate to exterminate entire populations of people.

When you use this E-Lois, select one group of people, be it a nation or an organization like the UGN.

The selected group will be annihilated at the beginning of the Ending Phase. The GM decides how the group will be annihilated.

This E-Lois cannot be used to kill off individuals. Player characters cannot be directly harmed. The GM may allow some NPCs to survive.

Murderous Circle

Timing: Setup Impulse: Slaughter
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: REFER RNG: View
Your Impulse creates a confined area that brings about the death all inhabitants within it. This special area is merciless, indiscriminate, and will kill before you even react. The places you traverse will become barren and dead pieces of land.

Effect: Every character other than you will receive 2D10 damage during each Round’s Cleanup Process. This damage can Incapacitate characters, but cannot kill them.

This E-Lois’ effect only lasts for the current Scene.

E-Loises: Destruction

Only Gjaums with the “Destruction” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Malicious Explosion

Timing: Auto Impulse: Destruction
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Scene RNG: View
Your Impulse will unleash destructive energy when you die.

Timing: Use when you are Incapacitated.

Effect: All characters in the current Scene receive 3D10 damage. This damage cannot be Guarded or Reacted against, but characters may Cover others. If an Extra-NPC is not Covered, he will instantly die.

You die when this E-Lois is used.

System Down

Timing: Setup Impulse: Destruction
Skill: <Will> DFCLTY: Opposed
Target: Scene (Select) RNG: View
Your need for destruction and power frightens even the Renegade virus. Strains that come in contact with your obsession will temporarily stop functioning properly.

Effect: Select a Timing, then perform a <Will> Opposed Check with your Target. You cannot select the Timings Constant and Major.

If you win, then for the remainder of the Round the Target cannot use Powers that have the Timing you selected. The Target can remove this penalty by discarding a Titus.

E-Loises: Torture

Only Gjaums with the “Torture” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Excruciating Curse

Timing: Setup Impulse: Torture
Skill: <Will> DFCLTY: Opposed
Target: Scene (Select) RNG: View
Make people feel the pain of your defeat. Their suffering will heal you, allowing you to rise up once more. The more people suffer, the more of that wondrous life force will flow back into you.

Timing: Use when you are Incapacitated.

Effect: Perform a <Will> Check with your Targets. The Targets suffer 1D10 damage if they lose.

If at least once character suffers damage from the above Opposed Check, you immediately recover from Incapacitation. You also recover HP equal to the number of damaged characters multiplied by ten.

Sadistic Ten

Timing: Auto Impulse: Torture
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Torturing others excites and motivates you. You think of yourself as a musician, and humans are your instruments. It is with their screams that you create your music.

Timing: This E-Lois can only be used if you roll at least one 10 during your damage roll.

Effect: Recover HP equal to the number of tens you rolled multiplied by 10.

For example, if you rolled “10, 10, 7, 4, 1” during damage calculation, you gain 20HP.

E-Loises: Distaste

Only Gjaums with the “Distaste” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Wall of Rejection

Timing: Constant Impulse: Distaste
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
Your disgust and rejection form a protective physical barrier, a representation of the walls around your heart.

Effect: Damage that is 30 points or less is completely negated. Damage 31 and above is applied as usual.

If you take damage, this E-Lois is immediately negated and cannot be reactivated until the next Scene.

For every copy of this E-Lois you have, increase the required damage threshold by +30. For example, if you have two copies of this E-Lois, then any damage that is 60 points or below is completely negated.

Infectious Distrust

Timing: Setup Impulse: Distaste
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Scene (Select) RNG: View
Break down a person’s compassion with mistrust and hate. Seeing someone willing to protect others disgusts you, and you feel a dark joy when you destroy a person’s compassion. But perhaps your disposition comes from a need for recognition.

Effect: During the current Round, characters that Cover others from your attacks must increase their Encroachment Rate by 1D10 when your turn ends.

E-Loises: Battle Lust

Only Gjaums with the “Battle Lust” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Immortal Hero

Timing: Constant Impulse: Battle Lust
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
After surviving unimaginable battles, you have gained immortality akin to what mythological heroes had. You are now immune to certain attacks.

When acquiring this E-Lois, select one Base stat. Record this E-Lois in the following manner: «Immortal Hero: Body».

Effect: Damage from any attack that utilizes your selected stat is negated.

When acquiring this E-Lois, you must create conditions that dictate how your invincibility is maintained and how it may be circumvented.

Examples of vulnerability include being attacked by a character who has a S-Lois with you, having a certain item destroyed, or being hit by a specific attack.

Death to the Vanquished

Timing: Constant Impulse: Battle Lust
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Self RNG: Close
You give no quarter to the defeated. You will not leave them with anything, and you certainly will not give them a chance to exact vengeance.

Timing: Use when a character you Incapacitated tries to use an effect (Power or Titus) to revive himself.

Effect: Until the end of the current battle, all checks you perform gain a +1 dice bonus. Add another die to your bonus whenever a character revives himself.

E-Loises: Delusions

Only Gjaums with the “Delusions” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Heart Bomb

Timing: Major Impulse: Delusions

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Single RNG: Close

Those who see what goes on in your mind will lose their sanity. Your view of the world is so twisted and removed from reality that merely trying to comprehend it will drive a person mad.

This E-Lois can only target Extras.

Effect: Your target will cease all mental functions and become your puppet.

If someone wishes to free the Target, they must fulfill certain conditions that are set forth by the GM. Examples of conditions include forming a Lois, performing a <Negotiation> check, or using a specific Power. You will immediately know when your control has been broken.

Magical ★ Request

Timing: Auto Impulse: Delusions

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Self RNG: Close

Your delusions are powerful enough to warp reality and create an item out of thin air. Dreams do come true if you believe in them. In your case, quite literally so. Who needs hard work or effort when you can just pray and get what you want?

Timing: Use at any time.

Effect: You immediately acquire and/or equip one Item of your choice.

You can select restricted Items, such as T-Lois or Syndrome Items. Your chosen Item will disappear once the current Scene ends.

E-Loises: Self-Mutilation

Only Gjaums with the “Self-Mutilation” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Death Wish

Timing: Auto Impulse: Self-Mutilation

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Refer RNG: -

You seek death. You admire it, even love it. Every day, you sharpen your blade, refining it until it guarantees death. Eventually, you will finally “free” yourself and others from the pain of this world.

Timing: Use in conjunction with «Blade of Mortification» (Advanced pg. 112).

Effect: The damage caused «Blade of Mortification» increases by +2D10.

Death is Sweet

Timing: Constant

Impulse: Self-Mutilation

Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto

Target: Self RNG: Close

You find joy in pain, and you try to it with others, but your happiness is another person’s agony. There will be no reconciliation between your differing views on pain, and those that see you writhe in joy will suffer great mental distress.

Effect: Any character that deals damage to you must increase his Encroachment Rate by +3.

E-Loises: Fear

Only Gjaums with the “Fear” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Clingy Neighbor

Timing: Initiative Impulse: Fear
Skill: <Will> DFCLTY: Opposed
Target: Area (Select) RNG: View
Your fear of abandonment is strong, and is changing the people around you. Their legs buckle, their hands shake, and they become extremely attached to their friends.

Effect: Perform a <Will> Opposed check with your Target. If your Target loses, then for the remainder of the Round he cannot Move or Dash.

Targets can still be moved via Powers or effects like «Blow Away» (Core pg. 142)

Darkness’ Cry

Timing: Initiative Impulse: Fear
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Scene RNG: View
Your fear of being alone forcefully draws people to your side. No matter how far away they are, people who hear the cries of your heart will gather before you, where they can be easily controlled by you.

Effect: When this E-Lois is used, all characters in the current Scene moved into your Engagement.

It does not matter where they are, what Bad Statuses they have, or how physically impossible it is, every character will be teleported to your side.

E-Loises: Hatred

Only Gjaums with the “Hatred” Impulse may acquire the following E-Loises.

Hidden Hatred

Timing: Major Impulse: Hatred
Skill: <Will> DFCLTY: Opposed
Target: Single RNG: View
Plant a burning hatred into the depths of a person’s heart.

Effect: Perform a <Will> Opposed check with your Target. If you win, your Target receives the Bad Status Hatred. You determine Hatred’s target, but you cannot make the Target hate himself.

This particular Hatred cannot be negated via normal means, and it carries over to new Scenes.

In order to negate this Hatred, the Target must meet conditions that the GM sets forth. Examples of such conditions include creating a Lois with Hatred’s target, or Incapacitating the character who used this E-Lois.

Springtime for Hell

Timing: Initiative Impulse: Hatred
Skill: - DFCLTY: Auto
Target: Scene RNG: View
Cause a riot and then escape in the commotion. Everyone has hatred, so use it to your advantage.

Effect: Nearby civilians become powerful and belligerent, and will hurt every character in this Scene. Every character including yourself will receive 2D10 damage, but you have the option of leaving the Scene and avoiding damage once you have used this E-Lois.

The rioters will come to their senses after the 2D10 damage has been applied. They will not remember what they did, and will just leave the area.

ENEMY CHARACTERS

DOUBLE CROSS

The following are additional pre-made enemies that the GM can use as obstacles against the players. Refer to page 377 of the Core Rulebook for the Enemy Data legend. Note that for the Power list of all Renegade Being enemies, «Humanity's Neighbor» has been omitted, as it is a Power that all Renegade Beings inherently possess.

Scenarios

Double Cross

Venomous Hate

Pre-Game

Scenario Data

Recommended number of players: 3 to 5.

Recommended PC growth: 15 to 20 pts.spent.

Play time: 3 to 4 hours.

• Stage

This Scenario takes place in an abandoned False Hearts laboratory that is hidden away in the mountains.

• Story

False Hearts agent Iwao "Grim Reaper" Sagae hated people, so much so that he wished for humanity's extinction. His obsessions, coupled with the power of the newly-revived Ouroboros Syndrome, produced a young girl named Renee.

Renee is a Renegade Being who can produce a powerful poison that destroys anyone and anything it comes in contact with. However, Renee is not developed enough to control her powers. To help Renee develop control, Sagae has been giving Renee the powers of other Overeds to absorb.

PC1, an Ouroboros Overed, is the latest victim to be captured by Sagae. Upon PC1's capture, Sagae put his plans for human eradication into motion.

The goal of this Scenario is to defeat Sagae, put an end to his plans, and rescue Renee.

Trailer

One man hated humans, so much so that he wished to wipe them from the face of this earth.

When a girl who is called the Infinity Code is sacrificed, the world will be drowned in burning poison.

Double Cross – Venomous Hate

Welcome to Double Cross. This is the world of traitors.

■ Character Creation

Pass out handouts or let the players choose which one they want to use.

If you have fewer than five players, use the handouts with the lower player numbers, as they are more integral to the story.

● Quick Start

The following five sample characters are recommended for this Scenario:

- PC1: Infinite Destroyer (Infinity Code Pg. vii)
- PC2: Speeding Bullets (Core Rulebook Pg. 31)
- PC3: The Idealist (Core Rulebook Pg. 37)
- PC4: Evergreen Apostle (Core Rulebook Pg. 35)
- PC5: Ruby Eyes (Core Rulebook Pg. 55)

● Construction

This story was written under the assumption that PC1 has the Ouroboros Syndrome. For the purpose of this story, it is strongly recommended that only PC1 acquires the Ouroboros Syndrome.

■ Loises between PCs

Form Loises between PCs in the following order:

PC1 → PC2 → PC3 → PC4 → PC5 → PC1

ROC the Emotions for these Loises. Work with the players if they need help deciding on what emotions to write in.

■ Trait Loises

Please refer to page 27 for the rules regarding Trait Loises. If players are using the Quick Start sample characters and want to use Trait Loises, have them refer to page 3 of the Advanced Rulebook and take the Trait Lois that matches their character.

Since Trait Loises do not play a role in this Scenario’s story, players making characters from scratch may choose any Trait Lois they prefer (assuming that the GM allows Trait Loises to be used).

■ Progressive Check

A Progressive Check is written into this Scenario. Please prepare the Progressive Check sheet.

Opening Phase

■ Scene 1: Destruction (Master)

● Description

The Scenario opens with a fight between Eiji Takasu and Iwao Sagae. Sagae demands to know where the Infinity Code is, but Takasu refuses to answer. Sagae attacks Takasu, who then retreats despite being injured.

The "Infinity Code" that Iwao Sagae is referring to is Renee. Although the true Infinity Code is not a single object or being, Sagae will always refer to Renee as the Infinity Code. Remember this when roleplaying Sagae.

● Setting

In a hallway of a long-abandoned False Hearts laboratory, a False Hearts agent and an UGN agent are in a standoff. The hallway is dark and littered with rubble.

The False Hearts agent, whose eyes are sharp and piercing like a snake, is the first to speak. "Where's the Infinity Code?"

● Dialogue: Iwao Sagae and Eiji Takasu's Conversation

"I don't want to talk, especially to someone who's planning genocide."

"...So you've been through my research. Fine. If you won't talk, then you can just die!" (Attacks using «Black Hammer»)

● Dialogue: Iwao Sagae (after Eiji retreats)

"The bastard ran..."

"I don't need these problems right now, not when the project's in the final phase." (Sends out a bunch of Gjaums)

● Conclusion

After Takasu retreats, Sagae sends his Gjaum minions out to search the laboratory for both Takasu and Renee.

■ Scene 2: A Mysterious Girl (PC1)

● Description

PC1 wakes up in a room within the False Hearts laboratory. He recalls that he was attacked and kidnapped on his way home. PC1's kidnapper is Iwao Sagae, but PC1 will not know this as he was attacked from behind.

While PC1 is searching the room, Renee comes in from the room's air duct. She approaches PC1 with wide-eyed curiosity, and then introduces herself as a Renegade Being and the "Infinity Code."

Iwao Sagae cannot enter this Scene. He will be away looking for both Takasu and Renee, thus giving ample time for PC1 to wake up and talk with Renee.

● Setting

You wake up to a throbbing pain in the back of your head. You take in your unfamiliar surroundings and come to the conclusion that you're in an abandoned building of sorts. Thinking back, you remember being hit on the back of the head by someone. You realize that you were knocked out and kidnapped.

● Dialogue: Renee

(Falls from the air duct) "Ow! That hurt! ...Are you a human? A real human?"

"My name is...Renee!"

"Actually, my name is "Infinity Code," but I don't like it. It's so long, and not cute."

"Renee's short for Renegade. Because I'm a Renegade Being. Renegade, Renee. Get it?"

"OK, I told you my name, so tell me yours. Who are you?"

"OK, PC1 it is. What are you doing here?"

"Me? My creator dragged me here. He's this big scary guy named Sagae."

"But then this nice guy rescued me and..." (Gjaums breaks into the room)

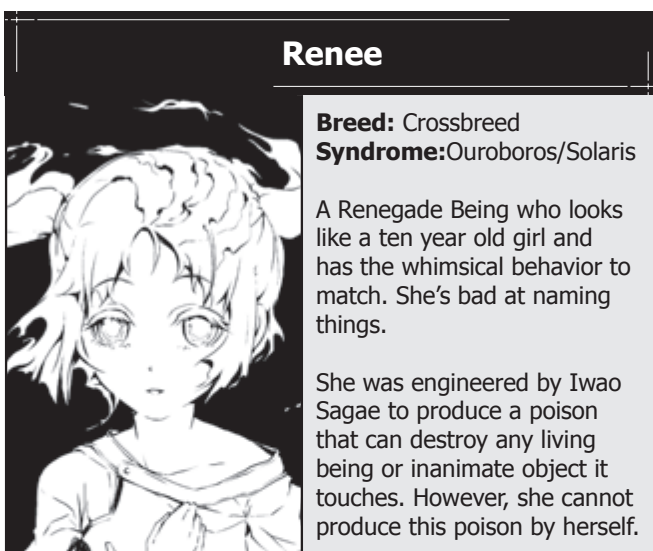

"It's Sagae's guys! Better stay away. They're mean."

"They're looking our way! They're coming for us! Run! Run!"

● Conclusion

Once Renee and PC1 get acquitted, have a swarm of Gjaums barge into the room and attack. These are the same Gjaums Sagae sent out to search for Renee at the end of Scene 1. Treat these Gjaums as Extra NPCs rather than actual enemies with data.

There are too many for PC1 to handle alone, forcing him to escape with Renee. End the Scene.

■ Scene 3: The Seeds of Disaster (PC5)

● Description

Kyoka Tsuzuki will ask PC5 to prevent the Infinity Code from activating. She will tell PC5 that all of humanity – both Overeds and humans – will be eradicated if Sagae succeeds.

● Setting

You are walking the streets of downtown, observing the humans as they interact with one another. A young girl appears by your side and begins walking with you. You immediately recognize her as Kyoka Tsuzuki, leader of Xenos.

● Dialogue: Kyoka Tsuzuki

"I have a new plan that I want you to undertake."

"A man named Iwao Sagae intends to use a piece of the Infinity Code to exterminate the human race."

"If our people are to advance any further, we will need the humans."

(When asked what the Infinity Code is) "What you will face is a being that was refined from the very essence of the Renegade. ...It's a weapon, my friend. That is all you need to know, at least for now."

"Please, stop Iwao Sagae."

● Conclusion

Once PC5 accepts the job, Kyoka will divulge the location of Sagae's laboratory and leave. End the Scene once PC5 starts heading out to the laboratory.

■ Scene 4: A Dangerous Man (PC3)

This Scene starts with a flashback to PC3's first encounter with Iwao Sagae.

PC3 arrived at a mountain village, just in time to see Iwao Sagae massacre the villagers. Sagae talked about his hatred of humanity, and killed a villager to underscore his determination. When PC3 attempted to stop the violence, Sagae fought back.

End the flashback when the two characters are locked in combat, then move on to Setting 2.

● Setting 1

You think back to the time you fought the False Hearts agent known as Grim Reaper. You remember that small village, and how it was turned into a living hell by that man. You remember that snake-like smile the Grim Reaper had while he slaughtered all those villagers.

● Dialogue: Iwao "Grim Reaper" Sagae

"You UGN never know when to give up."

"Why did I kill them, you ask? Why!? WHY!?"

"You're telling me that you don't know why these weak, despicable humans need to die!?"

"I want nothing more than to wipe out all of humanity. Once they die, I will finish the job and kill myself."

"Once I finish off all these villagers, my kill count will finally go over ten thousand. Now get out of my way!" (Fires «Black Hammer» at a villager)

We return to the present. PC3 is sitting in a briefing room, listening to a report from Rosa Baskerville. Iwao Sagae is hiding out in an abandoned False Hearts laboratory. Contact with the reconnaissance agent that was sent out earlier has been lost, so PC3 has been chosen to take out Sagae.

● Setting 2

Back in the present, you enter your branch's briefing room. Vice Director Rosa Baskerville has summoned you to discuss a certain mission. Judging by the tense look on her face, the situation is dire.

● Dialogue: Rosa Baskerville

"PC3, come in. We have a mission for you."

"Do you remember Iwao Sagae, codenamed Grim Reaper? Intelligence shows that he is hiding out in an abandoned False Hearts laboratory."

"We sent an agent to confirm the reports, but we lost contact with him. He's most likely dead now."

"Grim Reaper is an extremely dangerous False Hearts agent, one that's driven by his hate of humanity. We've lost too much to this one man."

"You are one of the few agents to have fought Grim Reaper and lived. That's why we're asking you to kill Grim Reaper."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC3 has accepted his mission and left the briefing room.

■ Scene 5: Vengeance (PC4)

● Description

PC4 has been chosen to join the assault on Iwao Sagae's laboratory. While getting ready for the mission, PC4 will be approached by a fellow agent. The agent will talk about the people who were killed by Sagae and ask that revenge be exacted for the fallen.

● Setting

You are at UGN Japan's headquarters, preparing for the mission against Iwao Sagae. Moments before the briefing, a fellow agent approaches you, his face full of apprehension.

● Dialogue: Fellow Agent

"PC4, I heard you're part of the team that goes after Grim Reaper."

"That bastard's strong. I lost a lot of friends to that guy, more than I care to count."

"And the civilian casualties...I hear the count easily goes over ten thousand."

"Kill Iwao Sagae. Kill that bastard and come back to us, alive."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC4 hears the fellow agent's request and heads out to the abandoned laboratory.

■ Scene 6: Status Unknown (PC2)

● Description

This Scene is a flashback that shows PC2's past with Eiji Takasu. PC2 is reminiscing while riding the transport truck that's taking him to the abandoned laboratory. PC3 and PC4 are riding the same truck, but since this is a flashback they will not appear in the Scene.

PC2 thinks back to his time as a new recruit, specifically to the moment he first spoke with Eiji Takasu. During a break, Eiji approached PC2 to compliment him on his performance, and talked about his reasons for joining the UGN.

This flashback ends when PC2 and Eiji finish their conversation and training exercises resume.

● Setting

You are being transported via personnel truck to an abandoned False Hearts laboratory, where your next mission will take place. During the trip, you think about Eiji Takasu, the agent whom was sent in advance as a scout.

Contact with Eiji was lost, which is why you're being sent in. As you hope that Eiji is safe and deal with the possibility that he may be dead, you think back to your training days and your first meeting with Eiji.

● Dialogue: Eiji Takasu

"Alright, that's good! Take five!"

"PC2, you're doing pretty well. You're easily the best out of all my recruits."

"When your training is complete, you will be an amazing agent, a true protector of the people. I can feel it, and my instincts are rarely wrong."

"I joined the UGN because I wanted to protect the people I care for."

"What about you? Do you anyone or anything that important?"

(PC2 answers yes) "That's good. Remember them, especially when training gets hard."

(PC2 answers no) "That's OK. You still have time to find that special something. And when you do, take good care of it."

"OK, that's enough rest. Let's get back to training."

● Conclusion

When the flashback ends, the transport truck will have reached its destination. End the Scene once PC2 enters the laboratory.

End of Opening Phase

■ Before Moving On...

The rest of the Scenario takes place in the abandoned laboratory that was mentioned several times in the previous Scenes. Due to a certain event in Scene 8, all contact with the outside world will be lost.

For the entirety of the Middle Phase, players cannot contact people in the outside world and cannot buy Items. Consider giving your players a chance to perform Procure Checks before starting the Middle Phase.

If players need to perform a Procure check after Scene 8, you can consider making an exception if the Item players need can conceivably be found inside an abandoned False Hearts laboratory. Weapons, armor, vehicles and the like are very unlikely to be in a laboratory.

Eiji Takasu

Breed: Crossbreed
Syndrome: Neumann/Morpheus

An UGN agent in his early thirties. He is capable in a variety of fields. He is also a caring person who trains UGN Children.

Initially sent to scout out the laboratory, he confronted Iwao Sagae so that Renee can escape. In doing so he was critically injured.

Middle Phase

● Predetermined Events

Perform these events in numerical order.

■ Scene 7: Surprise Meeting (PC1)

● Description 1

All player characters must enter this Scene. While PC1 and Renee are being chased by a pack of Gjaums, they will run into the other player characters.

PC1 and Renee are running from the Gjaums, but they find themselves at a dead-end. When this happens, you may allow the other player characters to enter the Scene.

Once the other player characters enter, begin a battle with three Gjaum: Tribe enemies (Advanced pg. 114). If you only have three players in the game, reduce the number of enemies to two. Place these enemies in a single Engagement that is five meters away from the player characters.

Once these enemies are defeated, move on to Setting 2.

● Setting 1

The mob of Gjaums is closing in. You and Renee have managed to escape capture thus far, but now you find yourself at a dead-end.

● Dialogue: Renee

"Whoa, stop! Dead-end ahead!"

"Where do we go, where do we go!? This is kinda bad!"

(When the other player characters enter the Scene) "Hey, they're going to help us!"

When the preceding mob battle is over, a single Gjaum that was hiding will come out and attack Renee. Renee will look to PC1 for help. As PC1 moves in to save Renee, she begins to glow, and the attacking Gjaum will start crying out in pain.

As mentioned in this Scenario's introduction, Renee can produce a deadly poison. However, at this point in the story Renee has no control over her power, and thus can only use her powers for an extremely short period of time.

Renee herself is unaware that she has any sort of power. She will be unable to answer any questions the players may have about the poison.

● Setting 2

With the Gjaums dead, Renee now runs toward her rescuers. But from the corner of your eye, you see something move. That something is a Gjaum, and now it's going after Renee!

● Dialogue: Renee

(When the enemies are defeated) "Yeah! That was so cool! Do it again!" (Runs towards the player characters)

(The hidden Gjaum comes out and attacks) "Ahhh! PC1, help me!"

(When asked what she did to the Gjaum) "...I don't know,"

"When PC1 came to help, my body got burning-hot, and then..."

● Conclusion

After writhing in pain for a few moments, the Gjaum will stop moving. It is now dead. A nearby wall monitor will turn on and show Iwao Sagae's face. Move on to the next Scene.

■ Scene 8: The Evil Snake (PC3)

● Description

All player character must enter this Scene. They will have a conversation with Iwao Sagae via the video monitor.

Iwao Sagae will talk about his plans to eradicate humanity and how he needs both Renee and PC1. Renee will refuse to cooperate. When PC1 also refuses, Sagae will use «Space-Time Rip» (Core pg. 394), cutting the laboratory off from the outside world. Sagae will taunt the player characters and challenge them to defeat him.

Sagae's motivation for creating a closed environment and taunting the players is to get PC1 and Renee to develop a strong relationship, as a strong emotional connection between the two is needed for Renee to gain full control of her power. Keep this detail in mind when roleplaying Sagae, but do not reveal this information to the players yet.

From this Scene onwards, player characters cannot leave the laboratory or contact the outside world until Iwao Sagae has been defeated. As mentioned at the end of the Opening Phase, they will also be unable to perform Procure Checks.

● Setting

A nearby wall monitor flickers to life, showing a man with a face resembling a snake and a sickening energy to his presence. You immediately recognize the man as Iwao "Grim Reaper" Sagae, the one who wants nothing more than to kill every single human on this planet.

● Dialogue: Iwao Sagae

"There you are, Infinity Code. And you're with PC1. Even better."

"I need you both if I'm going to wipe out the humans. So stop thinking, and just do as you're told."

(When refused) "You fools! The plan's already in its final stage. But if you want to drag this out, I will gladly oblige." (Uses «Space-Time Rip»)

(When «Space-Time Rip» takes effect) "This laboratory and the surrounding area is now cut off from the rest of the world. There is no escape."

"If you won't join me, then kill me and escape, if you can."

(If PC3 is in the game) "...I know you. You're PC3!"

"To think that I would get a chance to see you die a horrid death before the world ends... I don't think I've ever been this excited in my life."

(When asked about Eiji Takasu) "Ah, that wretched man. I made him suffer for laying a hand on my Infinity Code."

"A shame that I couldn't finish him off. I wanted to watch as he drew his last breath."

● Dialogue: Renee

"I'm not going back, so you can just...you can just..."(Blows a raspberry at Sagae)

"I hate that guy! PC1, don't listen to anything he has to say!"

(After the laboratory has been isolated) "Ugh, he is so mean! PC1, let's find him and beat him up to a pulp!"

● Conclusion

Once the screen flickers off and the player characters formally unite, end this Scene and begin Investigations.

From this Scene onwards, Renee will follow PC1. If PC1 is absent during a Scene, Renee will also be absent.

■ Investigations

There are five different topics that players may investigate. Of these five, investigating Eiji Takasu is required to trigger Scene 9.

If needed, create a Scene where characters share information in-game.

● PC1

<Info: Rumors> 6

Like Renee, PC1 is a key component to Sagae's plan to eradicate humanity. He was kidnapped and brought here by Iwao Sagae. He is an Ouroboros Overed, a kind that is steadily increasing in number.

A quick check reveals that nothing in particular was done to PC1's body.

● Renee

<Info: UGN or Rumors> 7

Renee is a Renegade Being and a key component in Sagae's plan. Sagae refers to this girl as "Infinity Code."

Renee is an Ouroboros/Solaris Crossbreed, but is completely unable to use Powers. Judging by the abandoned setups and documents left around the laboratory, numerous procedures were performed to give Renee control of her abilities, but none were successful.

● Eiji Takasu

<Info: UGN> 7

Eiji Takasu is an UGN agent who was ordered to investigate this laboratory. His current whereabouts are unknown.

Eiji apparently chose to rescue Renee when he learned that she is Sagae's "Infinity Code." He may know who or what Renee is.

You find traces of a battle between Eiji and some Gjaums. This may lead you to Eiji.

If the players decide to go search for Eiji Takasu, initiate Scene 9.

● Iwao "Grim Reaper" Sagae

<Info: UGN or Underworld> 8

Iwao Sagae was once a combat cameraman. He became disgusted with humans after having witnessed the endless cycle of war that humanity has perpetuated. He later joined False Hearts.

Sagae stole Professor Caudwell's research data on the Infinity Code and used it to create Renee. This is a clear act of betrayal on Sagae's part, but he has stopped making a distinction between False Hearts and the UGN.

● Infinity Code

<Info: Underworld or Academics> 8

In this situation, Infinity Code refers to Renee. Sagae calls Renee this because she was created from the knowledge and technology developed by the Infinity Initiative.

Renee was created to wipe out humanity, but she is actually quite fond of both humans and Overeds.

■ Trigger Events

These events occur when certain conditions are met.

■ Scene 9: Reunion (PC2)

Condition: Players investigated Eiji Takasu and decided to go look for him.

● Description

Players find Eiji Takasu. They learn more about Sagae's plans and Renee's role in it.

Eiji is found hiding in one of the laboratory's rooms. He will explain how Renee can create her deadly poison.

Once players learn about what Renee can do, they may decide to take actions that will lead to a premature boss battle. This turn of events will be explained after this Scene.

-Saving Eiji Takasu

Eiji is on the brink of death when the players find him. If he does not get treatment, he will die at the end of this Scene.

In order to save Eiji, a player character must either beat a Difficulty 9 <Knowledge: Medicine> check, or use a Power that restores HP, such as «Heal» (Core pg. 173).

Even if Eiji is healed, he will still be too weak to help during battle. He will be treated as an Extra NPC.

● Setting

As you follow the structural damage and other signs of battle, you come to a room full of broken machinery. You notice a shadowy figure in a corner of the room. Taking a closer look, you realize it's Eiji Takasu, and he is badly injured!

● Dialogue: Eiji Takasu

"...PC2, is that you?"

"Thanks... I messed up. Nearly cost us some valuable information..."

"Have you met Renee? I need to tell you about her powers."

"That girl can make a poison that's deadly to anything living and non-living."

"She can even make the poison only target certain people, and spread it over a stupidly-large area."

"I thought about killing her. Then she said she wanted to be friends with humans..."

"I couldn't do it. I don't want to be like False Hearts. That's why I decided to rescue her instead."

"Look, you got to save her. She's a good girl."

"I'm so tired...Give me a few minutes, and I'll be up and running..." (Passes out)

● Conclusion

End the Scene once Eiji passed on his information.

Killing Renee

Now that the players know how dangerous Renee is, they may decide to stop Sagae's plan by killing Renee. Before allowing your players to attempt this course of action, urge them to reconsider. Convince them that Renee has no ill will towards humanity, but rather wishes to make friends.

If players insist on killing Renee, Sagae will appear with his minions and attempt to stop them. This will trigger the Climax Phase. Skip the rest of the Middle Phase and the Progressive Check.

This version of the boss battle contains more mob enemies compared to the normal boss battle

● Boss Battle (Premature Version)

This battle will consist of Iwao Sagae, six Gjaum: Tribe (Advanced pg. 114), four Gjaum: Disaster(Advanced pg. 115), and three Agent: Blockers (Core pg. 381). Refer to the Climax Phase for Sagae's stats and battle strategy.

There will be three starting Engagements. The first Engagement will consist of all the player characters.

The second Engagement will be five meters away from the first one, and that one will be occupied by the six Gjaum: Tribes.

The third Engagement will be five meters from the second Engagement, and in it will be Sagae, the Gjaum: Disasters, and the Agent: Blockers.

■ Scene 10: Renee (PC1)

Condition: All Investigations have been completed and Scene 9 has occurred.

● Description 1

The first half of this Scene will be a show of friendship between Renee and PC1.

While taking a break from exploring the laboratory, Renee, who has always been interested in PC1, will begin asking questions about PC1 and his life. After listening to PC1's life story, Renee will tell her story.

Once Renee finished talking about her past, she will ask PC1 to be her friend. Move onto Setting 2 once PC1 responds to the request.

● Setting 1

You are searching the entire laboratory for a way out. During your search, you feel a tug at your sleeve. You turn around and see that it's Renee, who is half-way to just laying on the ground. "I'm tired...Can we take a break?"

● Dialogue: Renee

"Hey, what do you normally do on the outside? Come on, tell me."

"I want to know more about people, and you. I'm like a curious cat...or was it a monkey?"

"Sagae was the first person I saw when I was born. I opened my eyes for the first time, and I see this guy going, 'You were made to kill off every person on this planet.'"

"I'd rather just be friends with people."

"PC1, will you be my friend?"

(PC1 says yes) "Yes! Thank you! Wow, I have a friend..." (Begins to roll around on the floor)

(PC1 says no) "Ah, come on! I'm just going to keep on asking. Please? Please please? Please please please please please please?" (Begins climbing onto PC1's back)

● Description 2

The Scene goes on to show Renee's powers becoming active. Renee starts out acting very hyper, but will suddenly complain about feeling sick. Suddenly, Renee will begin creating poison and releasing it into the surrounding area.

● Setting 2

Renee is skipping around in circles, a wide smile plastered over her face. Suddenly she stops, and her face twists with pain. What is happening to her?

● Dialogue: Renee

"I don't...feel so good..."

"I'm getting really hot...I can't control my powers!"

● Conclusion

Poison begins to flood the surrounding area. End the Scene.

■ Scene 11: Beginning of the End (PC4)

Condition: Follows Scene 10

● Description

All player characters enter this Scene. Now that Renee is exhibiting her powers, Sagae will appear to take away her away. He will explain why he allowed Renee to go with PC1.

Once he is done revealing his plan, Sagae will use «Instant Retreat» and «Instant Retreat II» to exit the Scene with Renee in tow.

● Setting

Despite being preoccupied with Renee suddenly using her powers, you notice the air behind her “rippling.”

Suddenly, Sagae comes out from the ripples. “Well done! You have completed my Infinity Code!”

● Dialogue: Iwao Sagae

“Using the unique abilities of the Ouroboros Syndrome, I was able to splice together the strains of several different Syndromes into a single lethal weapon! Neumann strains let Renee analyze and target specific lifeforms! Solaris allows her to create the necessary poisons! And Orcus’ Domain is the dispersal system!”

“She had these deadly tools at her disposal, but she was defective. Her original Ouroboros strain was not strong enough to control all the powers it absorbed.”

“So, I devised a solution, one that involves strengthening the original Ouroboros strain with another Ouroboros strain.”

“Unfortunately, Infinity Code here developed free will, and refused to listen to my orders. But there was a simple enough work-around. I just had to find an Ouroboros Overed that she wanted to communicate with, get them to form a strong relationship, and have them make physical contact.”

“Infinity Code was very interested in you, PC1, and that interest triggered the strain’s absorption process. Now she is complete.”

“Her powers cannot be stopped once they’re activated. It’s how I designed her.”

“Humanity will perish, and there is nothing you can do to stop it. Enjoy the last few moments of your life.” (Uses «Instant Retreat» and «Instant Retreat II»)

● Conclusion

End the Scene once Sagae leaves with Renee. The players’ must now find him.

■ Scene 12: Eiji’s Advice (PC2)

Condition: Follows Scene 11

● Description

While searching for Sagae, PC2 will find an injured Eiji walking down the hallway. After hearing what happened to Renee, Eiji will tell PC2 about the research data on Renee and where it is hidden. This information will tell player characters know what needs to be done to stop Renee.

If the players let Eiji die during Scene 9, have the players perform a Difficulty 9 check, rolling either <Info: UGN> or <Info: Underworld>. If players are successful, they will learn that the research data is kept in the basement.

● Setting

While looking for Sagae, you run into Eiji Takasu in the hallway. The man is clearly in pain, yet he somehow can still more concern for you.

● Dialogue: Eiji Takasu

“PC2, what happened?”

“Oh god, Sagae has Renee...”

“Go to the basement. There’s a small lab down there. You’ll find Sagae’s research data.”

“I was caught before I could go through the entire file, but I bet something in there will tell you how to seal away Renee’s powers.”

● Conclusion

End the Scene once the players go to the basement.

■ Scene 13: Research Data

Condition: Follows Scene 12.

● Description

The Lead Character can be anyone who goes to the basement. Players will find hints on how to stop Renee.

When players look through the computer’s files, they learn that Sagae was very interested in the Ouroboros’ Syndrome’s ability to steal another Overed’s Powers. They will also learn that Renee’s powers need PC1’s strain to activate.

Have players roll a Difficulty 9 <Knowledge: Renegade> check. Only characters that entered this Scene may perform this check. If at least one person completes the check, the players will learn the information they need. If everyone fails, restart the Scene, and have the player characters enter once more. This will incur another increase in Encroachment Rate.

When successful, the player characters figure out that Renee can be stopped by having PC1 reabsorb his strain from Renee. To do so, PC1 must make physical contact with Renee.

● Setting

You open the door to the basement lab and are greeted by a room full of rubble and a single active computer terminal. This must be Sagae’s computer. If Eiji is right, the data in it will tell you how to stop Renee.

● Conclusion

Once the player characters learn what must be done, Renee will raise a Warding field, giving away her current location.

End the Scene once the player characters head to the source of the field.

End of Middle Phase

Climax Phase

■ Scene 14: Life or Death (PC1)

● Description 1

All player characters must enter this Scene. The goal during the first half of this Scene is to suppress Renee's powers and stop Sagae's plan to wipe out humanity. To do so, players must complete the below Progressive Check. Refer to the GM section of this book for more on Progressive Checks.

Once the Progressive Check is beaten, move onto Setting 2. If the players failed, skip forward to Scene 20 of the Ending, which is titled "Extinction."

Iwao Sagae will not enter the the first half of this Scene. He is busy lifting the effects of «Space-Time Rip», as he needs Renee's poison to enter the outside world. Sagae can only enter the second half of this Scene.

● Setting 1

Following your senses to the origin of the Warding field, you reach a massive operating room. In the center of the room you see Renee, who is surrounded by a whirlwind of poison. You have to stop Renee before this storm reaches the outside world and kills everyone!

● Dialogue: Renee

"PC1? ...You're all here...!"

"Stop me! I don't want to do this!"

● Description 2

Iwao Sagae has reconnected the laboratory with the outside world. He returns to the operating room to check on Renee, but sees that Renee's powers have been suppressed. He will be overcome with a blind rage and attack the players. Perform an Impulse Check and begin the final boss fight.

The boss fight will be with Iwao Sagae, two Gjaum: Tribes (Advanced pg. 114) and two Gjaum: Disasters (Advanced pg. 115). Renee will not participate in this battle because she passed out from her earlier ordeal. The boss battle ends once all enemies have been defeated.

● Setting 2

The storm of poison subsides when PC1 took Renee's hand. The remaining poison dissipates away. Renee passes out and falls to the floor.

You then sense an immense hatred being directed towards you. Turning around, you see a furious Sagae, his glare pointed directly at you. It is now time to settle this fight once and for all.

Title	Suppress Renee's Powers								End Condition		3 Rounds have Passed
Check	<Dodge> <Perception>		Difficulty		7		Max Score		20		Exp. Points		3
Progression	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
Point Total	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description

The goal is to get PC1 in physical contact with Renee and have him deactivate her powers. The players have to avoid the poisonous gases (<Dodge> roll) and sense the effective range of the poison (<Perception> roll).

Warn your players that if they fail this check, Renee's poison will get out and kill everyone in the world.

Goal: 12 Points

Support Roll: [Body] [Mind]

Recommended for: 5 Players

Renee needs PC1 Renegade strain to activate her powers, which means if PC1 takes back his strain, Renee will stop producing poison. PC1 and Renee is needed before the transfer can take place. Holding hands will suffice.

This solution is only temporary. Renee's powers will activate again if she stays in close contact with PC1.

For Smaller Groups

Groups of four or less players only need to gain 11 Progression Points. If there are only three players, reduce Difficulty to 5.

If Time Ran Out

The poison took out PC1. This resulted in the death of everyone on earth.

Progression Events

4 Points: You came in contact with the poison. Roll a Difficulty 7 <Dodge> or <RC> check. Players that fail will receive a -3 score penalty towards their next Progression Roll.

7 Points: The strength and amount of poison being produced increases, making it harder to reach Renee. Increase Difficulty to 9.

10 Points: You're getting closer to Renee, but now it's harder to avoid the poison. You have to use your Renegade powers to either increase your immunities or neutralize the poison. Players now roll <RC>.

11 Points: A strong dose of poison is fired at you. Roll a Difficulty 12 <Dodge> or <RC> check. Players that fail will receive a -5 score penalty towards their next Progression Roll.

• Dialogue: Iwao Sagae

"My dream! What have you done!?"

"Infinity Code was my dream, my perfect messenger of death!"

"Don't you get it!? People don't deserve to live!"

"That's it! I'll kill every last one of you and take back Infinity Code! As long as she is alive, my dream will never die!"

(To PC1) "You were a pawn! A nothing! How dare you get in my way! You may be a rare Ouroboros Overed, but I will see you dead!"

(To PC2) "You UGN scum. First it was that man, now it's you. There's always somebody in my way!"

(To PC3) "Failing to kill you was a mistake on my part. Now is my chance to rectify it! You couldn't stop me last time, and I doubt you can stop me now, but I'm leaving nothing to chance! "

(To PC4) "Revenge? Pathetic. Your comrades deserved to die, and I will see to it that you join them!"

(To PC5) "Ah, a parasite that latched onto humanity and evolved. You will join humanity in its fate!"

(When defeated) "No, I'm not going to lose! Not to some humans..."

• Conclusion

When defeated, Sagae will fall to the ground, his face forever locked in an expression of pure hatred. Sagae's plan has been stopped.

End of Climax

Congratulate your players. Move on to the Endings.

-Iwao Sagae

During the first Setup Process, use «Accelerated World» on the Engagement that has the most number of player characters.

For your first Major Action, use «Black Hole Destruction» to deal 6D10 damage to any number of characters in a single Engagement. Afterwards, use «Dark Matter» as your Minor Action and attack using the Gravity Crush combo.

If an incoming attack scored 40 or above on its accuracy check, use the Repulsion Barrier combo. The result is 50 fewer points of damage and the attacking character receives 15 damage. Repulsion Barrier can only be used once.

If you’re about to receive 30 or more damage, use «Black Hole Summoning» to reduce the damage to zero. This can only be done once.

If you receive a Bad Status, use «Restoration». This costs you 5HP.

Iwao Sagae

If you’re reduced to zero HP, use «Revival». Once revived, use «Accelerated Time» so that you can perform an extra Main Process during the next Initiative Process.

Because you have «Wall of Denial», you can negate one of the following Titus bonuses: -1 Crit. Value, +10 dice, or +1D10 check score. You can only use «Wall of Denial’s ability once.

-Gjaur: Tribe

Move into the Engagement that has the most number of player characters. Attack using «Beast Strength».

-Gjaur: Disaster

Try to stay away from the player characters. Attack with «Lightning Spear» + «Oscillating Sphere».

■ Battle Placement

Player characters start in a single Engagement. Two Gjaur: Tribes will be in another Engagement that is three meters away from the player characters.

Iwao Sagae and two Gjaur: Disasters will be in another Engagement that is three meters behind the Gjaur: Tribes.

■ For Smaller Groups

If there are only four players, reduce Iwao Sagae’s HP by -30. If there are only three players, take away another 30HP, «Revival», «Accelerated Time», and the two Gjaur: Disasters.

Ending Phase

● About the Endings

The following endings assume that both Eiji Takasu and Renee are alive. If they died during your game, rewrite the endings to reflect these events.

■ Scene 15: Mission Accomplished (PC5)

● Description

PC5 reports back to Kyoka Tsuzuki.

● Setting

Several days have passed since the battle with Sagae. As you watch the human interactions that are occurring around you, you notice Kyoka Tsuzuki approaching.

Kyoka calls out to you, her facial expression never breaking from the calm composure she always has built up. "I assume Sagae has been properly dealt with, yes?"

● Dialogue: Kyoka Tsuzuki

"Now that you've witnessed the power of the Infinity Code, do you understand why man is so obsessed with it?"

"The name is used by man to describe the core essence of the Renegade. We understand it to be the power to realize dreams. Those who wish for power are endowed with strength, and those who are filled with hate are given fire to wield."

"A code that unlocks infinite possibilities...I never expected Professor Caudwell to be a romanticist."

"This "Infinity Code " was made to be a weapon, but she is now free from that fate. For the time being, we shall observe her from afar."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC5 finishes talking to Kyoka Tsuzuki.

■ Scene 16: Vengeance Exacted (PC4)

● Description

Iwao Sagae is dead. PC4 celebrates by having a drink with his fellow agent, who pays for his drinks.

● Setting

Sagae is dead, and to celebrate your fellow agent is taking out to town, buying you all the alcohol you can consume.

● Dialogue: Agent

"Sagae's dead, and it's all thanks to you. Maybe now our friends can rest easy."

"Order as much as you want. Drinks are on me."

"This first glass is for our friends. A toast to the fallen."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once the drinking is underway.

■ Scene 17: Mission Report (PC3)

● Description

PC3 reports back to Rosa Baskerville. When discussing Renee, Rosa will ask PC3 what he thinks should be done with her. Let the players discuss what they think should be done before PC3 answers.

● Setting

You enter UGN Japan's national office to give your report to Rosa Baskerville in person.

● Dialogue: Rosa Baskerville

"Congratulations. You did well out there."

"Now, we have one last problem. What do we do with the Renegade Being Renee?"

"You've actually talked to her. What do you think should be done?"

(After hearing PC3's opinion) "...Alright. I'll trust your judgment."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once a decision has been made in regards to Renee's future.

■ Scene 18: Meeting your Mentor (PC2)

● Description

PC2 visits Eiji Takasu at the hospital. Eiji will welcome PC2 and start to talk about what will happen.

● Setting

A few days has passed since the Sagae situation was resolved. You're visiting Eiji at the hospital, where he is being treated for his wounds.

As you enter his room, Eiji greets you in an awfully cheerful manner. Being alone in this room must have been driving him stir-crazy.

● Dialogue: Eiji Takasu

"PC2, you're here! Great!"

"I still can't believe we survived. We were facing the extinction of the entire human race."

"...Hey, have you ever wondered what would happen if we turned into Gjaums? We would end up like Sagae?"

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC2 gives his opinion.

■ Scene 19: Hello and Goodbye (PC1)

● Description

Renee has been placed under the UGN's protection. PC1 has come to say goodbye. Due to the potential catastrophe that could come if PC1 and Renee were to make physical contact, the organization is limiting the contact between the two.

Before saying goodbye, Renee thanks PC1 for saving her and promises that they will meet again.

If the players decided during Scene 17 to do something else with Renee, rewrite this Scene to reflect that decision.

● Setting

After escaping from the laboratory, you and Renee were taken into custody by the UGN. For Renee, this arrangement will be long-term. You will return to your normal life, but not before saying goodbye to Renee.

● Dialogue: Renee

"We won't be able to see each other for a while. I can't believe I'm saying goodbye to my new friend so soon."

"But this won't be the end...right?"

"We'll meet again. Cross my heart."

"OK...goodbye, PC1."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC1 finishes talking to Renee.

■ Scene 20: Extinction

Condition: Players failed the Climax's Progressive Check.

● Description

Renee's poison was released onto the world. All of humanity – humans and Overeds – is now extinct.

● Setting

A poisonous storm swept across the world that day. When the storm passed, not a single person was left alive.

● Conclusion

Every last human and Overed is dead. The Earth has been turned into an uninhabitable planet. The End.

■ After-Game

Award players five experience points for successfully completing the Scenario. If Renee was rescued, award two points. If Eiji Takasu survived, award one experience point.

Lastly, if players successfully completed the Progressive Check, award three experience points.

NPCs only had one E-Lois, but because Wall of is counted as two E-Loises, award two experience points to players.

Venomous Hate Test-Play Report

◆ About this Scenario

Venomous Hate was created to showcase the new Ouroboros Syndrome and Progressive Check mechanic. When using these new mechanics in your Scenarios, please use this Scenario as one of your references.

During test-play, players were able to play the Scenario without too much front-loaded knowledge.

◆ PC5

PC5 was written as a Renegade Being who had connections with Xenos. During test play, PC5 was even made a full member of Xenos.

If your PC5 follows this same story path, then you may have to work out the details of PC1 and PC5's relationship. If you read up on Xenos' plans in the World section, you will know that Kyoka Tsuzuki wants to eradicate the Ouroboros Syndrome.

During test play, PC5 kept to curious observation. To represent this stance, he formed a [P: Curiosity N: Animosity] Lois with PC1, with Curiosity being the surface emotion. PC5 believed that PC1 must be eliminated in the future, but was more interested in what he could do.

To keep your session running on track, it may be best to follow the above example and keep the situation non-confrontational, but not necessarily pleasant.

◆ Renee

The relationship between Renee and PC1 is important to this Scenario. It is ideal if PC1 takes an active interest in Renee. To build this interest, you need give Renee enough stage time to show off her personality.

During test play, the GM grabbed PC1's attention by making Renee very friendly. During Investigations, the GM gave information on Renee and the Infinity Code using Renee's voice.

◆ The Progressive Check

This Scenario's Progressive Check has a time limit of three Rounds. The fewer players you have, the more important each Progression Roll is.

If a player fails a Progression Roll, subtly remind them of Tituses and their 1D10 score bonus. Give enough help so that even a small group can win.

You can also advise players to put some levels into <Perception>, <Dodge>, or <RC> before the session begins.

Angry Impulses

Pre-Game

Scenario Data

Recommended number of players: 3 to 5.

Recommended PC growth: 0 - 15 pts. spent.

Play time: 3 to 4 hours.

• Stage

This Scenario takes place in City N.

• Story

The False Hearts agent known as Reproducer is a Solaris Overed capable of controlling people's emotions. Disguising herself as a school counselor, she privately approaches dispirited students and turns them into vessels of uncontrolled emotions.

Shizune Yasuga, one of the girls Reproducer approached, noticed something was off and ran before she could be brainwashed. Being a latent Overed, Reproducer's power had a weaker effect on her.

Enticed by the possibility of gaining an Overed minion, Reproducer sends several brainwashed kids out into the city to cause havoc. She intends to capture Shizune while the city is in chaos.

The goal of this Scenario is to protect Shizune Yasuga and defeat Reproducer.

• Continuing from Venomous Hate

If players are using Venomous Hate's recommended characters, you may have to make adjustments for PC5.

For PC5's Opening, you should incorporate the Renegade Being's natural interest in humanity. He could also have ties with Xenos and may wish to use them as part of his roleplay. Since Xenos does not have a role in this Scenario, you can easily insert Xenos references or Kyoka Tsuzuki herself without any story conflict.

Trailer

Man's existence has always been one of imprisonment, restrained by either someone or something.

While many will become furious and attempt to break free, few will realize that fury will do to them.

Fury is their new restraint. It is a cursed ball and chain that will drag them into insanity.

Double Cross – Angry Impulses

Welcome to Double Cross. This is the world of traitors.

■ Character Creation

Pass out handouts or let the players choose which one they want to use.

If you have fewer than five players, use the handouts with the lower player numbers, as they are more integral to the story.

● Quick Start

The following five sample characters are recommended for this Scenario:

- PC1: Infinite Destroyer (Pg. vii)
- PC2: Phantom Mirror (Pg. ix)
- PC3: The Idealist (Core Rulebook Pg. 37)
- PC4: Evergreen Apostle (Core Rulebook Pg. 35)
- PC5: Reaper’s Hand (Core Rulebook Pg. 47)

● Construction

This particular Scenario does not require players to make a specific character. At most, they should use the Handouts as guidelines when creating a character.

● High School Student Characters

For this Scenario, player characters that are high school students should belong to City N’s public school. The players may make their characters any age they want. Adjust the ages of NPCs so that they are in the same age group as the player characters.

■ Loises between PCs

Form Loises between PCs in the following order:

PC1 → PC2 → PC3 → PC4 → PC5 → PC1

ROC the Emotions for these Loises. Work with the players if they need help deciding on what emotions to write in.

■ Trait Loises

Each player character may have one Trait Lois. Players using the sample characters from the Core Rulebook should refer to page 3 of the Advanced Rulebook and acquire the Trait Lois that is associated with their character. Players are not required to pick a specific Trait Lois when creating their character via Construction.

■ Special Loises

This Scenario utilizes the Special Lois (S-Lois) mechanic and will play a integral part in the story. Any player familiar with the system will realize this the moment you mention your use of this mechanic, but make the importance of the mechanic clear to all players. Please refer to page 4 of the Advanced Rulebook for more on S-Loises.

Opening Phase

■ Scene 1: Confronting False Hearts (PC2)

• Description

This Scene serves as an introduction for both PC2 and Reproducor. All NPCs other than Reproducor are Extras.

Reproducor uses «Undermining Voice» (Core pg. 404) to command several men to attack PC2. Since these men are Extras, PC2 only needs to declare his victory over them.

Reproducor will exit the Scene while PC2 is busy dealing with his attackers.

• Setting

You arrive at an abandoned building. You head to the top floor where you find Reproducor waiting for you.

• Dialogue: Reproducor

"Well done boy (girl), but I don't have time to play with you."

"This city is full of anger. It's all bottled up and has nowhere to go. It's waiting for me to release it."

(Snaps her fingers, causing several men to come out of the shadows) "These men will deal with you."

• Dialogue: Brainwashed Men and Reproducor

"I lost my job and the government's not helping me..."

"That goddamn shop kicked me out because I was dressed right..."

(Reproducor uses «Undermining Voice» on the men) "Kill this kid and all your anger will just go away."

"The queen's right. We'll feel better once we kill this kid."

• Conclusion

End the Scene once PC2 leaves the building.

Shizune Yasuga

PC1's classmate. She's a good student who maintains a balance between her studies and social life. Her parents got a job in another country, which means she will have to leave PC1 behind. She has a fight with her parents over this, and she's still upset about having to move.

Shizune doesn't know, but she has an active Renegade. Her virus and pent up anger has made her a target for Reproducor. Shizune will be treated as an Extra during this Scenario.

■ Scene 2: Orders (PC4)

• Description

PC4 receives a new mission from Yugo Kiritani.

• Setting

You have been summoned to UGN Japan's central office by Yugo Kiritani.

• Dialogue: Yugo Kiritani

"We ordered PC2 to apprehend the False Hearts agent Reproducor, but she escaped."

"You are to follow up on this case. The target was last seen in City N. Please meet with the City N Branch chief and coordinate your efforts with him."

• Conclusion

End the Scene once PC4 accepts the mission.

■ Scene 3: Surveillance Duty (PC3)

• Description

PC3 is ordered to monitor Shizune Yasuga, a girl who may become a new Overed.

• Setting

Intelligence shows that a person with a potentially active Renegade has been discovered in City N. You are being briefed on the matter in your office.

• Dialogue: Intelligence Team

"Sir, we have run a background check on the subject known as Shizune Yasuga. We have confirmed that she is high school student and not some sort of secret agent."

"She is not displaying any symptoms, but we recommend getting in contact with her and double-checking."

"According to our investigation, she is in the downtown district at this time. Shall we send someone out there?"

• Conclusion

End the Scene once PC3 or someone else goes to find Shizune.

■ Scene 4: Friendship and Reality (PC1)

This is PC1's Opening. PC1 has a conversation with Shizune, who afterward will leave for her extracurricular tutoring session. Part One of this Scene ends here.

• Setting 1

It is the late afternoon. You just had a fun time out in the city with your friend Shizune Yasuga. You're sitting on a park bench when Shizune runs back to you, a crepe in each hand.

- Dialogue: Shizune Yasuga

"Here. This one's for you."

(Offers her partially-eaten crepe to PC1) "Want to try mine? Oh, let me try yours too."

"Hey, thanks for coming out. It helped me get my mind off things."

(If asked what's bothering her) "No, it's nothing. Just had a fight with my parents."

"I just want to make some good memories..."

(When asked about what she's trying to say) "No, forget about it."

"Oh, shoot. I have to get to my tutoring session. See you at school!"

- Description 2

Shortly afterward, PC1 will receive a call from Shizune. She is begging for help.

Being Shizune's friend, PC1 will know that Shizune heads to the downtown district for her classes.

- Setting 2

On your way home you receive a phone call. It's Shizune.

"...Help me...Someone's trying to kill me..."

Through your phone you can hear Shizune breathing very hard. You then hear her scream. Before you can say anything the line goes dead.

- Conclusion

End the Scene once PC1 starts running towards downtown.

■ Scene 5: The Oncoming Chaos (PC5)

- Description

PC5 will see a street fight happening, but will notice that something is off. PC5 will be attacked, but because the attackers are Extras, he only needs to declare victory to win. PC5 will then get information from a boy he just rescued.

- Setting

You pass by the arcade, the current hangout for teenage gangs. You hear fighting coming from inside the arcade. Suddenly, a scared boy comes running out, followed by a bunch of pissed-off guys.

- Dialogue: Gang

"Who the fuck are you!?"

"Kill him!" (The guys start pulling out knives and guns)

(When defeated) "Oh...fuck me."

- Dialogue: Scared Boy

"Help!"

(When rescued) "Oh my god! Thank you!"

"These guys weren't always so...like this. But after they met with this Orié Higusa woman, they really started raging."

- Conclusion

End the Scene once PC5 leaves.

■ Scene 6: Disaster (Master)

- Description

In this Scene Reprodutor is brainwashing students at a tutoring class. Player characters cannot enter this Scene. This will lead into the riots that occur in the Middle Phase.

Shizune is among the students who are being brainwashed, but she is unaffected by Reprodutor's powers. Reprodutor will notice Shizune's immunity and realize that the Shizune may be an Overed.

- Setting

Downtown is about to get very busy. People on the street hear glass shattering and they turn their attention to the tutoring school on the corner. They see young and angry boys running out of the building. If the bystanders looked closely, they would have also seen a person inside the building who was watching the riot unfold.

- Dialogue: Reprodutor and Rioting Boys

"Release that pent up anger. (Uses «Undermining Voice») You're now free."

"Fuck school!"

"I'm so sick of it all..."

"We don't have to hold anything back!"

- Dialogue: Reprodutor and Shizune Yasuga

"Oh my god, what's going on with you guys!?"

"...Is that girl immune to my powers?" (Watches Shizune)

- Conclusion

Reprodutor is hit with a realization. "That girl's an Overed."

The boys under Reprodutor's control start taking their rage out on the city. End the Scene.

Middle Phase

● Predetermined Events

Start the Middle Phase with Scenes 7 to 9, preferably in numerical order.

■ Scene 7: A Friend in Danger (PC1)

● Description

PC1 will find Shizune. She's been captured by Reprodutor's brainwashed boys. PC1 will have to rescue Shizune. Since the boys are non-Overeds, they can be knocked out with a Warding field. If PC1 chooses not to use Warding, he can instead roll a [Body] check of Difficulty 6. Since Shizune is showing potential as an Overed, she will not be affected by Warding. However, her powers have not fully awakened so she will not notice that Warding was used.

A computer was planted onto Shizune, which allows Reprodutor to control Shizune via «Undermining Voice». Players do not need to be told about this control chip. They also cannot detect or remove the chip at this point in the story.

Due to the effects of their brainwashing, these boys are in no condition to answer any questions. Players will not be able to gain any information from them. Instead, Shizune can tell the players what she knows about Orié Higusa. It's important that she give that name during this Scene, especially if Scene 5 did not occur.

What happens after Shizune is rescued is up to the players. If the players don't do anything, Shizune will complain about feeling sick and try to go home by herself. If players check on Shizune's health, they will learn that Shizune has a slight fever. Players can decide to take her to an UGN-controlled hospital. End the Scene once players decide on their course of action.

● Setting

You're running up and down the streets in search of Shizune. You noticed that something is very off about the people around you.

You then hear a loud crash and a familiar scream coming from the back alleys. Shizune is being attacked!

● Dialogue: Brainwashed Boys

"Reprodutor's orders. You're going to be a worker bee."

● Dialogue: Shizune Yasuga

"PC1...help me..."

"I'm tired...I can't move..."

"A counselor came to our class. Her name's Orié Higusa. I think she's famous or something."

"When she started talking, everyone started acting weird. They went glassy-eyed and nodded at every order she gave. I had to get out of there, but then they surrounded me."

"I'm fine now. Just a little tired..."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once the player characters leave.

■ Scene 8: Assemble! (PC3)

● Description

The player characters rendezvous in this Scene. This Scene will take place about a day after Scene 7.

All player characters enter this Scene and gather at the City N Branch. Once the player characters have exchanged information in-game, an agent will come rushing in. The agent will report that a new situation has developed in the downtown district.

● Setting

A day has passed since the riot downtown. Every Overed that is connected to the current situation has been summoned to the City N Branch.

Based on the intelligence that was gathered, the riots were caused by the False Hearts agent Reprodutor. To combat this threat, every available resource must be put to use.

● Dialogue: City N Branch Agent

(After the player characters finish sharing information) "Sir, there's an emergency! There's another riot downtown!"

● Conclusion

End the Scene once the players head downtown.

■ Scene 9: Chaotic Streets (PC3)

● Description

The Scene moves to downtown. Shizune and a group of teenagers are attacking people on the street. Shizune uses Warding to render people unconscious, while the teenagers (who are wearing Anti-Warding masks) plant a computer chip onto the victims.

Although the teenagers are immune to Warding, they are still Extras. When Shizune sees the player characters, she has the teenagers attack while she escapes.

At this point in the story, Shizune is being controlled via the computer chip that was inserted into her back in Scene 7. She will not respond to anything the player characters say.

After Shizune exits the Scene, the player characters can recover the computer chips from the people they just defeated. Players can study these chips later during the Investigation Phase.

● Setting

A Warding field has been erected downtown. Young boys and girls are attacking people on the street. Standing in the middle of the chaos is Shizune Yasuga.

- Dialogue: Shizune Yasuga

"Fill our ranks with more people."

(To the player characters) "...Stay out of our way."

(To her companions) "Get them."

- Conclusion

While the player characters are busy with the Extras, Shizune will escape. If necessary, have Reproducer appear and use «Instant Retreat II» to pull Shizune out.

■ Investigations

Players may look into the following leads. If needed, create a separate Scene that shows the sharing of information between the player characters.

- Shizune Yasuga

- <Info: Rumors> 8

Shizune's father got a job outside the country. She will be leaving within a week.

Shizune had a fight with her parents over having to leave her friends behind. It's very likely that she talked about her problems to the counselor that was visiting her tutoring class.

Her location is unknown, but PC1 has her cellphone number.

- <Info: UGN> 7

Shizune has an active Renegade, but her powers have not fully awakened. Her Syndromes are unknown at this time. Shizune does not realize what's happening to her, but she is already immune to Warding.

The UGN wants to take her on as an Illegal. In exchange for her service, the UGN will arrange for her to stay within the country.

Shizune is being mind-controlled through some unknown method.

- Rioters

- <Info: Police or Rumors> 7

The rioters are mostly made up of students. They have all been to a counselor recently.

These rioters were given bio-computer chips by Reproducer. These chips can be used to place more people under Reproducer's control.

- <Info: UGN> or <Knowledge: Renegade> 7

They are being controlled via the «Undermining Voice» Power.

- Reproducer

- <Info: UGN or Underworld> 10

Reproducer can manipulate people's emotions and encourage them to commit violent crimes. She often disguises herself as a counselor a consultant, and uses mind tricks or illusions to convince people that she is what she claims to be.

Reproducer is currently hiding out in City N.

- Control Chip

- <Info: Internet> or <Knowledge: Engineering> 6

A control chip that was created by Reproducer. It uses the «Undermining Voice» Power to take control of a person's mind.

Players can remove these chips from non-Overed Extras via declaration.

- Orie Higusa

- <Info: Internet or Rumors> 6

Orie Higusa is a talented counselor in her late-twenties. She regularly visits schools and after-school tutoring sessions.

- <Info: UGN or Underworld> 9

Orie Higusa used underhanded tactics to get the City N Board of Education to recommend her services to schools.

After having a session with Orie Higusa, students talk and act as if she is a queen. Students regularly visit her private office, which is located by the City N train line.

Players now know Orie Higusa's location

- New Control Chip Model

Condition: Can be rolled after Scene 12 ends.

- <Info: Internet> or <Knowledge: Renegade> 8

Reproducer's new chip uses the E-Lois «Twisted Whisper» instead of «Undermining Voice». This chip is still in its experimental stages. Shizune is the chip's first test subject.

The chip can be physically removed. Players must roll <Perception> in order to locate the chip, and then roll <Melee> to remove it. However, in order to negate the effect of «Twisted Whisper», a person that is important to Shizune must call out to her. Only a character that has Shizune as his S-Lois can complete this task.

Orie Higusa

Breed: Tri-Breed

Syndrome: Solaris/
Neumann/
Morpheus

Orie Higusa is the False Hearts agent Reproducer. Approaching dispirited teenagers under the guise of a counselor, she takes control of their minds and uses them to cause chaos.

It's not known why she attacks the social order. It is doubtful that even Orie herself thinks about her motivations. She is but a Gjaum, motivated purely by impulse.

■ Trigger Events

These events occur when certain conditions are met.

■ Scene 10: Shizune Yasuga (PC1)

Condition: Players call Shizune's cellphone.

● Description

This Scene occurs when players call Shizune. Shizune's number can be gotten from PC1 (if he's Shizune's friend in your version of this Scenario) or from Investigations.

At this time, Shizune is under the effects of «Twisted Whisper». Her Loises have been rewritten. The only one she possesses now represents her obedience to Orié Higusa. She has already done things that she would not do if she was in full control.

Using her new powers, Shizune brainwashed her parents and forced her father to give up the overseas job position. When she was leading a group of Reprodutor's minions back in Scene 9, she did it because was convinced that it would lead to her and PC1 staying together.

During the telephone conversation, Shizune will speak highly of Orié Higusa. This odd behavior is meant to clue in the players that Shizune may have a control chip planted on her.

● Setting

You call Shizune's cellphone. She immediately picks up. She seems fine now, but something is off about her.

● Dialogue: Shizune Yasuga

"Thanks, PC1. I'm fine now."

"Yeah. My dad got a job in another country. I was going to say goodbye to you..."

"But everything's OK now! I had a talk with my parents."

"We can stay together! No one will get between us. Not if I have anything to say about it."

"Ms. Higusa gave me these amazing powers, and she promised that she'll make them stronger. All I have to do is give this gift to other people."

(When asked about her powers) "I can make anyone do whatever I say. Ms. Higusa was so good to me. I have her to thank for these powers."

(When told to stop) "What, why!? I'm doing this so that we can be together!"

"...Just do what I tell you to do." (Ends the call)

● Conclusion

Shizune will not respond to any calls after this.

■ Scene 11: Meeting Orié Higusa (PC5)

Condition: The players head to Orié Higusa's office.

● Description

The players will have a talk with Orié Higusa, but not through traditional means. If PC5 is not part of your Scenario, PC2 will be the lead character.

Players will not find Orié Higusa in her office. Instead, they will be greeted by a video recording. Higusa's insults and responses are prerecorded, but players can converse with the video as if Higusa is right in the room. This is made possible thanks to the Neumann Simple Power «Profiling» (Core pg. 187), which allows her to predict all of player characters' questions and responses.

Players are free to search the offices after they finish talking with the recording, but they will not find anything of value.

● Setting

You enter the counseling office of Orié Higusa, but you find no one. In the middle of the dark room is a video projector. You push the play button and turn your attention to the pull-down screen.

● Dialogue: Reprodutor, AKA Orié Higusa

"Hello there, UGN."

"Why, I'm just the kind ear that listens to our society's youth. I listen to their problems and help them find a proper outlet for release."

"Have you seen the city? Everyone is angry, angry enough to want to destroy this world."

"Why not join them? That power that lives inside you wants to be used. There's no need to deprive it."

(If players do not take to her suggestion) "A pity. You would have made a great pawn. I suppose I'll have to recapture your friend."

(When asked about Shizune) "When she came to see me, I thought my heart skipped a beat. That girl has power. She just doesn't realize it. When I capture her again, I'll draw that power out and teach her how to properly use it. I've already made my move. Hope you enjoy it."

"As long as people feel anger and hate, my powers cannot be stopped."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once the players leave the office.

■ Scene 12: Find Orié Higusa (PC3)

Condition: Players decide to look for Orié Higusa anytime after Scene 11 ends.

The search for Reprodutor begins. It's recommended that all player characters enter this Scene.

The players' first clue will come when they receive a call from the UGN home office. One of Reprodutor's minions has been captured and can be interrogated by the players. He does not know where Reprodutor is hiding, but what information does give confirms that Shizune's control chip is special. He will also tell players that Shizune may know where to find Reprodutor.

Move on to Description 2 once the players have the necessary information.

● Setting 1

You get a call from headquarters. UGN agents caught one of the rioters and freed him from the brainwashing he was under. If you talk to the young man, you may tell you where Reproductor is.

● Dialogue: Young Man

"I don't know where Ms. Higusa is. I think the only one that knows is this girl named Shizune Yasuga."

"Ms. Higusa said that the girl was special. She even planted an experimental chip on her."

● Conclusion

Once the battle is over and the players continue on to the captain's cabin, end the Scene.

■ Scene 13: Shizune Loses Control (PC1)

Condition: Follows Scene 12.

● Description 1

A Warding field was erected in the middle of a busy street. Shizune and a group of minions appear and begin planting control chips onto anyone unconscious. The player characters will be lead directly to Shizune by her Warding field.

Players can pull the chips from NPCs via declaration. Shizune herself is feeling the effects of her control chip and is about to lose control of her powers.

To save Shizune, players must first locate her control chip. Have them roll a <Perception> check of 12. Reduce the difficulty to 10 if players found a control chip off a minion earlier in the Scenario. To pull off the chip, players must roll a <Melee> check of 10. The chip will be removed, but Shizune will still remain under Reproductor's influence.

To free Shizune from «Twisted Whisper», PC1 must have Shizune as his S-Lois and talk to her until she comes to her senses. Ideally, instead of being told to do so, PC1 asks to make Shizune his S-Lois. You can straight out tell PC1's player about the S-Lois requirement if he is calling out to Shizune and roleplaying in a caring manner.

Once Shizune is free, move on to the next half of the Scene.

● Setting 1

You run towards the direction of the Warding field, where you find Shizune and a group of minions.

● Dialogue: Shizune Yasuga

"Alright guys, the more people we recruit, the more powerful Reproductor will make us!"

"PC1, just put on this chip, and you'll see greatness."

(When the players try to remove her chip) "What are you doing!?"

(When her chip is removed) "Wait...what... I can still hear her...must recruit more people..."

● Description 2

Once Shizune is freed, she point the players to the abandoned building that Reproductor is hiding in.

If players do not free Shizune, she will become their enemy. This second half of the Scene will not occur. She will use «Instant Retreat» to leave the Scene.

Once Shizune has given the players information or turned on them, end this Scene and move on to the Climax.

● Setting 2

Shizune is freed from Reproductor's influence and is slowly coming to her senses.

● Dialogue: Shizune Yasuga

"PC1? What have I been doing?"

"When this weird chip was put on me, I started to hear Ms. Higusa's voice. She told me to recruit more people, and I couldn't do anything but obey."

"Everyone here was brought to an abandoned building on the outskirts of the city."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once the players leave for Reproductor's hideout. Start the Climax Phase.

Climax Phase

■ Instructions for the Boss Battle

If players freed Shizune, the battle will take place at Reprodutor's hideout. Continue on to Scene 14, which also explains the battle's setup.

If Shizune was not rescued during Scene 13, Shizune will lead some "worker bees" in an attack on the player characters. Skip Scene 14 and start a special version of the boss battle.

Battling Shizune

This version of the boss battle is essentially the same as the normal one. However, Shizune will take Reprodutor's place and stats. Shizune is a Gjaum and can no longer be rescued.

Reprodutor herself escaped and will not appear in this Scenario again. If your players want to find Reprodutor, continue this story in a new Scenario. Move onto Scene 15 once the battle is done.

■ Scene 14: Combat (PC2)

● Description

The final battle takes place in an abandoned building. All player characters must enter the Scene. Have players perform an Impulse Check and begin the battle.

● Setting

You enter the abandoned building that Shizune identified as Reprodutor's new hideout. There, you find Reprodutor and her "worker bees."

● Dialogue: Reprodutor

"So you found my hideout. Well done."

"You removed Shizune's chip? I suppose it needs more work."

"But right now, your deaths are priority. I'll kill you, right here right now." (Calls out minions)

"These are the worker bees Shizune brought me."

● Conclusion

Continue on to the Endings once the boss battle is done.

Ending Phase

● About the Endings

These Endings all assume that Shizune was rescued and Reproductor was defeated.

■ Scene 15: Resolution (PC3)

● Description

Players must decide what to do with Shizune, who is now an Overed. The players can have her join the UGN or delete her memories. Be open to any suggestions that players may have, but discuss the option of memory wipe first. Yugo Kiritani will follow through with the players' choice.

● Setting

After the battle, you were summoned to Yugo Kiritani's office.

● Dialogue: Yugo Kiritani

"Reproducer has been neutralized. Excellent work."

"Now, we must talk about Shizune Yasuga. As you know, she is an Overed now."

"I have to decide her fate, but I want to hear the opinions of the people who dealt with her directly. That is why I gathered you all here."

"She doesn't realize what she has become yet. I would prefer to keep her under surveillance, in which case I'll have her memories of this incident wiped, and let her be a normal girl again."

"However, I am prepared to tell her the truth and induct her as an agent, but only if she can bear the truth about this world."

"I'll entrust this decision to you. Your team has the final say."

(The players make their decision) "Very well. I'll make the arrangements. Are you sure about this?"

● Individual Endings

■ Scene 16: Peace has Returned (PC5)

● Description

You will describe how the city has returned to normal.

● Setting

A few days have passed. Walking along the streets, you see how peaceful it now is. Smiling children run by you. You hear jovial students leaving the building where the tutoring class was held. Reproductor and the malicious vibe is gone from the city. The sky is bright and the city is full of smiles.

● Dialogue: Boy (The same one from Scene 5)

"Hey, you're that guy from before! Thanks for saving me!"

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC5 finishes talking.

■ Scene 17: Mission Complete (PC4)

● Description

Yugo Kiritani personally thanks PC4. When their conversation is finished, Kiritani enters a car that pulled up and is driven away.

● Setting

Your mission is complete. You're getting ready to leave the city, but Yugo Kiritani catches you first. He talks to you nonchalantly, as if to avoid attention from the crowds nearby.

● Dialogue: Yugo Kiritani

"Thank you again. I hope you'll help us again if similar issues arise."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC4 leaves.

■ Scene 18: Aftermath(PC3)

● Description

Yugo Kiritani calls PC3 and tells him what will happen to Shizune Yasuga.

● Setting

A few days later, Yugo Kiritani calls you at your office.

● Dialogue: Yugo Kiritani

"Hello. Do you remember Shizune Yasuga?"

(If Shizune's memory was wiped) "As we discussed before, her memory has been wiped. She will continue her life without any memories of this incident."

(If Shizune's memory was not wiped) "On your advice, I have her working as an Illegal."

● Conclusion

End the Scene once PC3 responds to the news.

■ Scene 19: A New Mission (PC2)

• Description

PC2 has been given a new mission.

• Setting

A few days have passed. You received a new mission, one that requires that you go undercover at a high school in a different city.

• Dialogue: Teacher

"We have a new student. His name's PC2. Everyone, say hi."

• Dialogue: Boy at the Back of the Room

(Raises a Warding field) "Hi PC2. I'm sure we're going to be good friends."

• Conclusion

End the Scene once PC2 finishes talking.

• Setting

A few days have passed. Shizune continues to attend your school.

• Dialogue: Shizune Yasuga

"Hey, PC1. Good morning."

"I'm working for the UGN now. There's a lot I don't know. I'm counting on you to teach me."

• Conclusion

End the Scene once PC1 finishes talking.

■ After-Game

This Scenario's goal was to defeat Reprodutor. If this was achieved, award players eight experience points.

If Reprodutor escaped or Shizune was not rescued, players only earn one point.

■ Scene 20: A Different Path (PC1)

• Description

This version of PC1's Ending assumes that Shizune joined the UGN. If her memory was wiped, Shizune will instead be leaving the country with her parents.

Angry Impulses Test-Play Report

◆ About this Scenario

This Scenario is basically about defending City N from an enemy agent. Its story utilizes the S-Lois and E-Lois mechanics, which were first introduced in the Advanced Rulebook supplement.

◆ Scene 7

Players rescue Shizune during Scene 7, but due to the control chip, she becomes an enemy later on. In order for this story to unfold as it is written, there must be a point when the players leave Shizune's side.

During test plays, players often decide to leave Shizune with the UGN. The GM used questions like "Are you sure you want her to go home alone?" to place the idea of potential attacks into the players' minds. Players would then ask the GM where Shizune can be kept safe, upon which the GM readily gave the information.

These kinds of techniques were used to lead players into believing that they were making the right choice, and thus make them more likely to leave Shizune alone.

There were times when players insisted that they keep constant watch over Shizune. In these cases, the GM created a Scene where Shizune suddenly changes personality in front of the players and escape from the hospital room or wherever she was being kept.

◆ Shizune's Change

From Scenes 9 to 13, Shizune is under the control of the enemy. To show that Shizune is being controlled without outright saying so, you will have to roleplay her brainwashed personality really strongly.

During test play, the GM placed heavy emphasis on uncharacteristic lines, in particular lines that praised Reprodutor or showed zealous loyalty.

◆ «Profiling»

During Scene 11, players will converse with a prerecorded video of Reprodutor. When questioned as to how Reprodutor could prerecord her answers, the test play GM explained that «Profiling» allowed her to predict all of the players' questions. Most players considered this explanation acceptable.

◆ Talking to the Brainwashed Shizune

For Scene 13, players have to talk Shizune out of her brainwashing. To do so, they have to solve with Shizune's problems, namely her not wanting to leave PC1's side.

During test play, a common talking point involved telling Shizune about the world of Overeds and asking her to join the UGN. Because joining the UGN means that she might be able to stay in City N, it provided a solution to her dilemma. This was usually sufficient motivation to free her from Reprodutor's control.

SCENARIO STARTERS

DOUBLE CROSS

Ideas for Scenarios

This section is a selection of Scenario Starters. Unlike the ones from previous rulebooks, these starters make use of the new Progressive Check mechanic and include battle-ready bosses and enemies.

Because Progressive Checks tie in so heavily with the story, a synopsis of the intended story has also been included. Once you make some handouts and a trailer, these Scenario Starters will be playable.

■ Contents

Each Scenario Starter will have the following:

Synopsis

As mentioned above, this is a map of the intended story. You'll know how the story begins, the plot twists, and how it all leads to the final boss battle.

Backstory

This consists of plot points that are usually kept secret from the players. This is information like the true identity of the boss or whatever truth that is hidden by the conspiracy that the players are dealing with.

This information will be important when you are creating your Scenario. It will be up to you to decide when and how this information is revealed.

Progressive Check

Each Scenario Starter has a Progressive Check that ties heavily into the story. Completion of these Checks will be necessary to reach the Climax or beat the boss.

In many cases, these Progressive Checks will come with a special Situation Chart that is also story-specific.

Enemy Data

Like with the sample Scenarios, these Starters will include a ready-made boss battle. The key to beating these bosses often lie with the accompanying Progressive Check.

Shadow Island

"What is going on with this island!?"

Kyoji Kasuga is stunned by the nightmarish sight before him. His agents are being picked off by the shadowy wildlife that inhabit the island.

A Legacy Relic was discovered on an island out in the Pacific. Once unimportant, this island is now a battleground for the UGN, False Hearts, and Xenos.

Professor Caudwell sent Kyoji Kasuga and a team of False Hearts player characters to retrieve the Legacy relic. Likewise, the UGN deployed their own team of player characters. Kyoka Tsuzuki has her own team of player characters on the ground, but she does not want the relic. She instead ordered her team to seek out and destroy an EX Renegade that carries the Ouroboros Syndrome.

Normally, these teams would be fighting each other, but circumstances lead to them working together to survive. It started with Kyoji Kasuga and his detachment being attacked by the local wildlife. Kyoji claimed that they were attacked by animals and plants that turned into shadows.

As if backing up his statement, the player characters are also attacked by these living black shadows. No matter how many shadows were defeated, more would come to take their place. Kyoji Kasuga suggested retreating from the island, but the boats the player characters came on were destroyed. Their radio systems are also being jammed somehow.

Kyoji Kasuga and the player are now trapped on an island with countless black animals and plants.

The secret is that the island itself is both the Legacy relic and the EX Renegade that the players are looking for. The island was sealed away during ancient times, and remained dormant until humans set foot on its shore. Seeking revenge for having been forced into its slumber, the island plans to wipe out humanity.

During this Scenario, the island will slowly move towards the larger continents. If the island makes it to shore, the shadowy animals and fauna that inhabits it will be unleashed onto the world, causing massive destruction.

In order to save both humanity and themselves, the player characters have to reach the island's core and destroy it.

*Black Island

	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40

Description

Players must enter the island's central core, which acts as the control center for the shadow animals and plants. Players learn of this location via events in the Scenario. Initially, the island will not realize that the players are heading for the core, but if it is alerted, the island will deploy shadows. In terms of gameplay, failing this Check will result in a mob battle occurring right before the boss battle.

Goal: 15 Points
Support Roll: [Mind]
Recommended for: 4 Players

Players must first move stealthily towards the location's core, avoiding enemies along the way. Players must roll [Mind] to see if they can maintain their calm and stealth despite the dangerous circumstances.

If successful, players will make it past the security and reach the final boss battle. If they fail, they will be forced to retreat, thus wasting what little time they have.

Progression Events

3 Points: The players reached the midpoint undetected. Now they have to find the path that leads to the core.

Players now roll <Perception>. 6 Points: The door to the core has been found. It's a rusty metal door that must be forced open. Decrease Difficulty to 7. Players now roll [Body].

9 Points: Once past the door, the players spot a single animal on patrol, but luckily for them the animal hasn't noticed them. The players must kill the patrol. Increase Difficulty to 13. Players roll <Melee>, <Ranged>, or <RC>. If players do not have a weapon or Power that corresponds to one of the Check Skills, they cannot perform a Progression Roll.

1D100

Shadow Island Situation Chart - Results

01 - 20	A patrol is closing in. Difficulty this Round is increased by +2.
21 - 40	The Legacy's aura is affecting your Renegade. If you fail a Progression Roll this Round, increase your Encroachment Rate by +1D10.
41 - 60	Nothing happens.
61 - 80	You harmonized with the Legacy. Progression Rolls this Round earn an extra Point, but they increase your Encroachment Rate by +3.
81 - 100	Patrolling plants are releasing an unusual scent. During this Round, characters lose 3HP whenever they perform a Progression Roll.

Saying Goodbye

*"How many years has it been?
You look...good."*

The young girl barely got those words out of her mouth, but her shyness did not stop her from smiling. She finally found her childhood friend, who was missing for so long.

An ancient Renegade Being known as "Dead Shadow" was captured for Project Infinity Code, but it managed to escape from its False Hearts captors. He's hiding out in City N, and False Hearts is looking to recapture it.

Kyoka Tsuzuki, seeing this as an opportunity to exterminate another Ouroboros Overed, deploys Xenos agents to City N.

Strange things happening in City N since Dead Shadow escaped. Rumors say that the dead come back if you think about them. The UGN believes that the Renegade is responsible for these "resurrections" and ordered an investigation.

Based on the investigations carried out by all three organizations, the resurrected dead are actually Dead Shadow in disguise. Everyone who has met Dead Shadow ended up committing suicide.

In these investigations, one girl's name keeps coming up: Rei Managi. She went missing as child, but recently returned to City N.

*Dead Shadow, Rei Managi
-Ouroboros*

As a child, Rei Managi was kidnapped by False Hearts and turned into a child soldier. She was killed on a mission that against Dead Shadow. Dead Shadow now uses the possessions Rei had on her as the core of its current body.

Dead Shadow is immortal, so it has no understanding of death. It tries to comprehend the concept of death by observing humans. By taking on the appearance of the deceased, Dead Shadow learns how humans deal with death. By getting people to commit suicide, he gets to witness what goes on in the human mind in the moments before death.

Dead Shadow has long since turned into a Gjaum and cannot control its desire to see death. Special means are needed to kill this immortal being.

Description

Players are locked in battle with Dead Shadow. In order to kill him, players must awaken Rei Managi's memories, which sleep deep inside Dead Shadow.

If Dead Shadow is exposed to Rei's memories of her dying moment, it will gain the understanding of death it so desires. «Undying Delusions», the E-Lois that allows Dead Shadow to constantly resurrect after each defeat, will be negated.

Goal: 12 Points

Support Roll: [Mind]

Recommended for: 4 Players

To actually awaken Rei's memories, players will have to attune their Renegade strain to Rei's old strain. If successful, a burst of emotion will travel from Dead Shadow's core to the rest of his body.

If a character performs a Progression Roll, he must increase his Encroachment Rate by 1D10.

Progression Events

3 Points: The harmonization between Renegade strains is causing pent-up emotions inside Dead Shadow to spill out. Without a strong grip on reality, you will lose yourselves in the waves of emotions.

Players now roll <Will>. Decrease Difficulty to 9. Players that fail their Progression Rolls will receive the Bad Statuses Dazed and Pressure.

6 Points: The waves of emotion have subsided, and now Dead Shadow's core – the deceased Rei Managi's belongings – is completely exposed. Players must grab hold of this object and bring forth Rei's memories.

Increase Difficulty to 10. Players roll <Negotiation>. Players must be in Dead Shadow's Engagement before they can perform a Progression Roll.

9 Points: Rei Managi's memories are slowly resurfacing. These memories must be placed deep inside Dead Shadow's consciousness. This can only be done by someone who has formed some sort of connection with Rei.

Players now roll [Mind]. Decrease Difficulty to 6. Only players who have a Lois with Rei Managi can perform a Progression Roll.

Battle Plan

During the Setup Process, use «Shadow Marionette» to gather the players into a single Engagement.

During the first Initiative Process, use «Accelerated Time» to gain an extra turn (Main Process). With your extra turn, use Elegant Leap combo as your Minor Action and Elegant Thrust as your Major Action.

Attack with Elegant Thrust for every turn afterward. Always target the Engagement that has the highest number of players.

If you are about to take damage that is 50 or above, use «Return to the Void» to reduce that damage to zero.

If you are reduced to zero HP, use «Revival» to revive yourself. You gain back only 1 HP, and this Power can only be used once per Scenario. Upon reviving, use «Accelerated Time» and then attack with «Primordial Void: Black Hole Destruction».

Use «Primordial Black: Time Coffin» against the player that is most likely to do the most damage.

■ Battle Placement

Player characters and Dead Shadow start in separate Engagements.

These Engagements are five meters away from each other.

■ For Smaller Groups

If you only have four players, reduce Dead Shadow's HP by -30.

If you only have three players, reduce Dead Shadow's HP by another -30, remove «Primordial Black: Time Coffin», and reduce «Accelerated Time's» level to 1.

Rodent Pandemic

*"Info! Data! Datos! Gegevens!
Give! Give! KURE!"*

The rat race is on and the vermin are starving. Their enthusiasm drives a rampage that can only end in death.

The data servers of False Hearts' intelligence cell Ratfink were located by the UGN. Seeing this as a chance to either destroy them or steal as much intelligence as possible, the UGN had a team retrieve the servers. Even if nothing could be recovered from the machines, the UGN believed they dealt a major blow to Ratfink.

However, inside the captured servers lived Stampeding Rat, a False Hearts virus that became an EX Renegade. The program became fully active when Rina Sagawa of UGN Intelligence attempted to hack into the captured servers.

Through optical and network pathways, Stampeding Rat "hacked" into Sagawa's body and escaped with her and his servers. The player characters are called in to find and capture Rina Sagawa.

During their pursuit of Rina Sagawa, the player characters will realize that Sagawa is being controlled by Stampeding Rat and that she is in grave danger.

Stampeding Rat was originally programmed by Ratfink to break through any firewall, allowing him to access and steal information, but his new Renegade powers now allow him to enter human minds. It will not be long before Sagawa's brain is drained dry by the virus inside of her.

*Stampeding Rat
-Neumann/Orcus*

Thanks to the Renegade, the computer virus Stampeding Rat can now infect humans.

If Rina Sagawa is drained completely dry of her memories, Stampeding Rat will move on to other humans.

Fortunately, Sagawa is an Overed, and as long as she does not turn into a Gjaum, she will be able to contain Stampeding Rat within herself.

The players' goal is to delete Stampeding Rat before Rina Sagawa becomes a Gjaum. This will ensure that the situation is resolved with a minimal amount of damage.

Description

Players must access the server and delete Stampeding Rat. This requires them to break through the server security. Each successful <Knowledge: Network> roll means another protection protocol has been disabled.

The check plays out during the boss battle. Completing this check is one of the boss battle's victory conditions.

Goal: 15 Points

Support Roll: [Mind]

Recommended for: 4 Players

Players could try destroying the physical servers, but this is only a temporary solution. If the servers are destroyed, backup programs will engage, causing Stampeding Rat to revive.

He will then take control of Sagawa again. This revival is part «Successor of Infinity»'s effect. To permanently defeat Stampeding Rat, his program must be deleted.

Stampeding Rat is protected by three different types security programs: Melee, Projectile, and Commander. Refer to the next page for their stats.

Progression Events

4 Points: The players have accessed the Stampeding Rat program. Now they must get through the firewall that protects the program's core. Increase Difficulty to 9.

8 Points: Stampeding Rat activates dummy programs and hides himself amongst them. He then activates the Commander Security Program. Decrease Difficulty to 8. Players now roll <Perception>.

On the next Initiative Process, have Stampeding Rat use «Eternal Slave» and «Growing Despair» to summon one Security Program: Commander.

12 Points: The firewall is broken and the program core appears. You must now separate the core from the server and destroy it. The Progression Roll is now a [Body] Opposed check. Points are only gained when players beat Stampeding Rat.

For these Opposed checks, players are attacking, while Stampeding Rat is defending. Stampeding Rat's [Body] roll uses 10 dice and criticals at 9.

Jester's Crown

*"Let the game begin!
Can you find me in this crowd?"*

The jester's laugh echoes as the city is blanketed in an odd shade.

The clown runs, runs, runs, and the nightmare has begun...

The Clown King is a False Hearts assassin who targets UGN leaders and valuable agents. Several UGN branches have come together in a co-op mission aimed at taking down the King. The player characters were deployed by their branch to join this mission.

The Clown King dresses in a very noticeable and gaudy clown costume, but he is difficult to track down due to his special ability "Jester's Crowning." Anyone affected by this ability will be turned into a clown.

When the King is cornered in City N's downtown district, he uses Jester's Crowning to turn hundreds of people into clowns. Now exposed to a Renegade strain, these victims are slowly turning into Gjaums. Will the player characters be able to find the real King amongst this crowd?

*The Clown King
-Neumann/Hanuman/Ouroboros*

The Jester's Crowning ability is a combination of Midnight Cinema (Core pg 393) and Muse's Whispers (pg 74).

People that were turned into clowns will act just like the real King. In addition, those with a Renegade affinity will get taken over and forced to attack the player characters. If the affected civilians are left in their transformed state for an extended period of time, they will become Gjaums.

The Clown King will use Warding Canceler (pg 76) to negate Warding fields. He will also disguise himself as an UGN agent from City N named Yoko Shirato and join the player characters' search. There are other UGN agents who are also from City N, but none of them will see through the King's disguise.

The King will also use Mirror Image of Nightmares (Advanced pg 106) to create body doubles of himself. He will use those copies to send the player characters on wild chases and tire them out.

The players must first search for the created copies amongst the crowd of decoys. After the copies have been defeated, Yoko Shirato will reveal "herself" as the Clown King and attack the weakened players.

Players must find the real Clown King amongst the crowd of fake clowns that now occupies the downtown.

Goal: 15 Points

Support Roll: [Sense] [Social]
Yoko can perform a [Sense] 6 Support Roll six times per Round.

Recommended for: 4 Players

As time passes, civilians will slowly turn into Gjaums. Let your players know beforehand. From the third Round onwards, you must roll the special Situation chart in place of the regular one. The results determine when and how many become Gjaums. For every Round that passes, add +10 (Max 100) to your resulting roll.

Once 12 points have been gathered, Yoko Shirato will reveal herself as the Clown King and attacks. If the players realize that Yoko is the Clown King at any time and attacks her, she will use «Instant Retreat» to exit the Scene. This event results in the successful completion of the check. Progression Events that have not been triggered need not be played out.

Any surviving Civilian Clowns will appear during the boss battle.

Progression Events

4 Points: The streets are packed with all kinds of clowns. They seem to have been brainwashed into acting like the Clown King. Increase Difficulty to 10.

8 Points: 3 Civilian Clowns appear 10 meters away from the players and attack. Spawn 3 more Civilian Clowns at the start of each new Round.

10 Points: Yoko finds the real Clown King (it's actually a copy). You must get through the crowds and catch the King. Players now roll [Body], and doing a Progression Roll causes you to lose 10HP at the end of your turn.

-Clown King

Use Murderous Circus to deal damage and Pressure.

Due to «Sadistic Ten»'s effect, player characters, your copies, and the Civilian Clowns all receive 2D10 damage during the Cleanup Process.

If you about to receive forty or more damage, use «Return to the Void» to change that damage to zero.

■ Battle Placement

Player characters start out in a single Engagement. Place Clown King and Clown King (Copy) in another Engagement that is five meters away from the player characters. Place any surviving Civilian Clowns five meters behind the Clown King (ten meters from the player characters) in their own Engagement.

■ For Smaller Groups

If you only have four players, reduce Clown King's HP by -30.

If you only have three players, reduce Clown King's HP by another -30, remove «Rapid Beat», and reduce «Accelerated Time»'s level to 1.

Man Hunt

"I don't want to lose anyone anymore, so I'm running away. I'll be somewhere in this city, but at the same time I'll be nowhere."

You pass by a woman as you walk down the street. Something about her catches your attention, but when you turn around to look, the woman already disappeared into the crowds.

The player characters, who are private detectives, have been hired to find a woman. Their client is a young man named Kazuki Sato, an average white-collar worker.

The woman is named Kanako Kurumi. She attacked and injured your client, but Kazuki is not looking for revenge or compensation. Surprisingly, he is concerned about his attacker.

He's worried because "she had this sad look on her face when she attacked, as if she was hurting herself."

Kanako Kurumi is an Overed known as the Impaler. What makes her dangerous is her ability to subconsciously control other people. Even if she doesn't consciously think about it, anyone who argues or causes her emotional stress "automatically" die. Even Kanako cannot stop her ability.

Kanako was once held by the UGN, but she escaped after killing several scientists She's now hiding somewhere in the city.

Both the UGN and False Hearts are looking for Kanako. The player characters themselves may be policemen, private detectives, or UGN operatives.

*Impaler
-Exile/Ouroboros*

The Impaler is actually a parasitic Renegade Being that is using Kanako as a host. Its actual body is the flower hairpin that Kanako wears. No one, not even Kanako, is aware of this.

Impaler does not possess total sentience. It acts solely on survival instinct and the desire to grant the wishes of its host. Impaler uses the E-Lois «The Fool's Contract» (Advanced pg 108) to grant Kanako's wishes, «Fusion» (Core pg. 156) to grant power, and Mimicry Mask (Core pg. 157) to turn itself into anything else other than a hairpin (e.g. hair follicles).

In order to save Kanako, players must first find where she is hiding. They must then figure out that the Impaler is actually Kanako's hairpin. Because Impaler prioritizes its own survival, it will make Kanako take damage for it. Due to the effects of «Successor of Infinity» (pg. 78), if Kanako is dead when Impaler is defeated, the character that landed the final blow will become the new Impaler.

There is no End Condition other than the successful completion of the Check. This is to offset the the Encroachment Rates increases that accumulate over time (i.e. Scenes).

Progression Events

4 Points: You look into Kanako's past. She worked at a trade company after graduating from college, but soon disappeared. Her family and many of her friends have passed away, leaving few who are close to her. She was then taken in by the UGN. Players now roll <Info: UGN> or <Knowledge: Renegade>. Increase Difficulty to 8.

8 Points: You learn more about Kanako's past. Three years ago, after many of her friends died unexplained deaths, Kanako was identified by the UGN as an unaware Overed and taken in. However, she escaped after some UGN scientists died.

Unless the mystery behind these deaths is unraveled, it is unlikely that Kanako will accept your protection. You must look into these deaths. Increase Difficulty to 10.

12 Points: Analyzing the UGN's data, you realize that Kanako's powers may actually belong to another Overed that's inhabiting her. This other Overed must be Impaler. Players now roll <Perception> or <Info: Rumors>.

Completion: You found Kanako. You also learn that Impaler is actually a parasitic Renegade Being. Defeating the Impaler should free Kanako.

Use Parasitism at the start of the Round. For your first turn, use «Primordial Blue: Poison Blade» + «Origin: Plant» as your Minor. Your [Sense] checks during the Scene gain a +10 score bonus. Afterward, attack using «Primordial Blue: Poison Blade» and the Needle Barrage combo.

Use the Encroachment Defense combo when you are hit with an attack. If you are about to receive 30 or more damage, use either «Hollow Body» or «Return to the Void» to negate the damage. You have up to two chances to negate damage.

When you go below 100 HP, use «Domain's Shield» to make Kanako Cover you. If Kanako is Incapacitated, target her with your next Needle Barrage and try to kill her permanently. In terms of story, Impaler is preparing to make the player characters his next host.

If over half of the players are in your Engagement, use «Accelerated Time» to leave the Engagement and attack.

-Kanako Kurumi

■ Battle Placement

Player characters and the enemies start out in separate Engagements that are five meters apart from one another.

■ For Smaller Groups

If you only have four players, reduce Impaler's HP by -30.

If you only have three players, reduce remove Impaler's «Hollow Body», and reduce «Accelerated Time's» level to 2.

Halation Ghost

"I'm here. I'm right over here. Please don't forget about me..."

Sobbing cries echoes through the empty school hallways. This young girl lost everything, yet she only has one wish: to be found.

Paranormal activity has become the subject of gossip at City N Public High School. When school ends, pianos in empty rooms would begin playing, basketball hoops would shake by themselves, and anatomy dummies come to life. Most disturbingly, the cries of a girl can be heard coming from somewhere on the campus.

These ghost stories have put the students on edge, but Student Body President Wakana Yaegashi intends to put them at ease by finding out what's really going on.

Meanwhile, the local UGN Branch has detected a Warding field from the school that only goes up after everyone has left.

The student council teams up with the player characters (and by extension the UGN, not that Wakana knows) to find out who these ghosts really are.

*Itsuki Yumeno, Halation Ghost
-Balor/Orcus*

Itsuki was weak and frail since birth. She wanted nothing more than to have a life in the outside world. She got her chance when she started high school, but after only attending classes for one day, she was confined to a hospital room with no visitors, and she was trapped there until the day she passed away.

Itsuki's dreams and expectations she had for high school has manifested into the E-Lois «Undying Delusions» (Advanced pg. 107). She is now a Gjaum that haunts the school. If ignored, Itsuki will eventually harm the other students.

One of the player characters happened to talk to Itsuki on the one day she attended school. That player character has memories and a Lois of "The Quiet Girl," both of which will be key to uncovering the truth. But as time passes during this Scenario, the various "ghosts" will gain corporeal form and attack the students.

As the players discover the locations of these ghosts and put a stop to their activities, they will be exposed to Itsuki's memories. Once they have dealt with all the ghosts and found Itsuki, they will have witnessed of all of her memories. Her final wish now fulfilled, Itsuki will ask the player characters to put an end to her.

Use «Luck's Protection» so that you can roll <RC> for your Dodge check.

The best battle plan players can take is to use Titus bonuses to heal Bad Statuses and then attack. If players do not realize this, drop hints via the boss' roleplay.

■ Battle Placement

Player characters and the boss start out in separate Engagements that are five meters apart from one another.

■ For Smaller Groups

If you only have three players, remove «Luck's Protection».

Run Lola Run

"This is a race. Whoever wins gets the girl. Clean and simple, yeah?"

You gaze at the immense city before you. Somewhere out there tonight, a girl is running scared.

You turn your attention to your opponent. He smiles as if he was enjoying a game.

No matter what happens, you cannot let this man get his hands on that girl.

This is the story of Lola. She is an Overed with the rare ability of precognition. Her powers awakened when she lost both her parents in an accident.

False Hearts took an interest in Lola's powers. They took her from her home in Northern Europe and imprisoned her in a facility on the outskirts of City N.

Lola was able to use her precognitive abilities to escape. When she met the player characters, she asked for their help. However, the False Hearts agent Master Hunter forced Lola into a berserk state, causing her to run at the sight of the player characters.

Lola is running scared through the streets of City N. She will eventually turn into a Gjaum if she remains in her panicked state. Lola's fate has come down to a race between the player characters and Master Hunter's False Hearts team.

Master Hunter
-Balor/Hanuman/Morpheus

To hook the players into this story, have whoever finds Lola be ordered by the UGN to protect her.

After securing Lola, gathering information, and fighting off minions, introduce Master Hunter and his team into the story.

Master Hunter uses the E-Lois «Twisted Whisper» (Advanced pg 107) to change Lola's relationship with the player characters. The Lois towards the player characters is rewritten to [P: Earnestness/N: Fear], with Fear as the dominant emotion. This causes Lola to run away.

«Twisted Whisper» is negated when Master Hunter is defeated. This allows players to correct their relationship with Lola, but they still need to catch up to her and calm her down. This is accomplished by completing this Scenario's Progressive Check.

Lola will be safe once the players catch her and Master Hunter is defeated.

The boss character Master Chaser and his minions are also playing this Progressive Check. Only the boss will perform Progression Rolls, but the minions help the boss gain an extra 3 points for each successful Roll. Also, modifiers from the Situation Chart only apply to the player characters.

Both sides start in their own Engagements. The distance between them is equal to the difference of their point totals multiplied by five.

This Check only ends when one side gains 30 points. If Master Chaser is still alive at the end, start the boss battle. Let players know that if False Hearts wins, Lola becomes a Gjaum.

Battle Plan

Master Hunter is a boss that excels at this starter's Progressive Check. His Power set and strategy was designed to force players to discard Tituses for roll bonuses. Refer to the Sonic Driver combo for a guideline of what Powers to use for checks.

If you're not rolling <Ride: 2-Wheel>, use «Perfect Control» to give yourself a +10 score bonus, «Limit Removal» to gain a -1 Critical Value bonus, or «Light
Speed» to gain a second Major Action
(and thus a second Progression Roll).

«Wall of Rejection» negates any damage amount that is 30 points or less. This effect is lost when players deal at least 31 points of damage, but only until the end of the Scene.

Master Hunter will always recover 10HP during the Cleanup Process. Even if Master Hunter is attacked, he should survive for the entire Progressive Check.

Master Hunter's only attack combo is a single-character attack, but this is offset by using «Supersonic Doppelganger» during the first Setup Process. This gives him four clones that can use the same attack. Don't use this Power until the boss battle.

The clones are treated as separate characters who have the exact same stats and abilities as Master Hunter. However,
The clones and original all share a single HP amount. An area attack can wipe them all out in one fell swoop.

If you're about to receive damage that's above 30 points, use «After Image» to negate it. This can only be done once.

If you're reduced to zero HP, use «Soul
Alchemy» to revive yourself with 40HP.

■ Battle Placement

Player characters and the boss start out in separate Engagements that are five meters apart from one another. Use this placement for both the Progressive Check and final boss battle.

■ For Smaller Groups

If you only have four players, reduce Master Hunter's HP by -30. If you only have three players, reduce remove «After Image», and reduce «Supersonic
Doppelganger's level to 3.

Giant Killer

"It's approximately fifty meters in height, seventy-two meters in width, and five hundred metric tons. If I'm the Leviathan, then that is the Behemoth."

"...Anyways, your mission is to stall that monstrosity until we establish a complete media blackout."

The giant Gjaum that appeared near City R truly is a majestic singularity. Unfortunately it is destroying everything in its path as it walks towards the city.

Its unimaginable size is its greatest weapon and defense. Can it even be defeated?

The Behemoth is the product of a False Hearts experiment. Originally a smaller Gjaum, it was given the ability to increase its size by absorbing other living beings and Renegade strains.

Unfortunately, the Behemoth grew larger than anticipated. The scientists and the security team charged with restraining the Behemoth were unable to handle the beast and were killed.

The UGN branch in City R discovered the Behemoth and attempted an attack. They too were destroyed. The UGN squad that was later sent in also met the same fate.

Long-distance attacks bounce off of the Behemoth's rocky hide, while any teams that got close were wiped out in a single attack.

The UGN has determined that the best course of action is to send in a team to climb the Behemoth and attack any potential weak spots they find. The team must be small, otherwise they will be detected. The player characters were chosen to be that team.

Behemoth
-Chimaera/Exile/Ouroboros

The Behemoth started out as a fusion of multiple Gjaums, a chimaera if you will. After the unethical experimentation it experienced at the hands of False Hearts, the beast has lost all semblance of sanity and reason. Its Impulses are all that is moving it now.

This Scenario's Progressive Check has players climbing up the Behemoth. During numerous intervals, players will be able to communicate with Yugo Kiritani and the response team he is leading. During these times, players can gain information on the current situation.

The Behemoth dies when both its Torso and Head are defeated in battle. These body parts are reached when a certain number of Progression Points have been accumulated.

6 Points: You climb up the monster's rocky hide whenever it stops moving. Part of the Behemoth's hide breaks off and attacks you. End the Scene and start a battle with four Behemoth's Child. These enemies use the same stats as the Gjaum: Crusher (Core pg. 380). Player Characters start five meters away from these enemies.

9 Points: You're now on the Behemoth's backside. In order to find the Behemoth's weak spot, you must analyze the breaks and movements of its hide. Players now roll <Perception>. Difficulty increases to 12.

15 Points: That towering spike on the Behemoth's back is apparently one of the monster's cores. As you walk closer, tentacles pop out and attack you. End the Scene and start a battle with the Behemoth's Torso (refer to the next page). Player Characters start five meters away from the Torso.

21 Points: The Behemoth stopped walking. Several arms and tentacles come out to attack you. You must reach the monster's final weak point, its head. Players now roll [Body]. Difficulty increases to 15. If a player performs a Progression Roll, he loses 10HP at the end of their turn.

Battle Plan

-Behemoth's Torso

Use the Behemoth Stirs, then attack with Behemoth's March.

-Behemoth's Head

Use the Behemoth Awakens, then attack with Behemoth's Roar. If players enter your Engagement, use «Repulsion Jump» to Move away.

If you're reduced to zero HP, use «Proof of the Hell Beast» to revive with 50HP. You can only do this once.

When you revive, use «True Traitor» during the next Setup Process. The character that lowered your HP to zero will receive damage equal to 6D10 + 1/10 of his Encroachment Rate.

■ Battle Placement

Player start in a single Engagement. Place the Behemoth 5 meters away.

■ For Smaller Groups

If you only have four players, remove «Proof of the Hell Beast». If you only have three players, reduce the Torso and Head's HP by 30.
