

REMNANTS AND REMAINS

This world is full of tokens,
to piece together
memories,
snippets of stories,
and care for those you know.

Take a walk, alone or with companions, wherever you so choose. Find an item of any sort, but such that it can fit in the palm of your hand, perhaps a small round stone, or a bottle cap left behind. Describe how this represents you, tell a story of the past it represents, a future it foretells, or, if with companions, present it to one of them, as a gift, and decide what this means between you. Repeat, until your legs tire, or time tracks too long, and retire to your roost, adding to your collection of memories each time you play.
