You have magic in you. You might not be aware of it yet, but you have power beyond comprehension. Think of this as a tool, something to help you discern how your magic manifests. Like any tool, not everyone uses it the same way, so think of the methods this document encourages you to use as more of a guideline. Above all else, this is a personal activity, if you have a spur of the moment idea on how to use this document, pursue it! It may be your magic trying to come to the surface.

Materials:

You will need a piece of paper, a writing utensil, and your favorite dice.

Guidelines:

1. Divide the paper into 4 quadrants with your writing utensil.
2. In the first quadrant, write out the titles of magical people.
Ex: Close friend, Mother, or Botanist.
3. In the second quadrant, write out things that fascinate you.
Ex: Wildlife, Tea, or Architecture.
4. In the third quadrant, write out things your connected to.
Ex: Your favorite book, Rainy days, or A lover's comforting touch.
5. In the fourth quadrant, write out parts of yourself you like.
Ex: A nice smile, The way your hair rests, or Your desire to empathize.

Results:

Now that you have your paper filled, assign numbers to the things you wrote down in any particular fashion that suits you. Roll the dice for each of the four quadrants to determine wherein your magic lies.

The first quadrant shows you whos magic you see the easiest.

The second shows you what magic you're the most sensitive to.

The third shows you what refreshes your magic.

The fourth shows you how you share your magic with others.

Lastly, name your magic, the name you give it makes it real and tangible.

You have your magic, go and share it! Spread magic through ways both big and small. Take care of yourself friend, and your magic will grow.
