

TO ALL THE TYRANTS I'VE OVERTHROWN

There are no more enemies left to stand before you. You have gone forth and defeated each and every one of them. Now, unhindered, you will get the chance to tell your side of the narrative, however you decide. A crowd waits, preparing to hear from you all of your

You must create a speech about your victories and spin your narrative however you see fit.

When answering the major prompts, respond to these following questions:

-Who were they?

-Why did they rise against you?

-How did you defeat them?

-How did you build yourself up from the victory?

-What legacy did you decide they left, if any?

-Someone who said you would never succeed.

-Someone who stood in your way.

-Someone who suppressed your voice.

-Someone who oppressed your way of life.

-Someone who abused their authority.

-Someone who wasted every resource trying to stop you.

-Those who thought thought you and your cause were worthless.

Once your speech is written, recite it proudly to your crowd.
