PREFACE

In many adventures and campaigns, necromancy and similar magic often plays a key role in the story. This supplement aims to give both players and DMs more options in these types of campaigns by giving them more races, subclasses, spells, and creatures for them to work with. If your dungeon master allows, these options can be used in any of your campaigns.

ON THE COVER

Utilizing magic long-forgotten to most sects of druids, this member of the Circle of Night channels the life force of a recent kill to cast an ancient blood ritual, in this scene illustrated by Felipe Escobar Bravo.

Created June 2016, Updated June 2017

Disclaimer: Always be sure to remember your Dark Magic Safety Guidelines when handling dangerous magics and magical beings: a) don't let the vampires bite, b) try not to die, and c) don't anger an archlich

CHAPTER 1: RACES

THIS CHAPTER PRESENTS THREE NEW Races to supplement those in the Player's Handbook: Mummies, Wights, and Shadar-kai. Mummies and Wights are converted from creatures in the Monster Manual, and should be Treated in the same way as monstrous races from Volo's Guide to Monsters. The Shadar-kai are a race native to the toxic darkness of the shadowfell. These new options are available when you make a character, provided that your DM allows them in your campaign.

MUMMY

Hidden within ancient tombs in vast deserts, mummies evoke fear in the heart of every adventurer. Raised by dark funerary rites through necromantic rituals, mummies unquestioningly serve the whims of their masters for as long as they live. However, once those masters are gone a rare few mummies may choose to stray from their ancient tasks, traveling out of their tombs to inflict themselves on the world above.

THE WILL OF DARK GODS

An undead mummy is created when the priest of a death god or other dark deity ritually imbues a prepared corpse with necromantic magic. The mummy's linen wrappings are inscribed with necromantic markings before the burial ritual concludes with an invocation to darkness. As a mummy endures in undeath, it animates in response to conditions specified by the ritual. Most commonly, a transgression against its tomb, treasures, lands, or former loved ones will cause a mummy to rise.

The long burial rituals that accompany a mummy's entombment help protect its body from rot. In the embalming process, the newly dead creature's organs are removed and placed in special jars, and its corpse is treated with preserving oils, herbs, and wrappings. After the body has been prepared, the corpse is typically wrapped in linen bandages.

THE PUNISHED

Once deceased, an individual has no say in whether or not its body is made into a mummy. Some mummies were powerful individuals who displeased a high priest or pharaoh, or who committed crimes of treason, adultery, or murder. As punishment, they were cursed with eternal undeath, embalmed, mummified, and sealed away. Other times, mummies acting as tomb guardians are created from slaves put to death specifically to serve a greater purpose. Once created, a mummy obeys the conditions and parameters laid down by the rituals that created it, driven only to punish transgressors.

TIMELESS UNDEATH

Most mummies have existed far longer than even the oldest elves, though most of them have remained in their tomb for nearly the entire period. Once they awake, they cannot remember their past life or personality, so they remain dry husks even throughout their eons of "life" if you could call it that.

However, some mummies do gain some knowledge of the outside world, and even the most rudimentary knowledge from when they were first created may hold untold secrets to the modern world. As a result, some serve as undead repositories of lost lore, and can be consulted by the descendants of those who created them. Powerful individuals sometimes intentionally sequester mummies away for occasional consultation, and particularly talkative mummies are treasured by historians.

MUMMY NAMES

When they are created, mummies are not often named, and they have no memory of their name in life. Even when they are named, it is usually something extremely simple such as a number. However, once a mummy becomes free of its master, it might choose to give itself a real name, or perhaps let a troop of adventurers choose its name for it. Therefore, mummies can have all types of names based on what names they have encountered. If they have encountered many human adventurers in their time, they may choose a human name, and could do the same for any of the other races.

MUMMY TRAITS

As a mummy, you have certain traits that you share with other mummies. As a mummy you gain access to powerful magic through your rotting curse and dreadful glare, though both of these magics have been weakened through the death of your master and your departure from the tomb.

Ability Score Increase. Your Strength score increases by 2, and your Constitution score increases by 1.

Age. As beings of undeath, mummies do not age or mature, and they may live for thousands of years if undisturbed.

Alignment. As the creations of evil masters, mummies are often evil themselves. Most often mummies tend towards lawfulness in their devotion to their master.

Size. Mummies are between 5 and 6 feet tall and average about 120 pounds. Your size is medium.

Speed. Your base walking speed is 25 feet.

Darkvision. Accustomed to the eternal darkness of an ancient tomb, you have superior vision in dark and dim conditions. You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of grey.

Dreadful Glare. As an action, you can target one creature you can see within 10 feet of you. The target must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or become frightened of you until the end of your next turn. The DC for this saving throw equals 8 + your Constitution modifier + your Proficiency bonus.

After you use your glare, you can't use it again until you complete a short or long rest.

Rotting Fist. Your hands rot those they touch. When you make unarmed attacks against creatures with them, you deal necrotic damage equal to 1d4 + your Strength modifier, instead of the bludgeoning damage normal for an unarmed attack.

Undead. You are considered undead for effects such as turn undead and many healing spells. You are immune to disease and the poisoned condition, and you have resistance to poison damage. You do not need to eat or breathe, but you can ingest food or drink if you wish. Instead of sleeping, you enter an inactive state for 4 hours each day. You do not dream in this state, but resting in this way is otherwise identical to sleeping. Magically induced sleep can cause you to enter this inactive state.

Languages. You can speak, read, and write Common and one other language you knew in life.

WIGHT

The word "wight" meant "person" in days of yore, but the name now refers to evil undead who were once mortals driven by dark desire and great vanity. When death stills such a creature's heart and snuffs its living breath, its spirit cries out to the demon lord Orcus or some vile god of the underworld for a reprieve: undeath in return for eternal war on the living. If a dark power answers the call, the spirit is granted undeath so that it can pursue its own malevolent agenda.

Wights possess the memories and drives of their formerly living selves. They will heed the call of whatever dark entity transformed them into undead, swearing oaths to appease their new lord while retaining their autonomy. Never tiring, a wight can pursue its goals relentlessly and without distraction.

LIFE EATERS

Neither dead nor alive, a wight exists in a transitional state between one world and the next. The bright spark it possessed in life is gone, and in its place is a yearning to consume that spark in all living things. When a wight attacks, this life essence glows like white-hot embers to its dark eyes, and the wight's cold touch can drain the spark through flesh, clothing, and armor.

SHADOW OF THE GRAVE

Wights flee from the world by day, away from the light of the sun, which they hate. They retreat to barrow mounds, crypts, and tombs where they dwell. Their lairs are silent, desolate places, surrounded by dead plants, noticeably blackened, and avoided by bird and beast.

Humanoids slain by a wight can rise as zombies under its control. Motivated by hunger for living souls and driven by the same desire for power that awakened them in undeath, some wights serve as shock troops for evil leaders, including wraiths. As soldiers, they are able to plan but seldom do so, relying on their hunger for destruction to overwhelm any creature that stands before them.

WIGHT NAMES

When they are created, a wight keeps all of the memories of its former life, and therefore keeps its name as well. Therefore, wights can have all types of names based on whatever race they were in life.

WIGHT TRAITS

Your wight character has certain traits derived from its undead nature.

Ability Score Increase. Your Constitution score increases by 2, and your Charisma score increases by 1.

Age. As beings of undeath, Wights do not age or mature, and they may live for thousands of years if they are not killed in battle.

Alignment. Wights are transformed by dark entities to serve their needs, and therefore are most often evil themselves. Although they retain their memories and personalities, Wights are only created from evil and vain humans, so they will remain evil unless they change their alignment after reaching undeath.

Size. Wights are between 5 and 6 feet tall and average about 180 pounds. Your size is medium.

Speed. Your base walking speed is 30 feet.

Darkvision. As a being forced to live in darkness, you have superior vision in dark and dim conditions. You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of grey.

Sunlight Sensitivity. You have disadvantage on attack rolls and on Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on sight when you, the target of your attack, or whatever you are trying to perceive is in direct sunlight.

Undead. You are considered undead for effects such as turn undead and many healing spells. You are immune to disease and the poisoned condition, and you have resistance to poison damage. You do not need to eat or breathe, but you can ingest food or drink if you wish. Instead of sleeping, you enter an inactive state for 4 hours each day. You do not dream in this state, but resting in this way is otherwise identical to sleeping. Magically induced sleep can cause you to enter this inactive state.

Life Drain. When you kill a humanoid, you can choose to have it rise 24 hours later as a zombie under your control, unless it is restored to life or its body is destroyed. Only one zombie may be created through this ability at any one time; if another is created then the first becomes inanimate.

The zombie has the statistics of the Zombie (Monster Manual pg. 316), except its hp value is instead equal to three times your level.

Languages. You can speak, read, and write Common and one other language you knew in life.

SHADAR-KAI

Shadar-kai were once humans, native to the world. They were all members of an extended tribe who called themselves Shadar-Kai. These early humans had seen the abuses Nerull, once god of death, perpetrated on the souls who passed into his power. They also feared the unknowable reaches of death into which most souls pass even now. When the Raven Queen slew Nerull and ascended to godhood, in an age now largely forgotten, the Shadar-Kai struck a deal with her. They promised to serve as her mortal agents, and in exchange, she gave them incredibly long life and freedom from frailty. The shadar-kai believe that, through their pact, they became the chosen people of death and winter.

The Shadar-Kai moved to the Shadowfell, setting up their communities on the borders of Letherna, the Raven Queen's domain. Life in shadow changed the humans, reshaping them and altering their appearance. Eventually, they were so different from humans that they became a distinct species. As they expanded their territory in the Shadowfell and began interacting again with the mortal world, the tribal name became the name for their race.

ASHEN AND SCARRED

Shadar-kai are humanlike, but the weight of existence in the Shadowfell has shaped them to be slightly shorter and much thinner than their human counterparts. A shadar-kai has a colorless complexion that varies from alabaster to dark gray. Shadar-kai hair is similarly drab or raven black. Pale hair might have a hint of color within the range of human norms. The eyes are lustrous and black, lacking any white or clear pupil. Shadows near a shadar-kai sometimes seem to reach out or deepen, especially when the shadar-kai is angry.

Although drab in natural appearance, shadar-kai are quite elaborate and idiosyncratic in personal adornment. They like dark and exotic clothing, jewelry, and weapons, often decorated with swatches of bright color. Hair is similarly ornate and often dyed, and many embellish their skin with tattoos, scars, and piercings.

The tattoos, scars, and piercings a shadar-kai wears have more than one purpose. They exist as a testament to the wearer's ability to withstand pain as well as a means of personal expression and decoration. Each decoration can also be a record of a deed done, an honor gained, or a misdeed declared.

THE RAVEN QUEEN

Through their pact with the Raven Queen, each shadar-kai is an instrument of death and fate. The Raven Queen doesn't demand worship from the shadar-kai, although she receives it in abundance. She demands only that they observe the pact by keeping her commandments regardless of other beliefs. So most shadar-kai hold no pity for the dying and try to punish those who defy fate. But shadar-kai also believe that nobody truly knows what fate holds.

The Raven Queen is a fair mother, if not a loving one. When the shadar-kai called upon her in ancient times, she answered. She still does. While she spares little love, she also never demands the love of her children. Almost all shadar-kai revere the Raven Queen, but each shadar-kai is free to choose his or her destiny and way of life, including religion.

STRONG EMOTIONS

The Shadowfell saps living creatures of creativity and the will to live. When shadar-kai moved to the Shadowfell ages ago, they were not immune to this depression. Numerous members of their early society gave in to ennui and simply slipped out of existence, driving the shadar-kai to change their lifestyle, embracing strong emotions and peak experiences. These practices, born out of necessity, became traditions over countless generations.

The current culture of the shadar-kai is a study in pushing boundaries. Shadar-kai welcome difficult tasks, as well as physical and emotional extremes, as a way of life. They learn to channel the darkness of the Shadowfell rather than allowing that darkness to consume them. And they accept death as the inevitable end for those who fail to attain the right amount of power or fame.

Shadar-kai embrace living with gusto. The limits of pleasure and pain distract them from the wearying melancholy of the Shadowfell. They also strive for personal greatness, so that if they fail to gain the actual ability to live forever, stories of their great deeds will grant a sort of immortality. In this search for personal glory, most shadar-kai ignore banalities such as comfort, morality, and safety.

CALL OF THE SHADOWFELL

Although shadar-kai leave the Shadowfell to seek fortune in the world and among the planes, a few needs and wants drive a shadar-kai to return home from time to time. Most shadar-kai feel a basic need to visit the enveloping dimness of the Shadowfell at least intermittently. The plane is unlike even the darkest reaches of other planes. Obtaining new adornments and equipment in the proper style often requires a return to the Shadowfell. Shadar-kai also return to their gloomy settlements to spend time among those who see extreme, weird, or even deviant as normal. And they come home to brag.

SHADAR-KAI NAMES

Shadar-kai have similar names to their human counterparts, though they did change slightly due to their isolation in the Shadowfell, with the only real influencing force being the will of the Raven Queen. Their names are often merely the inventions of their parents, though some common names do exist.

Male names: Albrek, Baden, Codren, Emul, Horiam, Hutahn, Ioan, Lucyan, Mahahn, Niku, ovid, Petru, Razvahn, Serbahn, Shathys, Teodahr, Vasylay, Zahar.

Female names: Afyn, Anka, Bahnka, Codruta, Doru, Dyon, Floahr, Ghita, Helayna, Ioana, Jenit, Katryn, Lucya, Markella, Nadya, Roduka, Sahyeh, Tabita, Yalda, Zyna

SHADAR-KAI TRAITS

The weight of existence in the Shadowfell has shaped the physical qualities of the Shadar-kai, granting them traits unique to their native realm.

Ability Score Increase. Your Dexterity score increases by 2, and your Intelligence score increases by 1.

Age. The Shadar-kai reach physical maturity at the same rate as humans, but they generally live far longer. A shadar-kai may live up to 800 years.

Alignment. Shadar-kai society is often seen as cruel and apathetic. The shadar-kai generally strive to create chaos and death, bringing death for both purposes of evil as well as good.

Size. Shadar-kai are generally a tad below 6 feet in height and they weigh between 110 and 170 pounds. Your size is medium.

Speed. Your base walking speed is 30 feet.

Superior Darkvision. Accustomed to the black skies and eternal shadow of the Shadowfell, you have superior vision in dark and dim conditions. You can see in dim light within 120 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of grey.

Doomspeaker. You gain proficiency in the Intimidation skill.

Shadow Jaunt. On your turn, when you reduce a creature to 0 hit points, you can use your bonus action to teleport up to 15 feet.

Languages. You can speak, read, and write Common and one other language of your choice.

THE RAVEN QUEEN

Goddess of Death, Fate, and Winter

Alignment: Unaligned

Suggested Domains: Death, Nature

Symbol: Head of a black raven

The Raven Queen was once a powerful mortal sorcerer-queen. When she died, she came to Pluton, the domain of the evil death god Nerull. Nerull, impressed with her will and ambition, gave her form and made her his consort, naming her Nera. She stole Nerull's power over mortal shades, and by freeing most of them she managed to destroy Nerull and become the god of death.

After overthrowing Nerull, she abandoned Pluton and created her own realm in the Shadowfell.

She is the spinner of fate and the patron of winter. She marks the end of each mortal life, and mourners call upon her during funeral rites, in the hope that she will guard the departed from the curse of undeath. She expects her followers to abide by these commandments:

- 1) Hold no pity for those who suffer and die, for death is the natural end of life.
- 2) Bring down the proud who try to cast off the chains of fate; you must punish hubris where you find it.
- 3) Destroy the cults of Orcus, for the Demon Prince of the Undead seeks to claim the Raven Queen's throne.

CHAPTER 2: SUBCLASSES

THIS CHAPTER PRESENTS FOURTEEN NEW subclasses to supplement those in the Player's Handbook: one or more for each class. These new options are available when you make a character, provided that your DM allows them in your campaign.

PRIMAL PATHS

Rage burns in every barbarian's heart, a furnace that drives him or her toward greatness. Different barbarians attribute their rage to different sources, however, each represented by different paths.

PATH OF BLOOD

The Path of Blood is a path taken by only the most ruthless and battle-hungry barbarians. They do not care when they shed their own blood - in fact, they use that energy to empower their rage even farther, using their suffering to inflict wounds upon their foes through magical bonds of blood.

While at first glance the Path of Blood appears to be powered by the same forces as the Path of the Berserker, the Path of Blood is far more magical in nature. Bloodragers use their blood in a form of hemomancy - a magic that utilizes blood sacrifices.

BLOODBOUND

Starting when you select this path at 3rd level, you can choose to create a bond of blood between yourself and an enemy within 30 feet of you when you rage. For the duration of your rage, that enemy's attacks deal bonus necrotic damage to you equal to 1d4 + half your barbarian level on a hit, and your attacks against that enemy also deal 1d4 + half your barbarian level bonus necrotic damage on a hit. The bonus damage dealt to you ignores resistance and immunity.

If the enemy dies before your rage ends, you can use your bonus action on a subsequent turn to create a new bond between yourself and another enemy.

POWER THROUGH SUFFERING

At 6th level, the sight of your own blood empowers your rage. When you are below half your hit point maximum, your rage damage bonus is doubled for each attack you make against the target of your Bloodbound feature.

BLOOD SCENT

Starting at 10th level, you can smell the scent of blood from up to 5 miles away, and accurately pinpoint the direction it's coming from. Once you get within 1 mile of the source, you can make a DC 15 Wisdom (Perception) check to determine its exact identity. On a success, you know the exact identity of the creature if you have encountered it before; otherwise you only determine its type and the severity of its injury. Either way on a success, you know the exact distance and direction to the injured enemy. On a failed check, you know that you failed the check and can't make another one for 1 hour.

DUEL TO THE DEATH

Beginning at 14th level, your bond with your enemy compels them to fight you. Whenever the target of your Bloodbound feature attempts to move away from you or attack a creature other than you, it must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw (DC 8 + your Constitution modifier + your Proficiency bonus) or become stunned until the start of their next turn. If you are below half your hit point maximum, they have disadvantage on this save.

BARD COLLEGES

The way of a bard is gregarious. Bards seek each other out to swap songs and stories, boast of their accomplishments, and share their knowledge. Bards form loose associations, which they call colleges, to facilitate their gatherings and preserve their traditions.

COLLEGE OF THE SHADOWFELL

Bards of the College of the Shadowfell specialize in the study of that realm, gleaming great knowledge of shadow magic in the process. These bards are few in number and their study is far harder than most, for knowledge of the Shadowfell is hard to come by. These bards occasionally gather in great libraries to share their knowledge, but most of their time is spent out in the world, looking for any glimpses of knowledge that might lead them to their goal.

These bards generally do not perform music, and are instead more inclined to creating stories and manufacturing histories, with most of these stories ending as dark as the realm they study. They write the histories of the dark gods of the shadowfell and tell the stories of those that dare to reside within it, always seeking to find more knowledge of this strange plane.

BONUS PROFICIENCIES

When you join the College of the Shadowfell at 3rd level, you gain proficiency with medium armor, martial weapons, and the Stealth skill.

SHADOW STRIDE

Also at 3rd level, you learn how to empower your ally's movement within shadows and darkness. When a creature that is in darkness or dim light and has a bardic inspiration die from you begins to move, it can choose to roll that die and add 5 times the number rolled to their speed until the end of their turn.

SHROUD OF DARKNESS

Starting at 6th level, whenever a creature uses a bardic inspiration die from you or you cast a spell of 1st level or higher that targets you or another creature, you can use your reaction to imbue shadow magic into that creature. If you do so, the creature becomes enveloped in shadow, causing all attacks against it to have disadvantage and allowing it to disengage as a bonus action until the end of your next turn.

UMBRAL BODY

Beginning at 14th level, you gain the ability to transform into pure shadow. You can cast umbral form at will, without expending a spell slot or material components. When you cast the spell using this feature, you may only target yourself.

DIVINE DOMAINS

In a pantheon, every deity has influence over different aspects of mortal life and civilization, called a deity's domain. All the domains over which a deity has influence are called the deity's portfolio. For example, the portfolio of the Greek god Apollo includes the domains of Knowledge, Life, and Light. As a cleric, you choose one aspect of your deity's portfolio to emphasize, and you are granted powers related to that domain.

Each domain's description gives examples of deities who have influence over that domain. Gods are included from the worlds of the Forgotten Realms, Greyhawk, Dragonlance, and Eberron campaign settings, as well as from the Celtic, Greek, Norse, and Egyptian pantheons of antiquity.

NIGHT DOMAIN

Gods of the night - such as Selûne, Shar, Tharizdon, Takhisis, and Hecate - serve as both creators of light and harbingers of darkness, with moon gods focusing on the former and darkness gods on the latter. These gods serve as patrons of all alignments; their clerics serve as both righteous defenders of the weak, as well as deceptive thieves and assassins. Either way, these clerics excel in both melee combat and spellcasting, always using the cover of darkness to their advantage in both their battles and their attempts at subterfuge.

NIGHT DOMAIN SPELLS

Cleric Level	Spells
1st	sleep, aura of shade
3rd	darkness, moonbeam
5th	fear, feign death
7th	greater invisibility, rend shadows
9th	dream, shadow stride

BONUS PROFICIENCIES

At 1st level, you gain proficiency with martial weapons and the Stealth skill.

LUNAR RADIANCE

Also at 1st level, you can empower your attacks with moonlight. When you hit a creature with a melee weapon attack, you can force them to become basked in moonlight. The next attack roll made against this target before the end of your next turn has advantage, and deals an additional 1d6 radiant damage on a hit.

You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Wisdom modifier (a minimum of once). You regain all expended uses when you finish a long rest.

CHANNEL DIVINITY: MIDNIGHT GLOOM

Starting at 2nd level, you can use your Channel Divinity to harness the black gloom of midnight, banishing light and draining the life of your foes.

As an action, you present your holy symbol and all lights within 30 feet of you, magical or non-magical, are instantly put out. Additionally, each hostile creature within 30 feet of you must make a Constitution saving throw. A creature takes necrotic damage equal to 2d6 + your cleric level on a failed saving throw, and loses any darkvision they have for 1 minute. On a successful save, they take half as much damage and suffer no other effects. A creature can repeat this saving throw at the start of each of its turns, regaining their darkvision on a success.

MOONLIGHT STRIKE

Starting at 6th level, when you deal radiant damage to a creature you may choose to have it emit dim light in a 10 foot radius until the end of your next turn. The affected creature can't benefit from being invisible, and if the creature is a shapeshifter it immediately shifts to its original form and can't assume a different form until the light dissipates.

DIVINE STRIKE

At 8th level, you gain the ability to infuse your weapon strikes with divine energy. Once on each of your turns when you hit a creature with a weapon attack, you can cause the attack to deal an extra 1d8 radiant damage to the target. When you reach 14th level, the extra damage increases to 2d8.

NIGHTSTALKER

Beginning at 17th level, when you are in an area of dim light or darkness, you can use your action to become invisible. You remain invisible until you make an attack, cast a spell, or are in an area of bright light.

DRUID CIRCLES

Though their organization is invisible to most outsiders, druids are part of a society that spans the land, ignoring political borders. All druids are nominally members of this druidic society, though some individuals are so isolated that they have never seen any high-ranking members of the society or participated in druidic gatherings. Druids recognize each other as brothers and sisters. Like creatures of the wilderness, however, druids sometimes compete with or even prey on each other.

At a local scale, druids are organized into circles that share certain perspectives on nature, balance, and the way of the druid.

CIRCLE OF TWILIGHT

The Circle of Twilight is an ancient sect of druid, long estranged from other druidic circles due to their differing outlooks on the natural world. The Circle of Twilight believes that the spirits of nature need regular sacrifices of beasts, natural and unnatural, and even the occasional human sacrifice. These druids meet in old, dying forests to perform secret blood rituals - rituals which they hope will appease the cruelest gods of the Old Faith. As a member of this circle, you realize nature's will is not of kindness and spirituality - it is of cruelty and sacrifice.

RITUAL SACRIFICE

When you choose this circle at 2nd level, you learn how to perform rituals using the blood sacrifices of powerful foes. By using the body of a creature that has died within the last hour as one of your spell components, you can cast any spell with the ritual tag from any class spell list without needing to prepare it. You still need to use the other components of the ritual as normal.

In order to cast a ritual in this manner, you need the body of a creature of a CR greater than or equal to the spell level of the ritual to be cast, and the spell must be of a level you have spell slots for. The creature used cannot be a construct, an undead, or an elemental. Once you complete the ritual, that creature cannot be used in any other rituals.

CIRCLE SPELLS

The dark powers of twilight infuse you with the ability to cast certain spells. At 3rd, 5th, 7th, and 9th level you gain access to a number of circle spells, listed below in the twilight table.

Once you gain access to a circle spell, you always have it prepared, and it doesn't count against the number of spells you can prepare each day. If you gain access to a spell that doesn't appear on the druid spell list, the spell is nonetheless a druid spell for you.

TWILIGHT

Druid Level	Circle Spells
3rd	darkness, gentle repose
5th	speak with dead, tides of blood
7th	dominate beast, draining thread
9th	dominate person, insect plague

EYES OF TWILIGHT

Starting at 6th level, you gain darkvision with a radius of 60 feet, or you increase the radius of your darkvision by 30 feet if you already have it. Additionally, you can see through magical darkness for the radius of your darkvision.

SOULSEEING

At 10th level, you gain the ability to see the souls of living creatures. As an action on your turn, you hone your senses to allow you to see the faint outline of any living creature or creature that has died within the last hour. This allows you to see any creature within the radius of your darkvision, including invisible creatures, as well as creatures that are obscured in some manner, such as being behind a wall or in murky water. This sight can penetrate most barriers, but it is blocked by 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt. The magical sight lasts until the end of your next turn.

You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Wisdom modifier (a minimum of once). You regain all expended uses when you finish a long rest.

RITUALIST

When you reach 14th level, you become a master at performing rituals. Casting a spell as a ritual now only adds 1 minute to the cast time.

Additionally, when you cast a ritual using your ritual sacrifice feature, the CR of the creature only needs to be half of the spell level of the ritual to be cast, and you may use the same creature in up to 2 different rituals.

MARTIAL ARCHETYPES

Different fighters choose different approaches to perfecting their fighting prowess. The martial archetype you choose to emulate reflects your approach.

BLOOD KNIGHT

The archetypal Blood Knight employs their own flesh and blood in the slaughter of their enemies. To a Blood Knight, battle is everything. It isn't winning or losing that drives them so much as it is the opportunity for a good fight. And when they find that fight, they use everything they have to contest their opponent. They utilize blood sacrifices to cast spells and grant themselves additional offensive and defensive capabilities, though at a steep cost.

HEMOMANCY

Beginning when you choose this archetype at 3rd level, you gain the ability to cast hemomancy spells, detailed in chapter 3 of this companion.

Spell Slots. The Blood Knight Spellcasting table shows how many spell slots you have. The table also shows what the level of those slots is; all of your spell slots are the same level. To cast one of your spells of 1st level or higher, you must expend a spell slot. You regain all expended spell slots when you finish a short or long rest.

Spells Known of 1st Level and Higher. You know one 1st-level hemomancy spell of your choice, chosen from the hemomancy spells detailed in chapter 3.

The Spells Known column of the Blood Knight Spellcasting table shows when you learn more hemomancy spells of 1st level or higher. For instance, when you reach 7th level in this class, you can learn one new spell of 1st or 2nd level.

Whenever you gain a level in this class, you can replace one of the hemomancy spells you know with another hemomancy spell of your choice. The new spell must be of a level for which you have spell slots.

Spellcasting Ability. Constitution is your spellcasting ability for your blood knight spells, since your spells are powered through the resilience of your body. You use your Constitution whenever a spell refers to your spellcasting ability. In addition, you use your Constitution modifier when setting the saving throw DC for a blood knight spell you cast and when making an attack roll with one.

Spell save DC = 8 + your proficiency bonus + your Constitution modifier

Spell attack modifier = your proficiency bonus + your Constitution modifier

BLOOD WELL

Also at 3rd level, you gain a well of blood magic that is fueled through special dice called blood dice.

Blood Dice. You have three blood dice, which are d4s. A blood die is expended when you use it. You regain all of your expended blood dice when you finish a short or long rest.

You gain an additional blood die at 7th, 15th, and 18th levels.

Using Blood Dice. Blood dice can be utilized in two ways. As a bonus action on your turn, you can expend a blood die and regain a number of hit points equal to the number rolled. Also, when you hit a creature with an attack, you can choose to expend a blood die and add the number rolled to the attack's damage roll. If you do so, the attack counts as magical for the purpose of overcoming resistance and immunity to nonmagical attacks and damage.

BLOOD KNIGHT

Fighter Level	Spells Known	Spell Slots	Slot Level
3rd	1	1	1st
4th	1	1	1st
5th	1	1	1st
6th	1	2	1st
7th	2	2	2nd
8th	2	2	2nd
9th	2	2	2nd
10th	2	2	2nd
11th	2	2	2nd
12th	2	2	2nd
13th	3	2	3rd
14th	3	2	3rd
15th	3	2	3rd
16th	3	2	3rd
17th	3	2	3rd
18th	3	2	3rd
19th	4	2	4th
20th	4	2	4th

DEATHSEEKER

Starting at 7th level, you gain advantage on any Wisdom (Perception) or Wisdom (Survival) check used to find a wounded creature.

Additionally, as a bonus action on your turn you can sacrifice 1 hit point to learn the general direction of every creature within 100 feet of you that has blood.

IMPROVED BLOOD WELL

At 10th level, your blood dice turn into d6s.

BLOOD RUSH

Starting at 15th level, whenever you cast a hemomancy spell of 1st level or higher, you enter a blood rush. The blood rush lasts until the end of your next turn, and for the duration your speed is doubled, you have advantage on Dexterity saving throws, and you can disengage as a bonus action.

STRENGTH OF THE WOUNDED

At 18th level, you gain increased power when wounded.

Whenever you expend a blood die while below half your hit point maximum, you can add your Constitution modifier to the result.

MONASTIC TRADITIONS

A few traditions of monastic pursuit are common in the monasteries scattered across the multiverse. Most monasteries practice one tradition exclusively, but a few honor all the traditions and instruct each monk according to his or her aptitude and interest. All the traditions rely on the same basic techniques, diverging as the student grows more adept. Thus, a monk need choose a tradition only upon reaching 3rd level.

WAY OF THE BLOODIED FIST

Monks of the Way of the Bloodied Fist follow a tradition that teaches them to control their own life force, as well as the life force of their foes. By focusing their ki, they exert control over blood - a powerful tool that is not to be underestimated. Their monasteries practice in secret in dark caves and high mountains, out of the eye of the common people, and their members only leave for the rare missions ordered by only the most desperate.

Many monks of this tradition are covered in scars - some self-inflicted in their training, and others earned in battle. The monks often use their mystic energies to manipulate these scars, forming them into complex designs and symbols to represent their unique ki powers.

SANGUINE ARTS

Starting when you choose this tradition at 3rd level, you can use your ki to duplicate the effects of certain spells. As an action, you can spend 2 ki points to cast bloodburn, blood seal, or vampire's kiss without providing material components. Additionally, you gain the bloodletting cantrip if you don't already know it. You must still pay the hemomancy costs associated with each spell.

TOLL OF THE MYSTIC

At 6th level, you gain the ability to convert your life force into ki. When you complete a short or long rest, you can choose to expend any number of your hit dice, converting them into ki points. You add 2 ki points to your pool for each hit die spent.

TRANSFUSION

Beginning at 11th level, whenever you reduce a creature of size Small or larger to 0 hit points with a melee attack, you regain a number of hit points equal to 1d4 + your Wisdom modifier.

DOMINION OF BLOOD

At 17th level, you can take complete control of a creature by manipulating its blood. When you hit a creature with an unarmed strike, you can spend 3 ki points to attempt to grasp control over that creature. The creature must succeed on a Constitution saving throw or fall under your control.

On every subsequent turn after assuming control, you must use your action to take total and precise control of the target. Until the end of your next turn, the creature takes only the actions you choose, and doesn't do anything that you don't allow it to do. During this time, you can also cause the creature to use a reaction, but this requires you to use your own reaction as well. If you do not take this action at the start of your turn, the control ends prematurely. This control can last for up to 1 minute.

Each time the target takes damage, it makes a new Constitution saving throw against the effect. If the saving throw succeeds, the effect ends.

PALADIN OATHS

Becoming a paladin involves taking vows that commit the paladin to the cause of righteousness, an active path of fighting wickedness. The final oath, taken when he or she reaches 3rd level, is the culmination of all the paladin's training. Some characters with this class don't consider themselves true paladins until they have reached 3rd level and made this oath. For others, the actual swearing of the oath is a formality, an official stamp on what has always been true in the paladin's heart.

OATH OF THE GRAVE

The Oath of the Grave is a seldom practised tradition, most commonly reserved for the followers of the Raven Queen. Sometimes called winter knights, black knights, or grave knights, these paladins serve as protectors of the sacred passings into the afterlife. They constantly struggle against the forces of undeath, as they see them as the most unholy abominations that blight this land. They adorn themselves with images of death and winter - skulls, ravens, or similar symbols of their patron gods.

TENETS OF THE GRAVE

The tenets of the Oath of the grave have been passed down for generations. This oath emphasizes the passing between the warmth of life to the everlasting cold of death, and punishes those that defile this passing with the unholy raising of undead.

Annihilate the Unholy. The undead and those who foster them are unholy and wicked. Destroy them before they defile more than they have already Preserve the Righteous. Death should not come early to those who have led a blessed life. Preserve the righteous, so they may live on without fear.

Let Souls Pass On. Every soul deserves its place in the afterlife. When you see a creature forced into undeath, let its soul go free.

Accept Death. Death comes to all eventually. Accept it, and you will find a place in the afterlife.

OATH SPELLS

You gain oath spells at the paladin levels listed.

OATH OF THE GRAVE SPELLS

Paladin Level	Spells
3rd	inflict wounds, ice knife
5th	gentle repose, Snilloc's snowball swarm
9th	sleet storm, speak with dead
13th	blight, ice storm
17th	cone of cold, destructive wave

CHANNEL DIVINITY

When you take this oath at 3rd level, you gain the following two Channel Divinity options.

Icy Repose. As an action, you present your holy symbol and speak a prayer against undeath, using your Channel Divinity. Each undead that can see or hear you within 30 feet of you must make a Wisdom saving throw. If the creature fails its saving throw, it is frozen for 1 minute or until it takes damage.

A frozen creature is affected by the petrified condition until the frozen effect ends, at which point the creature is freed and able to act normally.

Vow of Death. As a bonus action, you can utter a vow of death against a creature you can see within 10 feet of you, using your Channel Divinity. You add 1 + your Charisma modifier necrotic damage to your damage rolls against the creature for 1 minute or until they drop to 0 hit points or fall unconscious.

If a creature under this effect dies, it can't become undead.

AURA OF PRESERVATION

Starting at 7th level, you and friendly creatures within 10 feet of you have resistance to necrotic damage, and cannot be charmed, frightened, or possessed by undead creatures.

At 18th level, the range of this aura increases to 30 feet.

SOUL OF DEMISE

By 15th level, your vow of death has become far more persistent. When a creature under the effect of your vow of death dies, that creature cannot be raised from the dead for the next 30 days, outside of using a wish spell. Additionally, you can use a bonus action on your next turn to mark a new creature with the vow.

REAPER OF WINTER

At 20th level, as an action, you can surround yourself with a deathly chill. For 1 minute, swirls of chilling wind surround you in a 30 foot radius.

Whenever an enemy creature starts its turn in the area, the creature takes 10 cold damage and their movement speed is reduced by 10 feet until the start of their next turn.

In addition, whenever a creature dies within the area, you regain 20 hit points.

Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you finish a long rest.

RANGER ARCHETYPES

Presented here is an additional ranger archetype, to accompany the two ranger archetypes presented in the Player's Handbook.

NIGHTSTALKER

The Nightstalker archetype emulates a unique form of shadow magic, used to create shadowy familiars to accompany you in battle. By walking this path, you learn to use your shadow familiar like an extension of yourself, using them like a weapon as you stalk through the dim forests and vast plains of the world, searching for your prey. Your choice of familiar defines your style of fighting, with each familiar playing a different role on the hunt and on the battlefield.

UA RANGER

If you're playtesting the Unearthed Arcana ranger, you can use this subclass with it if you make one addition: give the subclass the Extra Attack feature.

Extra Attack. Beginning at 5th level, you can attack twice, instead of once, whenever you take the Attack action on your turn.

SHADOW FAMILIAR

At 3rd level, you gain the ability to summon a creature made from shadow magic to serve you. As a bonus action on your turn, you conjure or dismiss your shadow familiar, which takes the form of a spectral creature. You choose the form you can create when you first select this subclass.

When you conjure your shadow familiar, it appears in an unoccupied space within 30 feet of you. As long as it is conjured, you can forgo one or more of your attacks when you use the Attack action to have your shadow familiar move and make attacks of its own, which use your Ranger spell attack modifier for their attack rolls. Your shadow familiar cannot move farther than 120 feet away from you.

The three forms you can choose from are listed below:

Cat. Whenever you forgo an attack, you can have the cat move up to 30 feet and attack a creature. On a hit, the attack deals 1d4 + your Wisdom modifier slashing damage, and the next attack made against that creature has advantage on the attack roll.

As an action, you can expend a ranger spell slot to infuse the cat's claws with poison and have it leap onto a target within 30 feet of it. That creature must succeed on a Constitution saving throw against your Ranger spell save DC or be poisoned until the end of your next turn and take 2d8 poison damage for a 1st level spell slot, plus 1d8 for each spell level higher than 1st.

Raven. Whenever you forgo an attack, you can have the raven fly up to 45 feet and attack a creature. On a hit, the attack deals 1d10 + your Wisdom modifier piercing damage.

As an action, you can expend a ranger spell slot to infuse the raven with lightning and have it travel along a line 5 feet wide and 20 feet long. Each creature in that line must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or take 2d6 lightning damage for a 1st level spell slot, plus 1d6 for each spell level higher than 1st.

Wolf. Whenever you forgo an attack, you can have the wolf move up to 30 feet and attack a creature. On a hit, the attack deals 1d6 + your Wisdom modifier piercing damage, and the target has disadvantage on its next attack roll.

As an action, you can expend a ranger spell slot to infuse the wolf with primal ferocity and have it release a piercing howl. Each creature of your choice within 30 feet of the wolf gains 1d6 temporary hit points for a 1st level spell slot, plus 1d6 for each spell level higher than 1st. These temporary hit points last for 1 minute.

SHADOWY TRANSPOSITION

Starting at 7th level, whenever you activate the action of your shadow familiar that requires you to expend a spell slot, you can choose to swap positions with them before activating the ability.

MASTER OF THE DARK

At 11th level, you can choose another form of shadow familiar that you can create, choosing from the same three forms described in the shadow familiar feature.

LORD OF THE NIGHT

When you reach 15th level, you have gained much greater power over your shadow familiar. When you activate the action of your shadow familiar that requires you to expend a spell slot, you can activate it as bonus action rather than an action.

Additionally, once per long rest you can activate that action without expending a spell slot.

ROGUISH ARCHETYPES

Rogues have many features in common, including their emphasis on perfecting their skills, their precise and deadly approach to combat, and their increasingly quick reflexes. But different rogues steer those talents in varying directions, embodied by the rogue archetypes. Your choice of archetype is a reflection of your focus - not necessarily an indication of your chosen profession, but a description of your preferred techniques.

SHADOW

Some rogues choose to delve into the intricacies of shadow magic, using its unique powers to enhance their skills in stealth and deception. These rogues are a very diverse subset, from simple thieves to hired killers to highly trained bounty hunters. By learning how to separate their shadow from their body, shadow rogues become difficult to catch and even harder to kill.

BONUS CANTRIPS

When you choose this archetype at 3rd level, you gain the umbraturgy cantrip and the dueling shadows cantrip. Charisma is your spellcasting ability for these spells.

SEVERED SHADOW

Starting at 3rd level, you can separate your shadow from your body, creating a shadowy replica of yourself. This replica looks like a three-dimensional silhouette of yourself, and is completely opaque and solid.

As a bonus action on your turn, you may separate your shadow and then move it up to your speed as part of the same action. The shadow shares your statistics, and can perform all movements that you would be able to, making ability checks as normal for movements like jumping or rolling, but it cannot take any actions. The shadow is susceptible to attacks and shares your AC, and if it takes any damage it immediately disappears.

On subsequent turns until you reunite with your shadow, you may use your bonus action to move it another 30 feet, up to a maximum of 120 feet away from your current location. While your shadow is separated from you, you no longer cast a shadow. As a bonus action on your turn, you may choose to teleport to the location of your shadow, reuniting yourself with it.

Once you reunite with your shadow, you can't separate from it again until you complete a short or long rest.

DECEIVING DARKNESS

Starting at 9th level, you have advantage on Dexterity (Stealth) checks if you are in dim light or darkness.

SHADOW SIMULACRUM

At 13th level, you gain greater control over your shadow. When your shadow is separated from you, you can also have it perform the Help action as part of the bonus action required to move it, and your shadow can also manipulate objects weighing up to 25 pounds.

MASTER OF SHADOWS

When you reach 17th level, you have gained ultimate control over your shadow. When you sever your shadow, it can be separated from your current location by up to 500 feet, and you may use your bonus action to switch from using its senses to using your own, or back again. Additionally, you no longer have to complete a short or long rest to use the feature again.

SORCEROUS ORIGINS

Different sorcerers claim different origins for their innate magic. Many variations exist, all stemming from the power of magic.

DEATHTOUCHED

Your innate magic comes from a past encounter with death. Most often, this origin is traced back to surviving an attack from an undead, such as a vampire's bite, a ghost's possession, or a specter's life drain. Or, it could have originated from an imperfect revival or near-death experience. Regardless of the way you attained this dark magic, it now dictates your life and greatly augments your power.

GHOSTLY CONCEALMENT

Starting when you choose this origin at 1st level, you gain the ability to slowly fade into the background, concealing yourself from threats. If you remain still for 1 minute while in dim light or darkness, you become invisible until you move, enter bright light, or use an action, bonus action, or reaction.

MEMORIES OF THE FALLEN

Also at 1st level, you gain the ability to access the memories of the deceased. By performing a 1 minute ritual on a corpse, you can gain insight into how that creature died. If you already witnessed that creature's death, you instead gain another random memory from that creature. This feature can only be used once per corpse.

NECROTIC AFFINITY

At 6th level, you learn two Necromancy spells from any class. A spell you choose must be of a level you can cast. Whenever you gain a level in this class, you may choose one of these Necromancy spells and replace it with another Necromancy spell from any class. The chosen spells count as sorcerer spells for you but don't count against the number of sorcerer spells you know.

SHADOWED PRESENCE

Also at 6th level, you gain the ability to more quickly conceal yourself. As an action on your turn, you can expend 1 sorcery point to activate your Ghostly Concealment feature without waiting the full minute.

INCORPOREAL BODY

Starting at 14th level, you have the ability to become temporarily incorporeal. As a bonus action on your turn, you can spend 2 sorcery points to become incorporeal, gaining resistance to all damage that is not radiant, psychic, or force damage. Additionally, you gain the ability to move through objects while incorporeal as if the object is difficult terrain, and you become immune to the grappled and restrained conditions. Your movement doesn't provoke opportunity attacks for the duration.

The incorporeal effect ends at the start of your next turn. If you are inside an object when the effect ends, you are ejected to the nearest empty space and stunned until the end of your turn.

POSSESSION

At 18th level, you gain the ability to take control of another creature's body. As an action, you can spend 5 sorcery points to attempt to possess a creature of size large or smaller within 5 ft. of you. That creature must succeed on a Charisma saving throw or be possessed for up to 1 hour. On a success, you then disappear, and the target is incapacitated and loses control of its body. While possessing a creature, you can't be targeted by any attack, spell, or other effect, and you retain your alignment, Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma. You otherwise use the possessed target's statistics, but don't gain access to the target's knowledge, class features, or proficiencies.

At the start of each of your turns, if the possessed creature has been damaged at least once since the end of your last turn it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on a success. You may also end the effect using your bonus action. A target is immune to Possession for 24 hours after succeeding on the saving throw.

VAMPIRIC BLOODLINE

Your innate magic stems from the mingling of your bloodline with the blood of a vampire. Some sorcerers with this origin can trace their powers back to an ancient bargain with a powerful vampire. When a vampire takes particular interest in a mortal being, they may allow that humanoid to have a taste of their blood. This ritual is seldom practiced, and few vampires would ever even dare to try it. But this is not the only way to gain this origin, as many of these sorcerers can trace their powers to a near-death experience with a vampire. Whatever the case, vampiric magic permeates your blood, and your very being.

Vampiric sorcerers most often try to hide their ancestry, since their origins can make them as reviled as the vampires that spawned them. However, a select few embrace their vampiric ancestry, and may even seek to become true vampires in death.

DENIZEN OF THE NIGHT

Starting when you choose this origin at 1st level, you gain darkvision out to a range of 60 feet, as described in chapter 8 of the PHB. If you already have darkvision, its range instead increases by 30 feet.

MARTIAL PROWESS

Also at 1st level, your vampiric ancestry grants you increased effectiveness in melee combat. Your unarmed strikes use a d6 as their damage die, and use your Charisma instead of Strength for their attack and damage rolls.

VAMPIRIC REGENERATION

At 6th level, you gain a semblance of the regenerative abilities of a vampire. At the start of each of your turns, you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to half your Sorcerer level. The amount of temporary hit points gained is halved when you are in sunlight or running water.

At the start of your turn, you can spend 2 sorcery points to double the number of temporary hit points gained.

EXTRA ATTACK

Starting at 6th level, you can attack twice, instead of once, whenever you take the Attack action on your turn.

Additionally, your unarmed strikes count as magical for the purpose of overcoming resistance and immunity to nonmagical attacks and damage.

SHAPECHANGER

Starting at 14th level, you can use your action to polymorph into a Tiny bat or back into your true form.

While in bat form, you can't speak, attack, or cast spells, your walking speed is 5 feet, and you have a flying speed of 30 feet. Your statistics, other than your size and speed, are unchanged. Anything you are wearing or carrying transforms with you.

MISTY ESCAPE

At 18th level, you gain the ability to escape from death as a cloud of mist. When you would be reduced to 0 hit points, you can use your reaction and spend 5 sorcery points to instead be reduced to 1 hit point and immediately cast gaseous form on yourself without expending a spell slot or material components.

OTHERWORLDLY PATRONS

The beings that serve as patrons for warlocks are mighty inhabitants of other planes of existence - not gods, but almost godlike in their power. Various patrons give their warlocks access to powers and invocations, and expect significant favors in return.

Some patrons collect warlocks, doling out mystic knowledge relatively freely or boasting of their ability to bind mortals to their will. Other patrons bestow their power only grudgingly, and might make a pact with only one warlock. Warlocks who serve the same patron may view each other as allies, siblings, or rivals.

THE ARCHLICH

You have made a pact with an archlich, a creature that has existed since the dawn of the last age and holds secrets of arcane magic that have been forgotten for thousands of years. Such a being desires only to expand its own power and influence, only using you as a pawn in its far larger scheme. Any lich powerful enough to form a pact has lived for many thousands of years, and many of them were involved in the invention of lichdom itself.

EXPANDED SPELL LIST

The Archlich lets you choose from an expanded list of spells when you learn a warlock spell. The following spells are added to the warlock spell list for you.

ARCHLICH EXPANDED SPELLS

Spell Level	Spells
1st	inflict wounds, ray of sickness
2nd	detect thoughts, Melf's acid arrow
3rd	maim, speak with dead
4th	Evard's black tentacles, vitriolic sphere
5th	cloudkill, contagion

BOND OF UNLIFE

At 1st level, you can use a bonus action on your turn to create a bond between yourself and a willing creature. The bond lasts for 1 minute, and for the duration you can use a bonus action on each of your turns to siphon a number of hit points equal to 1d4 + your warlock level from the creature, as long as this can't reduce the creature to 0 hit points.

Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you complete a short or long rest.

UNDEAD RESILIENCE

Starting at 6th level, you can call upon your patron to bring you back from the brink of death. When you are reduced to 0 hit points but not killed outright, you can drop to 1 hit point instead.

Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you complete a short or long rest.

UNDYING FLESH

By 10th level, your body has taken on the attributes of undeath. You have resistance to necrotic damage, and you age at a slower rate. For every 10 years that pass, your body ages only 1 year.

SHARED FATE

At 14th level, you can bind yourself to another creature with negative energy. As an action, choose a creature within 30 feet of you. It must make a Wisdom saving throw against your warlock spell save DC. On a failed save, the target's life becomes tethered with your own. Whenever you take damage within the next minute, the tethered creature takes the same amount of damage as necrotic damage. At the start of each of its turns, the creature can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on a success.

You must finish a short or long rest before you can use this feature again.

PACT BOON

At 3rd level, the warlock gains the following additional choice of pact boon, if the DM allows it.

PACT OF THE CLOAK

You can use your action to conjure a pact cloak around yourself. The cloak has six different forms, with each form corresponding to one of the six saving throws, and you can choose which form it takes each time you conjure it.

As long as you are wearing the cloak and not any medium or heavy armor, your walking speed is increased by 10 feet. Also, when you or another creature within 5 feet of you fails the save associated with your cloak's current form, you can use your reaction to add your proficiency bonus to that save, potentially causing it to succeed.

ELDRITCH INVOCATIONS

The following section presents new invocations for the warlock. These invocations follow the same rules as invocations found in the Player's Handbook.

CLOAK OF THE BAT

Prerequisite: 15th level, Pact of the Cloak feature

You can use a bonus action on your turn to cause large, bat-like wings to sprout out of your cloak. While you wear the winged cloak, you gain a flying speed equal to your current speed. You can dismiss the wings using another bonus action.

GHOST-IRON CHAINS

Prerequisite: 5th level, Pact of the Chain feature

Your familiar becomes ghostly in appearance, and gains the ability to become incorporeal. Your familiar can move through other creatures and objects as if they were difficult terrain, but if it ends its turn inside an object it is immediately dismissed to its pocket dimension.

MANTLE OF THE EVERLASTING

Prerequisite: Pact of the Cloak feature

While you are wearing your pact cloak and no other armor, your AC equals 10 + your Dexterity modifier + your Charisma modifier.

MARCH OF THE RESTLESS

Prerequisite: 5th level

You can cast animate dead using a warlock spell slot. You can do so twice, and regain both uses when you complete a long rest.

PACT OF BLOOD

Prerequisite: 7th level

You can cast blood seal at will as a 2nd-level spell, without expending a spell slot or material components. You still need to pay the hemomancy cost as normal.

SANGUINE BLADE

Prerequisite: Pact of the Blade feature

When you miss a creature with your pact weapon, you can choose to roll a d4 and add it to your attack roll, potentially causing the attack to hit. If you choose to roll, you lose a number of hit points equal to the number rolled.

SANGUINE SPEAR

Prerequisite: eldritch blast cantrip

When you miss a creature with eldritch blast, you can choose to roll a d4 and add it to your attack roll, potentially causing the attack to hit. If you choose to roll, you lose a number of hit points equal to 1 + the number rolled.

TALES OF THE CRIMSON TOME

Prerequisite: Pact of the Tome feature

You can drop a pinch of humanoid blood into your book of shadows, and then ask one question aloud. Over the next half hour, the blood manipulates itself into a language of your choice, answering your question in the process. The answer is provided using the knowledge of the humanoid that provided the blood, and is answered in less than 25 words. The blood must be from a living humanoid, and needs to be dropped into the book within 30 seconds of it leaving the body. Only one question may be processed by the book at any one time.

VEIL OF THE NIGHT

Prerequisite: 9th level, Pact of the Cloak feature

When you are wearing your pact cloak, you can use your action to turn invisible until the start of your next turn. This feature cannot be used two turns in a row.

ARCANE TRADITIONS

The study of wizardry is ancient, stretching back to the earliest mortal discoveries of magic. It is firmly established in the worlds of D&D, with various traditions dedicated to its complex study.

The most common arcane traditions in the multiverse revolve around the schools of magic. Wizards through the ages have cataloged thousands of spells, grouping them into eight categories called schools. In some places, these traditions are literally schools; a wizard might study at the School of Illusion while another studies across town at the School of Enchantment. In other institutions, the schools are more like academic departments, with rival faculties competing for students and funding. Even wizards who train apprentices in the solitude of their own towers use the division of magic into schools as a learning device, since the spells of each school require mastery of different techniques.

SCHOOL OF REAWAKENING

As a member of the school of reawakening, you combine the forces of necromancy with the power of conjuration. By transforming the necromantic energies of the creatures you kill into completely new conjurations, you bridge the gap between these two school of magic, creating a hybrid school that combines elements of both Conjuration and Necromancy. As you progress, you learn to shape together ever more powerful conjurations.

CONJURATION/NECROMANCY SAVANT

Beginning when you select this school at 2nd level, the time you must spend to copy a necromancy or conjuration spell into your spellbook is halved.

REAWAKEN SOUL

At 2nd level, you gain the ability to store the essence of a creature's soul for later use. You gain a Soul Vial, which can be used to store the soul of a creature that has a CR less than or equal to 1/3rd your Wizard level. By using a 10 minute ritual on a creature that has died within the last hour, you can store that creature's soul in the vial. If there is already a soul within the vial, then the new soul replaces it.

Once you have a soul contained within your Soul Vial, you can release it to reform that creature. The creature has the same statistics as the creature you gathered the soul from, but it appears slightly translucent and visibly magical. Once formed, the creature lasts for up to 1 hour, and requires your concentration to maintain. The creature is friendly to you and your companions, and obeys your spoken commands (no action required by you). If you don't issue any commands to them, they defend themselves from hostile creatures, but otherwise take no actions. Once the duration ends, the creature's soul is freed and the vial is emptied.

Once you form a creature, you can't do so again until you finish a long rest.

VOLATILE SOUL

Beginning at 6th level, the creatures you create through your Reawaken Soul feature can be used as arcane explosives. When one of the creatures is reduced to zero hit points, it explodes in a burst of necrotic essence.

Each creature of your choice within a 10 ft radius of the exploding creature must make a Dexterity saving throw against your spell save DC. On a failed save, a creature takes 2d6 necrotic damage for every point of that creature's CR. Creatures below CR 1 deal 1d6 necrotic damage. On a successful save, a creature takes half damage.

CONSUME

Starting at 10th level, you can consume the soul within your Soul Vial to restore hitpoints to yourself. As an action, you may drink the contents of the vial, regaining 2d4 hit points for every point of that creature's CR. This feature cannot restore hitpoints to a creature other than yourself.

Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you complete a short or long rest.

LASTING CREATION

Starting at 14th level, the creature created through your Soul Reawaken feature lasts for up to 8 hours, and no longer requires concentration to maintain.

SCHOOL OF HEMOMANCY

The School of Hemomancy studies the ancient arcane art of blood magic. As you select this tradition, you learn to manipulate your own life force so that you may manipulate the life force of others. As you progress through this school, you learn how to transform that vital energy into a force of immeasurable power, capable of defeating even the greatest of foes.

HEMOMANCY SAVANT

Beginning when you select this school at 2nd level, the gold and time you must spend to copy a spell with the hemomancy tag into your spellbook is halved

ARCANE ENDURANCE

Starting at 2nd level when you choose this school, you only need to sacrifice a fraction of your life force to cast Hemomancy spells. When you spend hit points to cast a spell with the hemomancy tag, you gain a number of temporary hit points equal to half the amount spent on the spell. These temporary hit points last for 1 minute.

DEEPEN WOUND

Starting at 6th level, whenever you hit a creature that is below half their hit point maximum with a spell, that creature takes additional necrotic damage equal to your intelligence modifier.

IMPROVED ENDURANCE

At 10th level, your ability to cast Hemomancy spells is greatly augmented. When you spend hitpoints to cast a spell with the hemomancy tag, you now gain temporary hit points equal to the total amount spent.

MASTER OF BLOOD

Beginning at 14th level, you can choose to expend a number of hit points equal to 5 times the spell's level to cast a hemomancy spell without using a spell slot. You still need to provide more hitpoints in order to empower the spell; using this feature only removes the spell slot requirement.

CHAPTER 3: SPELLS

THIS CHAPTER OFFERS NEW SPELLS FOR many of the classes in the Player's Handbook. These spells provide various ways to harness the traditionally “evil” magics: necromancy, blood magic, and shadow magic.

Your DM determines whether these spells are available at character creation, or whether they are discovered in an ancient tomb or library or other storehouse of magical knowledge.

Also, this chapter includes rules for a new tag: hemomancy.

HEMOMANCY

Certain spells included in this supplement have the special tag: hemomancy. Such a spell has an additional cost when it is cast: your own hit points. When you cast a spell with this tag, you must expend a number of hit points during the casting of the spell. The number of hit points you can spend is based on the spell's level, and is shown in the table below. You may not use temporary hit points to cast hemomancy spells.

HEMOMANCY SPELL TABLE

Spell Level	Minimum Cost	Maximum Cost
1st	1	10
2nd	4	15
3rd	7	20
4th	10	25
5th	13	30
6th	16	35
7th	19	40
8th	22	45
9th	25	50

When you cast a spell with the hemomancy tag, you must expend a number of hit points that is between the minimum and the maximum amount you can spend. For example, if you are casting a spell of 2nd level, you must expend at least 4 hit points to cast it, though you can choose to expend up to 15 hit points in order to increase the power of the spell.

SPELL LISTS

The following spell lists show which of the new spells are for a class. A spell's school of magic is noted in parentheses after its name. If a spell has either a hemomancy or ritual tag, the tag also appears within the parentheses.

SPELL DESCRIPTIONS

The spells are presented in alphabetical order.

ANIMATE BLOOD

3rd-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 10 feet

Components: V, S, M (droplets of blood)

Duration: Concentration, up to 10 minutes.

You animate droplets of your own blood to act under your command. For every three hit points expended in the casting of this spell, you create a droplet of animated blood.

On each of your turns, you can use a bonus action to mentally command the droplets to move as long as they are within 120 feet of you. The droplets have a speed of 30 feet, and a climbing speed of 15 feet.

As an action on your turn, you can choose to see and hear from the location of one of the blood droplets until the end of your turn, becoming blinded and deafened to your own surroundings. Additionally, you may instead use your action to cause one of the droplets to explode in a burst of necromantic energy, destroying the droplet and damaging surrounding creatures. Each creature within 5 feet of the droplet must make a Dexterity saving throw. The creature takes 4d6 necrotic damage on a failed save, or half damage on a successful one.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 3rd.

AURA OF SHADE

1st-level illusion

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S, M (a deep black onyx worth at least 25 gp, which the spell consumes)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You create a 10-foot radius sphere of shadow magic centered on a point within range. The sphere appears to be an area of swirling shadows and darkness, and is easily identifiable when it is in an area of bright or dim light. The sphere spreads around corners, and each creature within the radius becomes invisible at the start of each of their turns. This invisibility ends if they attack, cast a spell, or leave the area. Anything they are wearing or carrying is also invisible as long as they are.

BANSHEE'S WAIL

6th-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (30-foot radius)

Components: V, S, M (a strand of banshee hair)

Duration: Instantaneous

You release a mournful wail that pierces into the mind of those that hear it. Each creature within 30 feet of you must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 6d8 psychic damage, and falls unconscious. On a success, it takes half damage and suffers no other effect. An unconscious creature wakes up if it takes any damage or if another creature uses its action to shake them awake. A deafened creature automatically succeeds on the save.

BEACON OF FALSE LIFE

3rd-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (30-foot radius)

Components: V, S, M (alcohol or distilled spirits)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

Necromantic energy emanates from you in a 30-foot radius area. Until the spell ends, the area moves with you, centered on you. While within the area, you and every creature that you have under your control (such as through an animate dead spell) gains 2d4 temporary hit points at the start of each of their turns. These temporary hit points last until they leave the area.

BLACKBLOOD

1st-level transmutation (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 minute

You transform a portion of your blood into a poisonous substance. As you cast this spell, you must expend a number of hit points. You gain a number of temporary equal to the amount expended. For as long as these temporary hit points last, whenever a creature hits you with an attack while within 5 feet of you they become poisoned for 1 minute. A creature poisoned in this way makes a Constitution saving throw at the end of each of their turns, ending the effect on a success or taking 1d6 poison damage on a failure.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the poison damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 1st.

BLACKFLAME

1st-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You choose a flame that you can see within range and that fits within a 5-foot cube. The flame momentarily changes color into a deep black, and then lashes out at surrounding creatures. Each creature within a 5-foot radius of the flame must make a Dexterity saving throw. The creature takes 1d6 necrotic damage and 2d6 fire damage on a failed save, or half damage on a successful one.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the necrotic damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 1st.

BLOODBURN

1st-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You inflict a burning pain upon yourself, causing another creature that you can see within range to feel an even more excruciating pain as their blood boils. As you cast the spell, you must expend a number of hit points. The creature must then make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, the creature takes 2d8 + the number of hit points spent as fire damage, and immediately falls prone as they become wracked with pain. On a successful save, the target takes half as much damage and doesn't fall prone.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 1st.

BLOODCURSE

5th-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 minute

Range: Touch

Components: S

Duration: Varies (see below)

You touch a creature's open wound and bestow a curse. As you expend a number of hit points to cast the spell, that creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or become cursed. During the casting of the spell, you can make a Charisma (Deception) check against the target's Wisdom (Insight) check to attempt to conceal the spell's true nature, such as pretending to bandage their wound.

For the duration of the curse, which is a number of days equal to the amount of hit points spent, the creature can't regain hit points and is poisoned. When the creature completes a long rest, they take 4d10 necrotic damage as the curse rots away at them.

A remove curse spell ends this effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 6th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d10 for each slot level above 1st.

BLOODLETTING

Necromancy cantrip (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You touch a creature and expend 1 hit point, opening a wound where you touch. Make a melee spell attack against the target. You have advantage on the attack roll if the target is below half its hit point maximum. On a hit, the target takes 1d12 necrotic damage. If this damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, you gain temporary hit points equal to the damage dealt. These temporary hit points last for 1 minute.

The spell's damage increases by 1d12 when you reach 5th level (2d12), 11th level (3d12), and 17th level (4d12).

BLOOD SEAL

2nd-level necromancy (hemomancy) (ritual)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S, M (an ornate dagger worth at least 25 gp)

Duration: 1 hour

You inflict a wound upon yourself to create a protective seal on another creature within range. As you cast the spell, you expend a number of hit points and the target gains 1d8 + the number of hit points spent as temporary hit points for the duration.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 3rd level or higher, the target gains 1d8 additional temporary hit points for each slot level above 2nd.

BLOODSIGHT

3rd-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 10 minutes

You draw out a portion of your blood, causing your eyes to take on a crimson hue. For the duration, you can see the life force of nearby creatures. The range of this vision is a number of feet equal to 5 times the number of hit points spent on this spell.

When a creature is at full health, they appear perfectly normal, but as they become more wounded a red aura begins to surround them. You can notice when a creature's current hit points are below one of these three thresholds: 3/4, 1/2, or 1/4 of their hit point maximum. Once a creature is below 1/4 of their hit point maximum, you can see them even through walls and invisibility.

CLINGING SHADOWS

2nd-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Components: V, S, M (bat fur)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You choose an area of dim light or darkness that you can see within range and that fits within a 15-foot cube. Each creature within the area must succeed on Strength saving throw or be restrained by shadows until the spell ends. A creature restrained by the shadows can use its action to make a Strength check against your spell save DC. On a success, it frees itself.

Until the spell ends, you can use a bonus action on each of your turns to cause a tendril of shadow to reach out and grab a creature within 10 feet of the area. The creature must repeat the saving throw. On a failed save, the creature is pulled into the area and becomes restrained.

If the area becomes bathed in bright light, the spell has no effect until the bright light fades.

CRUORWHIP

1st-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 minute

You create a whip out of your own blood in your free hand. By expending a number of hit points, you create a whip similar in size and shape to a normal whip. If you let go of the whip, it disappears, but you can recreate it again as a bonus action.

You can use your action to make a melee spell attack with the whip. For every 5 hit points spent in the casting of this spell the reach increases by 5 feet, with a minimum health cost of 5 hit points. On a hit, the target takes 2d6 necrotic damage.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 1st.

DANSE MACABRE

8th-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 90 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

This spell dominates the minds and bodies of humanoids, consuming them in a frenzy of death and destruction. As you cast the spell, you must expend a number of hit points. Roll 14d8 and add double the number of hit points expended to the roll; the total is how many hit points of creatures this spell can affect. Humanoids within 30 feet of a point you choose within range are affected in ascending order of their current hit points (ignoring unconscious creatures).

Starting with the creature that has the lowest current hit points, each creature affected by this spell is under your control until the spell ends. Subtract each creature's hit points from the total before moving on to the creature with the next lowest hit points. A creature's hit points must be equal to or less than the remaining total for that creature to be affected. Creatures immune to being charmed aren't affected by this spell.

On each of your turns, you can issue commands to the creatures under your control, directing them where to move and attack. If a creature doesn't receive orders from you, they attack the closest creature to them. If a creature hasn't made an attack by the end of their turn, the spell ends for them.

If you maintain your concentration on this spell for its whole duration, each creature that is still under the spell's effect when the spell ends dies.

DOME OF NIGHT

2nd-level transmutation (ritual)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Components: V, S, M (owl feathers)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You create a 10-foot radius dome of magical darkness that lasts for the duration. A creature with darkvision cannot see through the walls of the dome, and nonmagical light can't illuminate it. The dome is filled with dim light, and the inside of the dome shows an accurate representation of the night sky, including the current location of the stars and moon.

If any of this spell's area overlaps with an area of light created by a spell of 2nd level or lower, the spell that created the light is dispelled.

DRAINING THREAD

4th-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You open a wound on your body, shooting out a thread of blood between yourself and a creature within range. As you cast the spell, you must expend a number of hit points. The creature must then succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or take $8d6 +$ the number of hit points spent as necrotic damage. If this damage brings the target to 0 hit points, the hit point cost is refunded as blood drains through the thread back into your body.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 5th level or higher, the damage increases by $2d6$ for each slot level above 4th.

DRAIN LIFE

9th-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You open a deep wound on your body, draining the blood of another creature as your own blood leaves your body. As you cast the spell, you must expend a number of hit points. The creature must then make a Constitution saving throw. The creature takes $12d12 +$ double the number of hit points spent as necrotic damage on a failed save, or half damage on a successful one.

DUELING SHADOWS

Transmutation cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Choose two creatures within range that are within 5 feet of each other. Each target must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or take $1d4$ necrotic damage as their shadows lash out at each other. If one of the creatures moves before the start of your next turn, both targets must repeat the saving throw as the shadows lash out again, dealing another $1d4$ necrotic damage.

The spell's damage increases by $1d4$ when you reach 5th level ($2d4$), 11th level ($3d4$), and 17th level ($4d4$).

FLICKER

3rd-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Components: V, S, M (displacer beast fur)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

Your body begins to flicker in and out of existence as shadow magic envelops you. For the duration of the spell, you can use your bonus action to teleport 5 feet. Additionally, when you are targeted by an attack you can use your reaction to attempt to teleport out of harm's way. Roll a $d20$. On a roll of 11 or higher, the attack automatically misses, and you teleport 5 feet. Otherwise, the attack hits and you teleport 5 feet shortly after.

HAND OF THE GRAVE

2nd-level necromancy

Casting Time: 10 minutes

Range: 10 feet

Components: V, S, M (hand of a humanoid)

Duration: 24 hours

When you cast this spell, you bury a humanoid hand into a patch of loose earth at least 5 feet in diameter to conceal it. The area is nearly undisturbed and requires a successful Intelligence (Investigation) check against your spell save DC to be found.

The hand animates when a medium or smaller creature walks over the area of earth. You can further refine the trigger so the spell activates only under certain circumstances or according to physical characteristics (such as height or weight), creature kind (for example, the spell could be set to affect aberrations or drow), or alignment. You can also set conditions for creatures that don't trigger the spell, such as those who say a certain password.

When the hand animates, it attempts to grab whatever creature triggered it. That creature must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or become restrained as it is pulled into the earth. When the creature is pulled into the earth, it has total cover and begins suffocating. At the start of each of its turns, the creature can repeat the saving throw. On a successful save, the creature escapes and the hand retracts back into the ground.

HEMOPLAGUE

7th-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Components: V, S, (a poison or venom)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You infect a portion of your blood and splash it on creatures within range. As you cast this spell, you must expend a number of hit points, allowing you to target 1 creature for every 5 hit points spent. Each creature must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, the target takes $6d8$ necrotic damage and is also infected for the duration. On a success, the target takes half damage and suffers no additional effect. An infected target is poisoned, can't regain hit points, and whenever they take bludgeoning, piercing, or slashing damage, they take an additional $2d8$ necrotic damage as they bleed profusely. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the start of each of its turns to end the effect.

ICHOROUS SMITE

1st-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You imbue a weapon with a portion of your life force, expending a number of hit points as you cast the spell. The first time you hit with a melee weapon attack during this spell's duration, the attack deals additional necrotic damage equal to 2d4 + the number of hit points spent.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the damage increases by 1d4 for each slot level above 1st.

INFLICT PAIN

1st-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You attempt to touch a creature, inflicting them with negative energy and racking them with excruciating pain. Make a melee spell attack against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d6 necrotic damage and becomes incapacitated with pain until the start of your next turn.

INVESTITURE OF SHADOW

6th-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 10 minutes

Until the spell ends, shadows swirl around you, and you gain the following benefits:

- At the start of each of your turns, you turn invisible. If you attack or cast a spell, this invisibility ends.
- You can see normally in darkness, both magical and nonmagical, to a distance of 120 feet.
- You can use your action to create a 15-foot radius sphere of magical darkness centered on a point you can see within 60 feet of you, as per the darkness spell. This darkness lasts for the duration, or until you activate this ability again.

LACERATE

Necromancy cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

Two bolts of necrotic energy shoot from your fingertips towards a single creature within range. Make two ranged spell attacks against the target. On a hit, the target takes 1d4 necrotic damage. If both bolts hit the target, then the target's hit point maximum is reduced by an amount equal to the necrotic damage it took. The target's hit point maximum returns to normal after 10 minutes.

The spell's damage increases by 1d4 when you reach 5th level (2d4), 11th level (3d4), and 17th level (4d4).

LIFE THREAD

Necromancy cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 5 feet

Components: V, M (a red or black thread)

Duration: 1 minute

You create a binding thread that ties your soul to the soul of creature within 5 feet of you. If either you or the creature moves more than 5 feet away from the other, the creature that moved takes 1d12 necrotic damage.

The spell's damage increases by 1d12 when you reach 5th level (2d12), 11th level (3d12), and 17th level (4d12).

MAIM

3rd-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (flake of skin or bone from an undead)

Duration: Instantaneous

You touch a creature, transferring a virulent disease into their body. The target must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, it takes 10d4 necrotic damage, or half as much damage on a successful save. The damage can't reduce a target's hit points below 1. If the target fails the saving throw, it can't take reactions for the next 10 minutes as the disease clouds their brain. Any effect that removes a disease allows a creature to remove the secondary effect.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 2d4 for each slot level above 3rd.

NECROMANTIC BURST

2nd-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You cause the corpse of a creature to explode into a burst of necrotic energy. Choose a corpse within range. The creature and everything it is wearing and carrying, except magic items, are reduced to black dust. The creature can be restored to life only by means of a reincarnate, true resurrection, or a wish spell. Each creature within 5 feet of the target must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw or take 3d8 necrotic damage.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 3rd level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 2nd.

RAIN OF BLOOD

6th-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 150 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You draw out your blood, turning it into rain that pours down over a 30-foot radius area. As you cast this spell, you must expend a number of hit points. A creature that starts its turn within the rain must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, a target takes 4d6 + half the number of hit points spent as necrotic damage, and its movement speed is slowed by 5 feet for the duration of the spell. On a success, the target takes half damage and is not slowed. The slow can stack with itself, but it cannot reduce a creature's speed below half.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 7th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d6 for each slot level above 6th.

RARY'S RAPID REPLICATION

4th-level conjuration

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 20 feet

Components: V, S, (a poison or venom)

Duration: Concentration, up to 10 minutes

You transform up to ten bats, rats, or ravens, three quippers, five insects, or one poisonous snake within range into swarms of shadowy replicas for the duration. Each creature becomes a swarm, as described in the monster manual.

Each creature obeys your verbal commands, and in combat, they act on your turn each round. The DM has the statistics for these creatures and resolves their actions and movement.

A creature remains a swarm for the duration, until it drops to 0 hit points, or until you use an action to dismiss the effect on it.

RAY OF FATIGUE

5th-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 10 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You cause a creature of your choice to be overtaken by exhaustion. The creature must make a Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, the creature gains a level of exhaustion. On a successful save, the creature suffers no effect and the spell ends. At the start of each of their turns, the creature must repeat the saving throw. It gains a level of exhaustion on a failed save, and the spell ends on a successful one.

REAPER'S SCYTHE

1st-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Components: V, S, M (a piece of a scythe blade)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You create a scythe out of necrotic energy in your free hands. The scythe is a large weapon, requires both hands to wield, and lasts for the duration. If you let go of the scythe, it disappears, but you can conjure it again as a bonus action.

You can use your action to make a melee spell attack with the scythe. On a hit, the target takes 2d4 necrotic damage. If this damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, you regain a number of hit points equal to the damage dealt.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, the damage increases by 1d4 for each slot level above 1st.

REND SHADOWS

4th-level necromancy

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 60 feet

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

Choose up to 4 creatures within range. Each creature has their shadow forcibly ripped from their body, conjuring a Shadow (Monster Manual pg. 269) in an unoccupied space next to them. As long as the shadow is separate from their body, they do not cast a shadow. A shadow created through this spell reforms with its host when it drops to 0 hit points or when the spell ends, and it disappears if its host dies. If its host dies, a new shadow does not rise from the corpse.

The shadows seek only to attack the creature they were separated from, and disappear when that creature is killed. Roll initiative for the shadows as a group, which has its own turns. They spend their turns attacking their host, without any thought for strategy or tactics.

The DM has the creature's statistics.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using certain higher level spell slots, you can target more creatures: twice as many with a 6th-level slot and three times as many with an 8th-level slot.

SHADOW STRIDE

5th-level conjuration

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self

Components: V, S

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You gain the ability to blink from one shadow to another. When you are in dim light or darkness, you can use 5 feet of movement to teleport up to 30 feet to an unoccupied space you can see that is also in dim light or darkness.

You can use this teleportation ability twice per round for the duration.

SANGUINE ROPE

2nd-level transmutation (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Varies (see below)

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You draw out a portion of your blood, forming it into a rope that you can use to either pull yourself to a location, or pull an object or creature to you. As you cast the spell, you must expend a number of hit points. Then, you immediately send the rope to grab a target that you can see within a range equal to 5 times the number of hit points spent. Once you grab a target, you can either pull yourself to a location within 5 feet of the target, or you can attempt to pull the target to a location within 5 feet of you. In order to pull the target to you, it must weigh less than 100 pounds, and if it is a creature it can make a Strength saving throw to avoid being pulled. If you pull yourself to a target, you move in a straight line towards the target and take opportunity attacks as normal.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 3rd level or higher, the amount of weight you can pull increases by 50 pounds for each slot level above 2nd.

SANGUINE SANCTUM

4th-level abjuration (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (10-foot radius hemisphere)

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 hour

You transform your blood into a 10-foot-radius protective dome that forms around and above you and remains stationary for the duration. The dome can be damaged, and it has 15 AC and a number of hit points equal to 30 + the amount of hit points spent in the casting of this spell. Any creature within the dome cannot be targeted by creatures outside the dome, and vice versa. Spells and attacks that would pass or extend through the dome instead hit the dome and do not extend farther. As long as the dome lasts you can use your action to expend a number of hit points and add this amount to the dome's current hit points.

Nine creatures of Medium size or smaller can fit inside the dome with you. The spell fails if its area includes a larger creature or more than nine creatures. Creatures and objects within the dome when you cast this spell can move through it freely. All other creatures and objects are barred from passing through it.

The dome is semi-transparent. It can be seen through, but things seen through the walls appear distorted and blurred with the red color of the dome.

TIDES OF BLOOD

3rd-level necromancy (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (20-foot radius)

Components: V, S

Duration: 1 round

You draw out your own blood as well as the blood of corpses within 20 feet of you. You may choose to expend a number of hit points, and you may also gain the hit points needed from corpses within the radius. Each corpse that had a hit point maximum greater than or equal to 5 in life gives 5 hit points towards the casting of this spell, and then cannot be used to cast this spell again.

As a bonus action on your next turn, you release the blood. Each creature within 20 feet of you must make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, they take 4d8 + the number of hit points spent as necrotic damage. On a success, they take half damage.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 4th level or higher, the damage increases by 1d8 for each slot level above 3rd.

UMBRAL FORM

3rd-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (a wisp of smoke)

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 hour

You transform a willing creature you touch, along with everything it's wearing and carrying, into an animated shadow for the duration. The spell ends if the creature drops to 0 hit points.

While in this form, the target's only method of movement is a walking and climbing speed of 30 feet. The target can enter and occupy the space of another creature. The target has resistance to nonmagical damage, and it has advantage on Strength, Dexterity, and Constitution saving throws, and it has advantage on Dexterity (Stealth) checks. The target can pass through small holes, narrow openings, and even mere cracks, though it treats liquids as though they were solid surfaces. The target can't fall and remains stuck to the ground even when stunned or otherwise incapacitated.

While in the shadowy form, the target can't talk or manipulate objects, and any objects it was carrying or holding can't be dropped, used, or otherwise interacted with. The target can't attack or cast spells.

UMBRATURGY

Transmutation cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S

Duration: Up to 1 hour

You compel shadows to create one of the following effects at a point you can see within range:

- The shadow of a creature or object changes size or shape, up to a maximum of double or half its normal size. This effect lasts for up to 1 minute, or until it moves.

- You cause shadows to conceal a creature in dim light or darkness, giving them advantage on their next Dexterity (Stealth) check within the next minute as long as they remain in the dim light or darkness.
- A creature or object's shape becomes either harder or softer, making its form either easier or harder to discern from the shape of the shadow. This effect lasts for up to 1 hour.

If you cast this spell multiple times, you can have no more than two of its non-instantaneous effects active at a time, and you can dismiss such an effect as an action.

UMBRAL ASSAULT

7th-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S

Duration: Instantaneous

You target a creature within range. The shadows of creatures within 5 feet of the target then turn against the first creature, attacking them from all sides. The target must make a Dexterity saving throw. The creature takes 3d6 necrotic damage for every creature within 5 feet of it of size Small or larger, up to a maximum of 24d6 on a failed save, or half damage on a successful one.

VAMPIRE'S KISS

2nd-level enchantment (hemomancy)

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: S

Duration: Varies (see below)

You draw out a portion of your own blood as you kiss another humanoid. As you cast the spell, you must expend a number of hit points. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw, and does so with advantage if you or your companions are fighting it. If it fails the saving throw, it is charmed by you for 1 hour for every 3 hit points spent on the casting of the spell or until you or your companions do anything harmful to it. The charmed creature falls hopelessly in love with you. When the spell ends, the creature knows it was charmed by you.

WALL OF BONES

4th-level conjuration

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 30 feet

Components: V, S, M (a skeletal hand)

Duration: Concentration, up to 10 minutes

A wall of writhing bones and skeletons springs into existence at a point you choose within range. The wall is 4 inches thick and is composed of three 10-foot-by-10-foot panels. Each panel must be contiguous with at least one other panel. If the wall cuts through a creature's space when it appears, the creature is pushed to one side of the wall (your choice). Any creature that starts its turn next to a wall must make a Dexterity saving throw or take 1d8 bludgeoning damage and become restrained. The creature can repeat the saving throw at the start of each of its turns, taking the same damage on a failure or freeing itself on a success.

The wall is an object that can be damaged and thus breached. Each panel has AC 10 and 20 hit points per inch of thickness. Reducing a panel to 0 hit points destroys it.

CHAPTER 4: CREATURES

THIS CHAPTER INCLUDES NEW CREATURES for your players to face as they run through your Campaign, supplementing those found in the Monster Manual. These new creatures themed around necromancy, undeath, blood magic, and shadow magic may all be used in your campaigns, if they are deemed fitting.

ARCHLICH

Archliches are beings of immense magical power outmatched by only the gods themselves. Through their many millennia of existence, archliches have mastered all arts of necromancy. But these beings are still not satisfied with their near limitless power - they still yearn for more, and they hunger for even greater arcane knowledge. Supremely intelligent, these creatures enact schemes that last for hundreds of years - which is just a blip in their unending existence.

An archlich appears almost completely skeletal, with only a few wisps of flesh and hair left on its frame. The lights of their eyes disappeared long ago, so all that remains are black, empty sockets. They choose to adorn themselves with kingly attire, believing themselves to be the rightful rulers of the land.

Dark Creation. Archliches are the oldest beings known to exist, originally and only created during the Crown Wars over ten thousand years ago. Long tired of the unending war, a few elves yearned to gain the power that would allow them end the war themselves. So these few became high mages, sages with unmatched magical power for their time. But they still needed more, as this war couldn't be ended with normal magic in the span of a single mortal life.

So these mages devoted their entire lives to the study of necromancy, and learned the secrets to lichdom from their dealings with the dark gods of the time. These gods gave them the forbidden knowledge needed to ascend past even the most powerful liches, which hasn't been given to a mortal mind before or since. Using this knowledge, these mages began the arcane ritual. This ritual released a huge storm of necrotic power onto the world; an event now known as the Dark Disaster.

The Dark Disaster destroyed an entire elvish kingdom, and reduced the surrounding area to a barren wasteland. This power also proved too much for the minds of the mages, and they lost all memory of their original purpose and their mortal life, but they had gained the power they had so desired.

Enemy of the Gods. Once the gods saw the destruction wrought by the Dark Disaster, they knew they needed to intervene. Celestial agents were sent to destroy these few archliches, but even the most powerful of angels couldn't fully destroy them. But eventually, after only a few months of destruction, all the archliches were banished to other planes, supposedly to never be seen again.

After they were all dispatched, the gods sought to never allow another mortal to ascend to that degree of lichdom again. They used all their power to hide that forbidden knowledge, and even convinced some of the most evil deities to never to part with the knowledge.

Pact-makers. Although all the archliches were banished and trapped in their own demiplanes, a few of them have learned how to contact mortals in the material plane, though as of yet none have escaped the confines of their prison. By gaining mortal followers, an archlich hopes to free itself and become a ruler of the mortal world.

Those that make a pact with an archlich are granted a degree of magical power, with the assumption that they will serve and put all their resources towards freeing their master. They believe that with the outside influence gained through these pacts, they will eventually find a creature capable of freeing them and inflicting them upon the world.

Death and Restoration. An archlich's phylactery is located within its demiplane, and is completely indestructible and inaccessible to all but the archlich. However, this means that if an archlich were to escape from their confines and then allow their body to be destroyed, they would once again be trapped within the demiplane when their body reforms.

Since an archlich requires the assistance of powerful spell casters to return to the material plane, it is necessary for them to attempt to create and hold allegiances with mortals. If a mortal was to learn how to summon an archlich from their plane of existence, the archlich would be obligated to keep that mortal alive and allied, for the archlich may need that mortal again if their body is destroyed and they are restored to their plane.

Undead Nature. An archlich doesn't require air, food, drink or sleep.

AN ARCHLICH'S LAIR

If an archlich were to escape its prison, it would be able to create a lair for itself fairly quickly. Using the armies of undead it easily amasses, an archlich can build great castles and towers for itself, designing grand halls, mighty defenses, and cunning traps meant to ward off all intrusion.

An archlich's lair would be filled with strategically placed undead, meant to emerge and surround unlucky visitors. The lair would also include a residence for those that have made a pact with the archlich, both to keep those allies in good standing and to help protect the lair.

An archlich encountered in its lair has a challenge rating of 31 (175,000 XP).

LAIR ACTIONS

On initiative count 20 (losing initiative ties), the archlich can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; the lich can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- The archlich rolls 2d8 and takes the higher roll, regaining a spell slot of the level rolled or lower. If it has no spent spell slots of that level or lower, nothing happens.
- The archlich targets one creature it can see within 30 feet of it. A crackling cord of negative energy tethers the lich to the target. Whenever the lich takes damage, the target must make a DC 20 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, the lich takes half the damage (rounded down), and the target takes the remaining damage. This tether lasts until initiative count 20 on the next round or until the lich or the target is no longer in the lich's lair.
- The lich calls forth the spirits of creatures that died in its lair. These apparitions materialize and attack one creature that the lich can see within 60 feet of it. The target must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw, becoming paralyzed for 1 minute and taking 52 (15d6) necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a success. The apparitions then disappear. A paralyzed creature can repeat the saving throw at the start of each of its turns, ending the effect on a success.

Challenge 30 (155000 XP)

Legendary Resistance (3/day). If the archlich fails a saving throw, it can choose to succeed instead.

Death Burst. When an undead under the archlich's control is reduced to 0 hit points, it explodes in a burst of necrotic energy. Each living creature within 5 feet of the undead must make a Dexterity saving throw, taking 27 (6d8) necrotic damage on a failed save or half damage on a success.

Reanimating Presence. Whenever a humanoid dies within 60 feet of the archlich, it rises at the start of the archlich's next turn as a zombie under its control. If the humanoid's body was protected against raising or was too heavily damaged before being raised, such as through the disintegrate spell, the gentle repose spell, or decapitation, the rising fails.

Rejuvenation. If it has a phylactery, a destroyed lich gains a new body in 1d4 days, regaining all its hit points and becoming active again. The new body appears within 5 feet of the phylactery.

Spell Mastery. The archlich can cast magic missile and mirror image at their lowest level without expending a spell slot, and may add its Intelligence modifier to any damage dealt by a spell.

Turn Immunity. The archlich is immune to effects that turn undead.

Spellcasting. The archlich is a 20th-level spellcaster. Its spellcasting ability is Intelligence (spell save DC 26, +18 to hit with spell attacks). The archlich has the following wizard spells prepared:

Cantrips (at will): chill touch, mage hand, prestidigitation, ray of frost
 1st level (4 slots): detect magic, magic missile, shield, thunderwave
 2nd level (3 slots): acid arrow, detect thoughts, invisibility, mirror image

3rd level (3 slots): counterspell, dispel magic, fireball

7th level (2 slots): finger of death, plane shift

8th level (1 slot): dominate monster, power word stun

9th level (1 slot): power word kill

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The archlich can use its Frightful Presence, and then casts 2 spells with a casting time of 1 action, one of 1st level or higher and one cantrip. It then makes an attack with its paralyzing touch.

Paralyzing Touch. Melee Spell Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 18 (4d8) cold damage. The target must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw or be paralyzed for 1 minute. The target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Frightful Presence. Each creature of the archlich's choice within 120 feet of it and aware of it must succeed on a DC 18 Wisdom saving throw or become frightened for 1 minute. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, with disadvantage if the archlich is within line of sight, ending the effect on itself on a success. If a creature's saving throw is successful or the effect ends for it, the creature is immune to the archlich's Frightful Presence for the next 24 hours.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The archlich can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The archlich regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Paralyzing Touch. The archlich uses its Paralyzing Touch.

Sacrifice. The archlich reduces an undead under its control to 0 hit points, and regains 2d10 + 20 hit points

Disrupt Life (Costs 2 Actions). Each living creature within 20 feet of the archlich must make a DC 20 Constitution saving throw against this magic, taking 54 (12d8) necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

BLOODBEAST

Bloodbeasts roam destroyed forests and barren plains, searching for signs of life that signal the presence of their prey. These savage creatures scour the landscape for small towns and dens, snatching and devouring any residents that they find. Their victims are often found days later, drained of all their blood.

Bloodbeasts take the form of thin, decrepit dire wolves, with crimson-hued fur and pale pink skin. Although these beasts look to be in ill health at first glance, the magic that runs through their veins makes them a powerful foe to face.

Beasts of Yeenoghu. When a hyena feasts on a creature slain by a gnoll fang of Yeenoghu, that hyena undergoes a horrid transformation into a gnoll. However, there is also another lesser known, unintended transformation: the creation of bloodbeasts. When a dire wolf eats a creature that has been slain in that manner, it instead undergoes a transformation into a bloodbeast, a creature imbued with the savagery and insatiable hunger of Yeenoghu himself. This process is extremely rare, since the territories of gnolls and dire wolves rarely intersect. But when they do, these powerful beasts can wreak havoc among the small packs of gnolls that dot the barren landscapes these beasts call home.

Lone Hunters. When a bloodbeast is created, it quickly disappears from the scene of its creation and hides from the gnolls that accidentally brought it into existence. It is only after a few days that the beast is ready to venture out and search for its prey. Bloodbeasts stalk the landscape in the dead of night, searching for weak creatures that they can easily ambush and quickly kill. After becoming a blood beast, these creatures no longer have any desire to procreate or work in packs.

Enemy of the Gnolls. Larger groups of gnolls that see a bloodbeast will kill it on sight, knowing that these creatures can easily pick off all but the most powerful gnolls in one-on-one combat.

Transfusion. Once per turn, when the bloodbeast hits a creature with cruorwhip or with a bite attack, the target takes an extra 10 (3d6) damage, and the bloodbeast regains hit points equal to the extra damage dealt.

Innate Spellcasting. The bloodbeast's spellcasting ability is Constitution (spell save DC 14). The bloodbeast can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

At will: cruorwhip

1/day each: animate blood, tides of blood

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The bloodbeast makes two bite attacks.

CRUORBEASTS

Awakened from death by a vampire's bite, a cruorbeast serves as a loyal pet, protecting the vampire from harm and following its orders unquestioningly. Much like their undead masters, cruorbeasts do not cast shadows and abhor sunlight and running water. However, these vampiric weaknesses are not as apparent as they are in true vampires, so many vampires will use these beasts as guardians during the daylight hours, since they do not take direct damage from sunlight.

Born from Death. While vampires usually do not bite non-humanoids, a special exception is made for giant bats. A relatively rare species, giant bats are highly sought after by upcoming vampires to become their servants. If one of these giant bats is slain by the vampire and then buried in the ground, it will rise the following night as a cruorbat under the vampire's control. These creatures are ravenous and bloodthirsty, much like the common vampire spawn that they accompany. Yet they manage to control their hunger at the request of their masters, only eating what is given to them - often the scraps of creatures killed by the vampire.

Loyal in Death. Every cruorbeast is bound to the vampire that created it, and they hate to leave their master's side - at least when its a cruorbat or cruorgheist. These creatures are able to leave on excursions that disallow them from seeing their master for long periods of time, but they prefer to take shorter flights that keep them within a few miles of the vampire's lair. If a vampire dies, then all of that vampire's cruorbeasts, with the exception of crou hulk, perish as well within the next 24 hours, since their master is the only meaning to their existence.

Protectors of the Lair. After they reawaken, cruorbeasts never sleep, remaining perpetually awake so that they may serve as constant watchdogs to their master. They sit on the balconies of their lair and in the treetops of the surrounding area, always looking out for potential intruders. If they spot any, they do not attack them. They instead opt to warn their master, waking them and alerting them to the intrusion. A cruorbeast will generally only attack if it has been ordered to by its master, in self-defense, or when severely underfed.

Undead Nature. A cruorbeast does not require air or sleep.

CRUORBAT

A cruorbat is the youngest form of cruorbeast, and it has the largest resemblance to its original form. These creatures appear to simply be giant bats at first glance, with their vampiric nature only coming into view upon closer inspection. They have deep crimson skin, larger fangs, and large red eyes. Otherwise, they behave exactly like a giant bat - they use echolocation, have large leathery wings, and swoop down to attack their foes.

CRUORGHEIST

As they feast on more corpses, cruorbats become larger, stronger and more intimidating. After a few years of meals, cruorbats gradually evolve into cruorgheists, a much more powerful enemy with a far greater constitution. These creatures are masters at hit-and-run tactics, where they dive onto their foes and then retreat as necromantic energy allows them to regenerate enough for another dive. Another common tactic is grabbing a foe and then taking off into the air, dropping them a few seconds later to potentially secure a kill.

In their transition, a cruorgheist has become far more monstrous in appearance. Their skin has become a pale white, like a traditional vampire's, and they have grown a magnificent crimson mane. Also, their fangs have become longer and sharper.

- A SURVIVOR'S ACCOUNT OF A CRUORGHEIST ATTACK

CRUORHULK

A cruorhulk is yet another stage in the life of a cruorbeast, and it is the most seldom achieved. By allowing a cruorghiest to drink the blood of its vampire master, that cruorghiest can undergo a transformation into a cruorhulk, which is a gigantic beast that rivals the strength of its master. Because of their immense power and the food required to sustain them, even the most powerful vampire will rarely have more than one cruorhulk at its side.

While the cruorhulk retains its loyalty to its master, it is no longer under their direct control, and its life is no longer connected with its master. This means that its master must take extra care in keeping a cruorhulk happy, since the beast is able to turn against them if it doesn't get enough food or care. However, this also means that if the vampire dies, then the cruorhulk will be able to take its revenge.

By transforming into a cruorhulk, a cruorghiest loses its flight capabilities due to its body becoming too heavy for its wings to lift. While it is no longer a skirmisher, it is instead a fantastic front-line fighter, capable of protecting its master against some of the most powerful threats they might face.

Each of those creatures must succeed on a DC 18 Strength or Dexterity saving throw (target's choice) or be knocked prone and take 28 (4d10 + 6) bludgeoning damage plus 28 (4d10 + 6) slashing damage. On a successful save, the creature takes only half the damage, isn't knocked prone, and is pushed 5 feet out of the cruorhulk's space into an unoccupied space of the creature's choice. If no unoccupied space is within range, the creature instead falls prone in the cruorhulk's space.

CURSED OAK

A cursed oak is a treant that has been blighted by an evil force, transforming into a living gulthias tree, an engine of spreading blight throughout once tranquil forests. This corrupted being tirelessly carries out the will of the ancient evil that controls it, and attempts to spread that evil wherever it can.

Soul of Gulthias. A cursed oak is the soul of the ancient vampire Gulthias made manifest, and it harbors all of his evil within its branches. These creatures have no semblance of their former self left within them. Much like a normal gulthias tree, a cursed oak spreads blight and creates blighted creatures, with the only difference being its ability to move and act on its own.

Using this animation, a cursed oak forcibly uproots healthy trees and plants, cursing them and then harboring the growth of blighted brambles, toxic weeds, and others of their kind. Wherever the cursed oak walks, these cursed plants follow, growing with supernatural speed to engulf all that they come across. If they encounter a settlement, that settlement may disappear in a matter of days, or even a matter of hours, as plants overwhelm the buildings and roads.

Blightlord. All other blights are beneath the cursed oak in the chain of superiority. The cursed oak commands other blights, creating strategies and tactics far beyond the mind of your average blight. A cursed oak is always surrounded by other blights, which serve as its spies and its bodyguards. Through its system of roots, it can communicate with other blights within its area of corruption, creating a vast network of command.

Curing the Curse. The curse of Gulthias is powerful dark magic, and cannot be lifted by a remove curse alone. In order to lift the curse and restore the treant to its former self, the oak must first be knocked unconscious, such as through reducing its hit points to 0 without killing it outright. Once it is unconscious, another treant must perform an hour long ritual to lift the curse. If the ritual is interrupted, it must be restarted from the beginning.

A creature takes 36 (8d8) bludgeoning damage and is pushed 10 feet away from the oak on a failed save, or takes half as much damage and suffers no other effect on a successful one.

Grasping Roots (Recharge 5-6). Grasping roots sprout in a 30-foot radius centered on the oak, withering away after 1 minute. For the duration, that area is difficult terrain for non-plant creatures. In addition, each creature of the oak's choice in that area when the plants appear must succeed on a DC 15 Strength saving throw or become restrained. A creature can use its action to make a DC 15 Strength check, freeing itself or another entangled creature within reach on a success.

DEATHCREST APE

Savage predators and skillful hunters, deathcrest apes climb through the dark chasms and destitute forests of the underdark, searching for sustenance. They hunt in small packs, devouring those that they come across in a frenzy of claws and teeth.

Bestial Origins. Deathcrest apes are the descendants of normal apes from the material plane, brought to the shadowfell through the dark portals that occasionally manifest in the deep gloom of dense jungle caverns. Against all odds, a few of these creatures managed to survive long enough for the shadowfell to corrupt their bodies, causing their claws to become larger and more monstrous, and transforming their hind feet into hooves. The Shadowfell has a dispiriting effect on its denizens, such that the longer a creature remains on the plane, the more it accepts the plane's malaise. As the years passed, these creatures became aware of the transformation being wrought upon them, and yet could do nothing to prevent it.

Devourers of All. In order to survive in the shadowfell, creatures must find a way to make do with whatever they find. One of the greatest adaptations of these creatures is their ability to eat any type of flesh - even the remains of an undead. While most creatures refuse to eat the undead due to their inability to digest tainted by the necrotic energy that animated them, deathcrest apes have specifically adapted to this purpose, filling a very large niche in the food chain.

Protected by the Raven Queen. As one of the few natural predators of the undead, deathcrest apes are venerated by the followers of the Raven Queen. Since the Raven Queen believes the undead to be a blight on the the land, any creature that reduces their population is a welcome guest in her realm of the shadowfell.

Because of this, the followers of the Raven Queen actively seek to protect these creatures, and they do not hunt the apes, even when they are in grave need of food. If these creatures were to be hunted to extinction, the undead would be even more numerous in the shadowfell than they already are.

Companions of the Shadar-kai. Due to a number of mutual interests and benefits, the shadar-kai occasionally domesticate deathcrest apes, making them serve as bodyguards against the undead. While the shadar-kai gain protection, the apes gain a food source and a shelter against the harsh storms of the shadowfell. However, these creatures are quick to anger and not loyal in the slightest, so they are quick to turn on their masters if they run out of food or are harmed by them.

A deathcap ape can be as intelligent as a dim-witted human, and therefore they can easily understand the commands of the Shadar-kai, and a few of them even learn Common, though this is extremely uncommon. The fleshfiend chooses either itself or one of the chained ones, and each creature within 5 feet of chosen creature must make a Constitution saving throw. A creature takes 25 (7d6) poison damage on a failed save, or half damage on a successful one.

FLESHFIEND

A fleshfiend is a powerful warrior that is most often found in the service of other devils. Although not true devils themselves, fleshfiends are treated like lesser devils on the infernal hierarchy, and they only serve greater devils and archdevils.

Evil Made Manifest. Fleshfiends originated in the Nine Hells many centuries ago, when powerful devils created a dark ritual to corrupt intruding humanoids, turning them into devilish fiends with no semblance of their mortal form remaining. The fleshfiends roam the Nine Hells, a gruesome reminder of the danger of remaining in that realm for too long.

Chained Ones. When fleshfiends are created, they are the fusion of 3 different humanoids, with the most powerful among them becoming the fleshfiend, and the others becoming chained ones. Chained ones appear to be smaller versions of the fleshfiend, with similarly leathery wings and sharp claws. The chained ones are independent thinkers, though they must obey the commands of the fleshfiend, which are always given through telepathy.

FLESHLINGS

The dreaded fleshlings dwell in clans within vast deserts and wastelands, always warring with one another for supremacy in the eyes of their god; Asmodeus, Lord of the Nine Hells. Using their natural aptitude in hemomancy, these savage humanoid seek to expand their clans and rule alone over their barren landscapes. Each tribe has no interest in working together with other clans, instead opting to go to war with all that they can find.

Most fleshlings have pink, flesh colored skin, which is how they earned their name. Their features are completely monstrous, with serrated teeth, multiple pairs of eyes, sharp claws, and fleshy ‘fins’ on their back. They wear clothing made of hides and strong leathers, useful materials for protecting their skin against the harsh sun of the desert.

Infernal Master. Fleshlings are the spawn of Asmodeus, Lord of the Nine Hells, and they revere him as their god. He offers them divine guidance and vengeance against their enemies while urging them towards even greater wars and bloodshed. These creatures erect dark temples devoted to their lord, and they tirelessly follow his every order.

Warring Tribes. Fleshlings have no ties with other clans of their race, and they rarely keep allies for longer than a few weeks. They are just as quick to war with other tribes as they are to war with other races, so their clans stay relatively small as they remain in a constant state of war.

Within a tribe, fleshlings live in a hierarchy based on a fleshling’s power and their proficiency with blood magic. As fleshlings become more proficient with their clans magic, they rise among the ranks and may eventually become a clan leader.

FLESHLING BLOODLETTER

The title of bloodletter is given to fleshlings that have gained some level of mastery over hemomancy, becoming more intelligent and powerful in the process of their learning. A bloodletter acts as a war leader, commanding troops and sending them to battles. Although they aren't at the very top of the hierarchy, they are close to it and are highly respected by the lower members of a tribe.

Fiendish Blessing. Asmodeus bestows special blessings upon a bloodletter, gifts that recognize their prowess in battle and in the arcane arts. Thusly, a bloodletter has far greater regenerative abilities and a more impressive constitution than their counterparts.

FLESHWURM

Fleshwurms are fleshlings that were blessed at birth by Asmodeus himself, destined by divine right to become the leader of their clan. Imbued with an exceptional aptitude with blood magic, fleshwurms quickly outclass all other members of their tribe, and no fleshling lower in status than them dares to question their rule. Even the fleshlings of enemy tribes do not dare to attack a fleshwurm themselves, instead allowing their tribe's fleshwurm leader to have a one-on-one duel with the enemy.

Through their blessing, a fleshwurm has gained a vastly different body from that of its peers. Their legs have been replaced with a long abdomen, like that of a snake or a worm. Their hands are smaller and more humanlike, and are therefore capable of wielding human weapons. Additionally, their great strength allows them to burrow through loose earth, and ability which they use to ambush their foes, as well as to create underground passages that may be used by other tribe members.

LOST SOUL

When a ghost has failed to complete its unfinished business for too long, it occasionally becomes a lost soul. A lost soul has existed for so long that it has no memory of its life or whatever unresolved task caused it to become a ghost, so it simply wanders across the world yearning to find a meaning to its existence.

Some lost souls seek out the living, hoping that they might find a way to put their soul to rest, while others may instead seek to kill the living in fits of spite and jealousy. Like regular ghosts, lost souls can still resolve their unfinished business, though it is often much harder to do so due to them not being tied to a specific location. Otherwise, the haunting of a lost soul is exactly the same as that of a regular ghost.

Eternal Wanderers. Lost souls have lost their binding to whatever creature, place or object they may have haunted before, and they have no memory of it, so they instead wander the land.

Undead Nature. A lost soul doesn't require air, food, drink, or sleep.

VARIANT: MARTIAL GHOSTS

Some ghosts and lost souls had martial training and battlefield experience in life, granting them an increased strength of 16 in death. A warrior ghost or lost soul wearing a chain shirt (AC 14 for the ghost, AC 15 for the lost soul) and wielding a longsword has a challenge rating of 6 (2,300 XP) for the ghost, and 7 (2,900 XP) for the lost soul, and the following additional action options:

Incorporeal Movement. The ghost can move through other creatures and Objects as if they were difficult terrain. It takes 5 (1d10) force damage if it ends its turn inside an object.

ACTIONS

Withering Touch. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 18 (4d6+4) necrotic damage. If the target is a creature, then their Strength score is reduced by 1d4. The target dies if this reduces its Strength to 0. Otherwise, the reduction lasts until the target finishes a short or long rest.

Etherealness. The ghost enters the Ethereal Plane from The Material Plane, or vice versa. It is visible on The Material Plane while it is in the Border Ethereal, and vice versa, yet it can't affect or be affected by anything on the other plane.

Horrifying Visage. Each non-undead creature within 60 ft. of the ghost that can see it must succeed on a DC 15 Wisdom saving throw or be Frightened for 1 minute. If the save fails by 5 or more, the target also ages 1d4 x 10 years. A Frightened target can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the Frightened condition on itself on a success. If a target's saving throw is successful or the effect ends for it, the target is immune to this ghost's Horrifying Visage for the next 24 hours. The aging effect can be reversed with a Greater Restoration spell, but only within 24 hours of it occurring.

Possession (Recharge 5-6). One humanoid that the ghost can see within 5 ft. of it must succeed on a DC 15 Charisma saving throw or be possessed by the ghost; the ghost then disappears, and the target is Incapacitated and loses control of its body. The ghost now controls the body but doesn't deprive the target of awareness. The ghost can't be targeted by any Attack, spell, or other effect, except ones that turn undead, and it retains its alignment, Intelligence, Wisdom, Charisma, and immunity to being Charmed and Frightened. It otherwise uses the possessed target's statistics, but doesn't gain access to the target's knowledge, Class Features, or proficiencies.

The possession lasts until the body drops to 0 hit points, the ghost ends it as a Bonus Action, or the ghost is turned or forced out by an effect like the Dispel Evil and Good spell. When the possession ends, the ghost reappears in an unoccupied space within 5 ft. of the body. The target is immune to this ghost's Possession for 24 hours after succeeding on the saving throw or after the possession ends.

Oozes

Oozes thrive in the dark, shunning areas of bright light and extreme temperatures. They flow through the damp underground, feeding on any creature or object that can be dissolved, slinking along the ground, dripping from walls and ceilings, spreading across the edges of underground pools, and squeezing through cracks. The first warning an adventurer receives of an ooze's presence is often the searing pain of its acidic touch.

Ooze Nature. An ooze doesn't require sleep.

Blood Ooze

A blood ooze resembles a giant, sticky clot of blood, with a deep crimson color. They lay in wait on the ceilings of dark caves and deep caverns, waiting for their prey. Once they spot a creature below them, they drop down and devour them, feasting on their blood to increase their size.

Blood oozes are created when a large amount of blood is tampered with by chaotic magic, in much the same way a grey ooze is created out of stone. These beings then constantly search for more blood to add to their body.

Necrotic Slime

Necrotic slimes are the most powerful and feared among the oozes. These slimes take the form of huge black blobs, larger than any other ooze and capable of consuming creatures the size of giants. They bubble with a necrotic energy that reanimates those that it consumes, creating undead servants that help it by bringing prey for it to feast on. A creature that is engulfed by a necrotic slime is slowly eaten down to the bone, leaving behind a perfectly clean and intact skeleton.

Significantly more intelligent than their brethren, necrotic slimes are capable of strategic thought and know when they are outmatched. If a necrotic ooze detects the presence of a creature or group of creatures powerful enough to defeat it, it has enough intelligence to hide effectively and escape into the underground. A necrotic slime can also command its servants intelligently, and uses them for scouting and for diversions.

Challenge 8 (3900 XP)

Amorphous. The slime can move through a space as narrow as 1 inch wide without squeezing.

Necrotic Form. A creature that touches the slime or hits it with a melee attack while within 5 feet of it takes 4 (1d8) necrotic damage.

Reanimator. A humanoid that dies while engulfed by the slime and then remains within the slime for 24 hours rises as a skeleton under the the slime's control. The slime can have no more than four skeletons under its control at one time.

Spider Climb. The slime can climb difficult surfaces, including upside down on ceilings, without needing to make an ability check.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The slime makes two attacks: one pseudopod attack and one grasp attack.

Pseudopod. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 17 (3d8+4) necrotic damage.

Grasp. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target not already engulfed by the slime. Hit: 7 (1d6+4) bludgeoning damage and the target is engulfed by the slime, suffering the same initial and ongoing effects as the engulf action.

Engulf. The slime moves up to its speed. While doing so, it can enter Huge or smaller creatures' spaces. Whenever the slime enters a creature's space, the creature must make a DC 16 Dexterity saving throw.

On a successful save, the creature can choose to be pushed 5 feet back or to the side of the slime. A creature that chooses not to be pushed suffers the consequences of a failed saving throw.

On a failed save, the slime enters the creature's space, and the creature takes 13 (3d8) necrotic damage and is engulfed. The engulfed creature can't breathe, is restrained, and takes 27 (6d8) necrotic damage at the start of each of the slime's turns. When the slime moves, the engulfed creature moves with it.

An engulfed creature can try to escape by taking an action to make a DC 16 Strength check. On a success, the creature escapes and enters a space of its choice within 5 feet of the slime.

PLAGUEBRINGER

Legendary creations formed from shadow and poisonous gases, plaguebringers scour the most desolate areas of the shadowfell, spreading disease and malice through that barren wasteland. They spend most of their time as a gigantic figure of pure shadow, a being that flies at great speed throughout the upper reaches of the shadowfell, only descending once every few years to inflict itself upon the surface world.

Occasionally, a plaguebringer finds a portal to the material plane during its visits to the surface. A plaguebringer that finds itself in the material plane is a terrible foe indeed, capable of rivaling the power of the most ancient dragons. It flies across the surface of the world, killing all in its wake and spreading disease throughout the land. It is from these occasional visits that the plaguebringers earned their name.

Denizens of the Dark. In its shadow form, a plaguebringer is near invisible during a dark night. A creature looking up into the night sky may only see a plaguebringer by watching the stars and moon, waiting for them to momentarily blink out of existence as the shadow passes over them.

When a plaguebringer descends to the surface, it does so quickly and quietly, and then immediately transforms into its true form. It takes little time for one of these creatures to destroy an entire town or pollute a lake. Then they disappear again into the night sky, leaving behind nothing but the remnants of their destruction.

However, in the daylight a plaguebringer is extremely easy to spot: they look like a giant blob of darkness, after all. This means that any creature that wants to hunt a plaguebringer should do so during the day, when they can't simply vanish into night sky at a moment's notice.

Foe of the Dragons. As one of the few creatures capable of battling a plaguebringer, these creatures seek to hunt down and destroy dragons both in the Shadowfell and out of it. When a dragon enters the Shadowfell, a plaguebringer will seek to destroy it before it can become an ancient shadow dragon - one of a plaguebringer's only true competitors in its home plane.

In the material plane, these two species still seek to mercilessly destroy one another. If a plaguebringer spots a dragon's nest, it will go out of its way to destroy it and bring its creator to ruin. Dragons also recognize the threat of a plaguebringer, and seek to destroy them if they have gained enough power, or run if they have not.

Origins in Shadow. A plaguebringer that has come to the material plane always attempts to eventually return. The eternal darkness of the shadowfell allows them to move stealthily during all times of day, and they simply have an innate draw to the shadowfell. They actively seek out portals to the shadowfell - dark circles within only the largest and darkest cave systems. If they cannot find one, they continue to scour the landscape until they find one or until they are defeated in the process.

Hunger and Hibernation. Plaguebringers only seek to feast once every few years, and they "hibernate" in between these events, where they may devour countless creatures in a fit of voracious hunger. After non-stop eating for nearly half of a year, a plaguebringer seeks to return to the upper reaches of the Shadowfell, where it sleeps until its appetite is once again ravenous. If awoken during its sleep, such as by a dragon or some other flying visitor in the shadowfell, a plaguebringer goes into a rage. During this rage, it seeks to destroy whatever woke it, and then it continues to destroy until its anger is sated.

During its years of hibernation, a plaguebringer does not need to eat or drink.

Challenge 20 (25000 XP)

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If the Plaguebringer fails a saving throw, it can choose to succeed instead.

Plague Aura. At the start of each of the plaguebringer's turns, each creature within 5 feet of it takes 7 (2d6) poison damage, and becomes poisoned until the end of the plaguebringer's next turn. A creature that touches the plaguebringer or hits it with a melee attack while within 5 feet of it takes 3 (1d6) poison damage and becomes poisoned until the end of its next turn.

Shapechanger. If the plaguebringer hasn't taken damage since the end of its last turn, it can use its action to polymorph into a Gargantuan form of magical shadow, or back into its true form.

While in shadow form, the plaguebringer can't take any actions, speak or manipulate objects. It is weightless, has a flying speed of 150 feet, can hover, and can enter a hostile creature's space and stop there. In addition, if air can pass through a space, the form can do so without squeezing, and it can't pass through water. It has advantage on Strength, Dexterity, and Constitution saving throws, and it is immune to all nonmagical damage. If the plaguebringer takes any damage while in this form, it immediately reverts back to its true form and falls to the ground, taking falling damage as normal.

Innate Spellcasting. The plaguebringer's spellcasting ability is Wisdom (spell save DC 18). The plaguebringer can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
At will: contagion, insect plague

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The plaguebringer can use its Frightful Presence. It then makes three attacks: one with its bite and two with its claws.

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +14 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 15 (2d6+8) slashing damage.

Bite. Melee Weapon Attack: +14 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 17 (2d8+8) piercing damage.

Frightful Presence. Each creature of the plaguebringer's choice that is within 120 feet of the plaguebringer and aware of it must succeed on a DC 18 Wisdom saving throw or become frightened for 1 minute. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success. If a creature's saving throw is successful or the effect ends for it, the creature is immune to the plaguebringer's Frightful Presence for the next 24 hours.

Plague Breath (Recharge 5-6). The Plaguebringer exhales a virulent plague in a 60-foot cone. Each creature in the area must make a DC 22 Constitution saving throw, taking 72 (16d8) poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS

The plaguebringer can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. The plaguebringer regains spent legendary actions at the start of its turn.

Detect. The plaguebringer makes a Wisdom (Perception) check.

Claw Attack. The plaguebringer makes a claw attack.

Slam (Costs 2 Actions). The plaguebringer slams its claws into the ground, creating a shockwave. Each creature within 15 feet of the plaguebringer must succeed on a DC 22 Dexterity saving throw or take 15 (2d6 + 8) bludgeoning damage and be knocked prone.

Swarm. The swarm can occupy another creature's space and vice versa, and the swarm can move through any opening large enough for a Tiny maggot. The swarm can't regain hit points or gain temporary hit points.

ACTIONS

Bites. Melee Weapon Attack: +3 to hit, one target. Hit: 10 (4d4) piercing damage or 5 (2d4) piercing damage if the swarm is has half of its hit points or fewer.

Infest. The swarm infests the body of a dead humanoid, causing all damage that would be dealt to them to be dealt to the body instead, and preventing them from taking any other actions. If the body takes 10 hit points of damage, the maggots are driven out, and cannot reenter that body for 24 hours. If the maggots remain in a body for 24 hours, the creature rises as a Rothorror.

ROTHORROR

A rothorror is an undead monstrosity, reanimated by a unique species of maggot-like beasts. Indistinguishable from true maggots, these creatures are able to create rothorrors by infesting the body of a dead humanoid. The body becomes bloated, grows in size, and gains large claws that are used to rip apart other creatures. When a rothorror dies, its body explodes and the maggots seek to infest new bodies.

Death Burst. When the rothorror dies, it explodes in a burst of putrid gas. Each creature within 5 feet of it must make a DC 14 Dexterity Saving throw, taking 21 (6d6) poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. Four swarms of maggots crawl out of the exploded remains, spawning in the area the rothorror once occupied.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The rothorror makes two claw attacks. If it has a creature grappled, it can also take the rotting stench action.

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 15 (2d10+4) slashing damage. If a Medium or smaller target is hit by both claw attacks in the same turn, it is grappled (escape DC 15) if the rothorror isn't already grappling a creature.

Rotting Stench. The rothorror releases a putrid stench on a creature it is grappling. That creature must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or become incapacitated by the stench until the end of the rothorror's next turn.

Dominate (Recharge 6). The rothorror releases a maggot into the ear of an incapacitated creature that the rothorror is grappling. As the maggot reaches the brain, the creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or lose control of its body as the maggot latches onto the creature's brain, taking total control of it. The creature's Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma score are replaced by the rothorrors, but it otherwise retains its statistics, though it doesn't gain access to the target's knowledge, class features, or proficiencies.

If the host body or the rothorror drops to 0 hit points, the maggot disintegrates and the creature regains control. A protection from evil and good spell cast on the body drives the maggot out. The target is immune to this rothorror's dominate for 24 hours after succeeding on the saving throw or after the domination ends.

SEAFALLEN

Covered by a thick layer of fog, a dilapidated ship sails into view, piloted by the lifeless bodies of former sailors. Now turned into grotesque meldings of coral and flesh, these creatures seek to force other sailors to suffer their same fate.

The Drowned Dead. When a large sailing ship becomes shipwrecked and its sailors drown, occasionally an inexplicable necromantic energy animates them, turning them into undead monsters of considerable power. Unlike most lowly undead, these creatures are not mindless: they stick together and behave much like a normal sailing crew. Until they can find a ship, however, they wander the ocean floor, looking for the dropped anchor of a potential target. Once they find one, they swim up to the surface and attempt to take it over for themselves, driven by an innate desire to command a ship.

Seafallen can be created from the bodies of any humanoid race, and they still show some resemblance to their living form, though they become melded with coral and their mouths are filled with serrated teeth. Their skin becomes tight and takes on a bluish hue, and their eyes become pearly white. The coral that covers their skin serves as a kind of makeshift armor, though it is weak and easily destroyed by heavily damaging attacks. If damaged, this armor naturally reforms within a few days as the coral grows at an unnaturally fast speed.

Weakly Armored. Whenever the seafallen takes more than 10 damage in a single turn, a piece of its coral armor chips off, reducing their AC by 1. This reduction is cumulative, but cannot reduce their AC below 10.

ACTIONS

Slam. Melee Weapon Attack: +3 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 4 (1d6+1) bludgeoning damage.

Water Whip (Recharge 6). The seafallen releases a line of water in a 10-foot line that is 5 feet wide. Each creature in that line must make a DC 11 Dexterity saving throw. On a failure, a target takes 7 (2d6) bludgeoning damage and, if it is Medium or smaller, is pushed up to 5 feet away from the seafallen. On a success, a target takes half damage and isn't pushed.

Internal Hierarchy. A crew of seafallen has a well established hierarchy, with the captain at the top, hosts below them, and the crew at the lowest rank. The captain wields a large anchor as a weapon, an item that they can only lift because of their near inhuman strength. A seafallen host, so named because they are a willing host to a large octopus, instead fights with a trident and the help of its octopus companion. The crewmembers, on the other hand, fight without weapons. All of these creatures have the power to store water within their bodies, which they later release in a powerful blast that knocks creatures away.

Driven by Hate. Seafallen seek to destroy their living counterparts, and they sail the sea with sinking other ships as their only intent. The necromantic energy that drives them forces them to attack without mercy and fight to the very last man.

Undead Nature. A seafallen doesn't require air, food, drink, or sleep.

SHADOW ELEMENTAL

Shadow elementals are creatures of living shade, brought into being from the depths of the Shadowfell. Appearing as nebulous forms of ever-shifting gloom, they lash out at the living with tendrils as insubstantial as darkness itself.

Bound and Summoned. These elusive creatures rarely roam the Material plane of their own free will. When they do, it is almost exclusively deep underground, places the light has never touched. More frequently, they manifest as servants summoned from the Shadowfell, bound into service by powerful spellcasters.

Shadow elementals seem to understand the commands of their summoners, regardless of what language they speak. Beyond this, however, these creatures never seem to communicate in any manner. It is unknown whether they have any language at all.

Enemy of the Light. Although these creatures are not directly harmed by sunlight, it does cause them considerable discomfort, and they do all that they can to escape or snuff out the hateful illumination. Similarly, shadow elementals find the presence of living beings not native to the shadowfell to be disturbing, although not nearly to the same extent as they do light itself. When not under a summoner's control, they make every effort to extinguish life and light both. They are as obedient as any elemental when summoned, so most shadow elementals are only as evil as their masters permit.

Elemental Nature. A shadow elemental doesn't require air, food, drink, or sleep.

Blinding Light. When the shadow elemental takes radiant damage, it must make a Constitution saving throw with a DC of 5 + the damage taken. On a failed save, the elemental is blinded until the end of its next turn.

Shade's Sight. Magical darkness doesn't impede the elemental's darkvision.

Shadow Form. The elemental can enter a hostile creature's space and stop there. It can move through a space as narrow as 1 inch wide without squeezing.

Shadow Stealth. While in dim light or darkness, the shadow elemental can take the Hide action as a bonus action.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The elemental makes two tendril attacks.

Tendril. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 13 (2d8+4) bludgeoning damage and the creature is pulled up to 5 feet towards the elemental.

Whirling Shadows (Recharge 4-6). A 10-foot radius of magical darkness extends out from the elemental, moves with it, and spreads around corners, lasting until the start of the elemental's next turn. Darkvision can't penetrate this darkness, and no natural light can illuminate it. If any of the darkness overlaps with an area of light created by a spell of 2nd level or lower, the spell creating the light is dispelled.

SHADOWTOUCHED

Shadowtouched are creatures that have been tainted through many years or generations spent within the dismal confines of the Shadowfell. Some of these creatures learn to embrace the Shadowfell, while others seek to return to their former homes on the Material plane.

Dark Portals. Just like shadow dragons, most shadowtouched creatures first arrived in the Shadowfell after coming across portals deep within subterranean caverns and caves. Once they spend enough time in the Shadowfell, they slowly transform to become as harsh as the landscape itself.

SHADOWTOUCHED TEMPLATE

A beast, giant, humanoid, monstrosity, ooze, or plant can become shadowtouched. When it undergoes this transformation, it retains its statistics except as described below.

Damage Resistances. The shadowtouched has resistance to necrotic damage.

Reanimate Shadow. If a non-evil humanoid dies from a melee weapon attack from the shadowtouched, a shadow rises from the corpse 1d4 hours later.

Senses. The shadowtouched has darkvision with a radius of 120 feet.

Skill Proficiency: Stealth. The shadowtouched's proficiency bonus is doubled for its Dexterity (Stealth) checks.

Shadow Stealth. While in dim light or darkness, the shadowtouched can take the Hide action as a bonus action.

Sunlight Sensitivity. While in sunlight, the shadowtouched has disadvantage on attack rolls, as well as on Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on sight.

Confusing Gaze. When a creature starts its turn within 30 feet of the shadowtouched and is able to see the shadowtouched's eyes, the shadowtouched can magically force it to make a DC 15 Charisma saving throw, unless the shadowtouched is incapacitated.

On a failed saving throw, the creature can't take reactions until the start of its next turn and rolls a d8 to determine what it does during that turn. On a 1 to 4, the creature does nothing. On a 5 or 6, the creature takes no action but uses all its movement to move in a random direction. On a 7 or 8, the creature makes one melee attack against a random creature, or it does nothing if no creature is within reach.

Unless surprised, a creature can avert its eyes to avoid the saving throw at the start of its turn. If the creature does so, it can't see the shadowtouched until the start of its next turn, when it can avert its eyes again. If the creature looks at the shadowtouched in the meantime, it must immediately make the save.

Reanimate Shadow. If a non-evil humanoid dies from a melee weapon attack from the shadowtouched, a shadow rises from the corpse 1d4 hours later.

Shadow Stealth. While in dim light or darkness, the shadowtouched can take the Hide action as a bonus action.

Sunlight Sensitivity. While in sunlight, the shadowtouched has disadvantage on attack rolls, as well as on Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on sight.

Tunneler. The shadowtouched can burrow through solid rock at half its burrowing speed and leaves a 5 foot-wide, 8-foot-high tunnel in its wake.

ACTIONS

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 9 (1d8+5) slashing damage.

Mandibles. Melee Weapon Attack: +8 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (2d8+5) slashing damage.

SKELETONS

Skeletons arise when a creature is animated by dark magic. They heed the summons of spellcasters who call them from their stony tombs and ancient battlefields, or rise of their own accord in places saturated with death and loss, awakened by stirrings of necromantic energy or the presence of corrupting evil. Skeletal undead can be created from the bones of other creatures besides humanoids, giving rise to a host of terrifying and unique forms.

SKELETON TEMPLATE

An aberration, beast, dragon, fey, fiend, giant, humanoid, or monstrosity can become a skeleton. When it undergoes this transformation, it retains its statistics except as described below.

Lost Characteristics. The skeleton loses its original saving throw and skill bonuses, as well as any special senses. Some special traits may be removed at your discretion, such as traits that assume a living body, like amphibious.

Type. The skeleton's type is Undead, and it loses any tags. It no longer requires air, food, drink, or sleep.

Alignment. The skeleton is Lawful Evil.

Ability Scores. The skeleton's ability scores change as follows: Con 15 (+2), Int 6 (-2), Wis: 8 (-1), Cha: 5 (-3). Int, Wis, and Cha can't be increased by this change.

Senses. The skeleton has darkvision with a radius of 60 feet.

Armor Class. The skeleton's AC is reduced by 2. This cannot reduce their AC below 10 + their Dexterity modifier.

Damage Vulnerabilities. The skeleton is vulnerable to bludgeoning damage.

Damage Immunities. The skeleton is immune to poison damage.

Challenge 7 (2900 XP)

Undead Fortitude. If damage reduces the zombie to 0 hit points, it must make a Constitution saving throw with a DC of 5 + the damage taken, unless the damage is radiant or from a critical hit. On a success, the zombie drops to 1 hit point instead.

ACTIONS

Multiattack. The zombie makes three attacks: one with its bite and two with its claws

Bite. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 15 (2d10+4) piercing damage plus 4 (1d8) acid damage.

Claw. Melee Weapon Attack: +7 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 11 (2d6+4) slashing damage.

Acid Breath (Recharge 5-6). The dragon exhales acid in a 30-foot line that is 5 feet wide. Each creature in that line must make a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw, taking 49 (11d8) acid damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

The flesh and bones of any formerly living creature can be imbued with some semblance of life, transforming them into a zombie. Necromantic magic, usually from spells, animates a zombie. Some zombies rise spontaneously when dark magic saturates an area. Once turned into a zombie, a creature can't be restored to life except by powerful magic.

SAMPLE ZOMBIE

The zombie statistics presented here use a young black dragon as the base creature.

ZOMBIE TEMPLATE

An aberration, beast, dragon, fey, fiend, giant, humanoid, or monstrosity can become a zombie. When it undergoes this transformation, it retains its statistics except as described below.

Lost Characteristics. The zombie loses its original saving throw and skill bonuses, as well as any special senses or special traits.

Type. The zombie's type is Undead, and it loses any tags. It no longer requires air, food, drink, or sleep.

Alignment. The zombie is Neutral Evil.

Speed. Reduce all the zombie's speeds by 10 feet, to a minimum of 5 feet.

Ability Scores. The zombie's ability scores change as follows: Int 3 (-4), Wis: 6 (-2), Cha: 5 (-3). Int, Wis, and Cha can't be increased by this change. The zombie's Constitution score is increased by 2, and its Dexterity score is decreased by 6, to a minimum value of 6 (-2).

Senses. The zombie has darkvision with a radius of 60 feet.

Saving Throw: Wisdom. The zombie adds its proficiency modifier to its Wisdom saving throws

Damage Immunities. The zombie is immune to poison damage.

Condition Immunities. The zombie can't be poisoned.

Hit Dice. The zombie gains two additional hit dice, increasing its hit points by the regular amount.

Undead Fortitude. If damage reduces the zombie to 0 hit points, it must make a Constitution saving throw with a DC of 5 + the damage taken, unless the damage is radiant or from a critical hit. On a success, the zombie drops to 1 hit point instead.

Languages. The zombie understands all languages it knew in life but can't speak.
