

COMPANY OF THE BLACK ROSE

Symbol: A stylized black rose with thorns.

Background and Goals: Founded by long-time comrades in arms, the Black Rose Adventuring Company is dedicated to the eradication or capture of magic employing creatures who threaten the safety of Verbobonc. His Lordship Viscount Langard officially recognized the Black Rose as a worthy remedy in combating evil and granted them the use of a building in the heart of the city, dubbed Black Rose manor. The headquarters contains specialized facilities for the study and combat of creatures capable of harnessing magic.

With recent events shattering long-held assumptions about the Viscounty, Verbobonc seems to have started down the road to dissolution. The absence of the Viscount, the slow wasting-away of the comatose Bishop Haufren, the death of Magister Obble Har at the hands of a dark foe, the disbanding of the Mounted Borderers, and the assassination of many nobles in their very homes have all conspired to throw Verbobonc into chaos. You have witnessed these evils for far too long. When the organization you swore to follow crumbled around you, your will to fight the enemies of the Viscounty did not waver. Instead, you found a group of like-minded warriors, armed drifters with little to bind them other than a desire to see the common man uplifted and some kind of order restored to the Viscounty of Verbobonc.

Members: The Company of the Black Rose invites all comers, but those with experience in an organization that has been disbanded are welcomed at a higher rank. Those with a long history of wandering the Viscounty and performing heroic deeds are also made welcome. Although warriors tend to gravitate to the Company of the Black Rose more often than priests or mages, the number of masterless heroes in Verbobonc ensure that all types are found within their ranks.

Only those characters that possess the Leadership feat are permitted to rise to Black Rose Commander in the Company of the Black Rose.
