The following “Living Kingdoms of Kalamar” character known as has received during

Temple of the Bronze Flame

“Igniter” +1 flail of flame

Igniter is a flail with two dark fire-blackened heads shaped like flames connected to a weathered stone handle by a rusty chain. Its appearance hides the true nature of this powerful weapon. When grasped, the wielder immediately learns that uttering the command word “ignite” causes both flame heads to emit heat and glow bright red. While lit, any creature or object struck by Igniter takes an additional 2 points of fire damage. If Igniter is brought to rest on an object, it can set things on fire, though simply striking something is not enough contact to cause combustion. The wielder of the weapon is immune to this damage.

“Cincture of Fire” Pyrohydra armor

This reddish suit of masterwork armor is made from a pyrohydra hide. It functions as masterwork hide armor. In addition, it also provides limited resistance against fire attacks. Per the rules in Goods and Gear, it reduces fire damage by 1 point per die of fire damage. This is considered a Supernatural ability of the armor, and does not interfere with magical enchantment.
