Keep the marks small; once you complete one round through the calendar, you can start again with a second set. Each time a full month passes, record it with a hatch mark next to the appropriate month on the monthly calendar above. Use the corners of the daily boxes to note phases of the moon. At the start of each game month, review the holy days (recorded on the basic world information page) and note when they will occur on this month's calendar.

PICK POCKET TABLE

Inevitably one of your PCs will attempt to pick an NPC's pocket. What is inside that coin purse, pouch, or satchel? Use the following tables to find out. First determine the social class or occupation of the victim. Then roll a d20 + Social Class modifier on Table A to determine the type of item stolen. Consult the appropriate Item table and roll 1d100 + Social Class modifier to determine the actual item stolen. Note that NPCs possessing valuables worth stealing will almost always have the resources to recover them!
