

HALFLING SUBRACE: KENDER

MIXED BLOOD

Kender are the result of a union between a halfling and a gnome, always physically resembling their halfling parent but having the same natural bent towards curiosity as their gnomish guardian, and are almost always raised in halfling communities. As a result, kender grow up like most halflings, incredibly community oriented and ultimately well meaning. However, their gnomish predilection for curiosity and the occasional prank mark them as stalwartly more Chaotic than the rest of their generally Lawful community.

Because of their rather incompatible mixed blood, kender cannot bear children of their own.

PERMANENT YOUTH

Another stark difference between kender and the average halfling is their youthful appearance and behavior. No kender ever appears to age past 14, with few looking much older than a small 11 or 12 year old human. They have a childlike naivete and an innate wonder of the world that few ever lose. They also have a rather stunted emotional growth - kender never really understand romance. When they take a life partner it's more a ceremonial recognition of a true lifelong friend than a marriage.

MAGPIE TENDENCIES

Occasionally to the ire of other races, kender have a very loose concept of ownership. Save for family heirlooms, important personal items, or certain essential gear, kender see nothing wrong with "borrowing" items without asking. They also have a love of all things shiny and interesting, though once inspected, they have no use for something they've already looked over once. They do have an unfortunately short attention span, however, and often put things in their pockets without thinking if they become distracted. They have no compunction of giving such things back to those who ask for them, though, as they never intended to keep the item in the first place.

That said, Kender are ultimately kind, and while childlike and naive, they're not ignorant or unteachable. If someone asks a kender to keep away from their belongings, the kender will do their best to comply, or at least ask first before inspecting an item - often, their gnomish parent warned them that many races would not be so keen on "sharing" as other halflings, so requests like these rarely shock a kender. However, if an item of interest is left unintended and you could swear you left it by the fire, you know who to ask first.

WANDERLUST

Many, though not all, kender experience "wanderlust" in their early 20s. Sometimes, this desire for travel can be sated by visiting a large city, or traveling around one Autumn and enjoying a number of local harvest festivals. Other times, a kender's wanderlust urges them farther into more daring locales and roles.

These are the kender that become adventurers, though the exact nature of their unbidden desire varies wildly from person to person. Some might simply wish to explore some ancient ruins and follow the path of a dungeon delving rogue. Others wish to sate their curiosity in the libraries of arcane universities and unlocking the powers of a wizard. Others still might seek a higher calling, exploring the churches and temples across the world and trying to follow the path of a cleric in worship of a god they favor. A stout few do become fighters, seeing sparring as just another sport.

KENDER TRAITS

Along with the halfling traits, kender also have the following:

Ability Score Increase: Your childlike charm and wonder lend you a charming demeanor and a willful personality. Your Charisma Score increases by 1.

Keen Eyes: Ever on the lookout for something interesting, you more easily notice when things are amiss or unusual in your surroundings. You gain +2 to your passive perception, and are proficient in the Investigation skill.

Kender Pockets: Always looking around and inspecting, kender are bound to stuff things into their pockets throughout the day and then immediately forget once distracted again. You may roll a d4 at any time you are in need of a piece of nonmagical equipment that you could reasonably fit into a pocket. On a 4, you produce the item you were looking for after one minute of rummaging.

Kender Gifts: Kender possess a limited amount of their gnomish parent's ingenuity, as well as a small amount of magic. A kender inevitably discovers how to craft two minor magical items - the kender pouch and the kender bangle, listed below.

Kender Pouch: A kender possesses a pouch that generates a minor, largely useless (but entertaining or interesting to the kender) and sometimes magical item every dawn. Roll a percentile die on the Kender Pouch table to determine what item you get every day. Any item generated by the pouch disappears when a new one is created.

Kender Bangle: Somewhat more useful than the pouch, a kender owns a bangle that they can craft small charms for. These charms contain a minor but useful magical affect, and can only be used once each, or last 1d4 days, before they break unless otherwise stated. A charm can be made of any material that can hold a shape, and a kender may have 3 charms on their bangle at a time. It takes 1d4 hours to craft a charm as the kender hyper-focuses, which can be done during a long rest. A kender may attempt a DC 15 Wisdom saving throw to create a functional charm in only one hour, which can be done on a short rest, but a failed save makes results in a nonmagical charm and wastes the time that could have been used to take any other actions during that short rest. Kender are inspired randomly when crafting, but innately know the end function of whatever charm they craft. Charms are only able to be activated by the kender. When crafting a charm, roll on the Charm Table to find out what you created. If the charm has an effect for a class you do not have levels in, reroll that charm.

- 20 Prism of Julianos- +1 on investigation checks requiring deduction.
- 21 Mask of Dibella- +1 on performance checks involving seduction.
- 22 Sun of Arkay- Upon casting a damaging spell, flip a coin. On heads, the spell deals an additional 1 radiant damage.
- 23 Hourglass of Akatosh- May expend the charm to undo your turn in combat, after which your turn immediately ends, nullifying any influence your turn would have had on the tide of battle. The unique shape of this charm means that it takes up 2 charm notches instead of the usual 1.
- 24 Heavy Blow- May expend this charm as a bonus action to make the melee attack you use your action on push the target away up to 10 feet.
- 25 Second Wind- If you are fighting with 2 light weapons and use your action to attack with one of them may expend this charm as a bonus action to attack with each weapon, for a total of 3 attacks under normal circumstances. Do not add ability modifiers to the damage rolls of these attacks.
- 26 Mark of Pride- If making an attack with a reach weapon you may ignore half cover.
- 27 Dragonskin Shell- If you take damage before your first turn of combat, you may use your reaction to expend the charm and nullify the damage entirely.
- 28 Plagued Swarm- A thin swarm of plagued magical insects now follows you. You gain disadvantage on all charisma checks requiring positive a disposition towards you, but in combat may command the swarm to attack for 1d4 poison damage as a bonus action. The swarm cannot leave a 15 foot radius around you, and is immune to all attacks. If you are subject to any conditions (blinded, prone, charmed, etc.), the swarm is as well.
- 29 Bat's Eye Gem- Grants the wearer 10 feet of darkvision if they do not have darkvision.
- 30 Noble's Crest- +1 to charisma checks interacting with upper class humanoids.

KENDER CHARMS

KENDER CHARMS

d100 Charm + Affect

- 31 Healer's Focus- You know cure wounds and can use it in combat up to 3 times, and you may use subsequent actions to cast it again on the same target without expending a spell slot. The first action you take after sustaining Cure Wounds which does not sustain the spell breaks the charm.
- 32 Celestial Soul- Grants temporary hit points equal to the wearer's maximum health. When they have been expended the charm breaks.
- 33 Song of the Ancients- When you fall below half health, the charm is expended and half of your used spell slots are restored.
- 34 Cosmic Pulse- At the start of each of your turns, flip a coin. On heads, you regain 1 hp.
- 35 Mushboom- Can expend this charm to grow an explosive fungus on an arrow or bolt before firing it. On impact, it explodes for 2d6 poison damage within 10 feet, or half as much damage to those who succeed the DC 15 constitution saving throw.
- 36 Trueleaf Sprig- When using wild shape, your attacks deal an additional 1 poison damage.
- 37 Poem of Barrus- At full health, you deal an additional 1d4 radiant damage with your melee attacks.
- 38 Aazidal's Nexus- When casting a spell that deals fire damage, you may choose to have it deal cold damage instead.
- 39 Hunter Queen's Crest- When attacking with a loading weapon, roll 1d4. On 4, you may use the bonus action of that turn to reload the weapon if you desire.
- 40 Bloodseeker's Crest- Killing a living creature of CR 1/2 or higher heals you 1d6+1 hit points.
- 41 Lord and Lady Stones- This charm has 3 charges. 2 may be expended to cast a spell you have prepared at 2nd level, or 1 may be expended to cast a prepared spell at 1st level. Once all charges are expended, the charm breaks. The unique design of this charm requires 2 notches to use effectively.
- 42 Jonathan's Lock- When prone or sleeping, your effective armor class increases by 1.
- 43 Doom of Hell- Take an additional 1d6 damage from fiends. For every fiend you slay wearing this charm add its CR to a running total. You deal half of this total as additional radiant damage when attacking fiends with a melee attack (for example if the running total is 13+3/8, you deal 7 radiant damage to fiends you hit). This total resets if your hp reaches 0, or if the charm is removed from your attunement. In the infernal plane, the bonus damage is not halved.
- 44 Fey Slayer- Doom of Hell but for fey and the feywild.
- 45 Wet Feather- Ignore the first 10 feet of falling damage. Falling rate slightly reduced. Taking more than 15 damage from a fall pops the charm.
- 46 Witchlight Moth- A small glowing moth follows you around, shedding 3 feet of dim light. Only you can see the moth and the light it produces. The moth does not respond to verbal commands, but will remain within 10 feet of you at all times, and can be caught with a successful DC 15 acrobatics check.
- 47 Wispy Cloak- Can expend this charm to become invisible. The effect ends if you move, typical invisibility ending actions are taken, or 1 minute passes.
- 48 Primal Hunger- Eating the heart of fallen enemies will restore health equal to your base hit die (1d6 for a wizard, 1d10 for a ranger, etc.). Plant based food deals 1d8 poison damage if consumed, and no health can be restored from rests. You do not contract any diseases from eating hearts.
- 49 Arcane Knowledge- You may expend this charm to cast any scroll, provided you pass the scroll comprehension DC. Even if you fail this check, the charm will still be broken. The scroll does not use a spell slot when cast.
- 50 Beacon Stone- You always know your direction relative to the last place you slept.
- 51 Mindgiver- Can expend this charm to awaken a shrub or similar plant of CR 0. You command this creature, but it rapidly withers losing 1 hp every minute until it dies. It cannot be healed.
- 52 Violet Spore- Can expend this charm to summon a violet fungus from a nearby corpse. This fungus is hostile to all creatures (including the wearer of the recently broken charm) and its victims do not spawn additional fungi.
- 53 Crablord- You can speak to crabs.
- 54 Acid Tongue- When you make an attack action with a weapon which hits, you may use your bonus action to expend this charm. The target's AC is reduced by 1 until the end of your next turn.
- 55 Magician's crest- You may expend this charm to cast prestidigitation.
- 56 Vile Swarm- Choose an enemy. As an action, you may expend this charm to summon a swarm of rats around this enemy. The swarm can only attack this enemy, and if the swarm hasn't been killed by the time the target dies, they disintegrate.
- 57 Charm Charge- May expend this charm to use another charm that has been used. The other charm is then permanently disabled.

KENDER CHARMS

KENDER CHARMS

d100 Charm + Affect

- 58 Weasel Tooth- You can expend this charm to summon an invisible weasel and give it one verbal command. If no command is provided, it disappears. It will attempt to fulfill the command to the best of its ability. After this attempt it will disappear.
- 59 Vile Shape- Wild shape turns into a monstrosity instead of a beast.
- 60 Monk Crest- May expend this charm to restore ½ of your used ki.
- 61 Barbarian Crest- May expend this charm to restore ½ of your used rages.
- 62 Bard Crest- May expend this charm to restore ½ of your used bardic inspirations.

- 66 Rogue Crest- May expend this charm to effectively double your dexterity modifier on an ability check, attack roll, or saving throw.
- 67 Sorcerer Crest- May expend this charm to restore ½ of your used Sorcery points.
- 68 Warlock Crest- May expend this charm to restore ½ of your used Warlock spell slots.
- 69 Druid Crest- May expend this charm to regain 1 wild shape use.
- 70 Fighter Crest- May expend this charm to regain 1 use of Indomitable or Action Surge.
- 71 Ranger Crest- May expend this charm to restore ½ of your used Ranger spell slots.
- 72 Living Tether- You can expend this charm to conjure a vine which binds you to another creature within 1 size rating of you that could be reached by a 30 foot vine. For example, a target 5 feet from you on the other side of a wall might still be tethered if the vine can reach through a small chimney or a window. This vine has the same statistics as a 30 foot rope. Neither creature is considered grapple.
- 73 Quipper Idol- You can expend this charm to obtain gills, and breathe water instead of air for 1 hour. You must choose either saltwater or freshwater when you use the charm. It appears to be an idol in the shape of a quipper.
- 74 Merfolk's Blessing- You do not expend an extra movement when swimming instead of walking. You require 3 times as much water per day. It appears to be an ornate fish made from bronze.
- 75 Silent Claw- You may expend this charm to deal 2d4 psychic damage to a target you can see within 30 feet that has not detected you. It bears the image of a Tiger's head.
- 76 Vicious Claw- You may expend this charm to deal 1d4 psychic damage to a target you can see within 10 feet. It bears the image of a roaring lion's head.
- 77 Sleeping Eye- You may expend this charm to magically slow an enemy you see within 30 feet until the end of your next turn. Appears to be a closed eye forged from silver, which opens when the charm has been used. The charm then appears to be empty, and does not contain an eyeball.
- 78 Feyblood Shell- If an enemy attempts to put you to sleep with magic or charm you, the attempt fails and the charm is expended. Bears the image of a greater fey wielding a shield.
- 79 Elven Mind- You may expend this charm to trance instead of sleep. Bears the image of a meditating high elf.
- 80 Unlucky Copper- You have a -1 penalty to all ability checks. Appears to be an orb of rusted copper.
- 81 Lucky Copper- May expend this charge to add 1d4 to any d20 roll before the outcome is revealed by the DM. Instead of the usual effects of expending a charm, it is replaced by Unlucky Copper when used. Appears to be an orb of rough copper, except for the draconic symbol for 1 carved into it.
- 82 Lucky Silver- May expend this charge to add 1d4 to any d20 roll before the outcome is revealed by the DM. Instead of the usual effects of expending a charm, it is replaced by Lucky Copper when used. Appears to be an orb of dull silver, except for the draconic symbol for 2 carved into it.
- 83 Lucky Gold- May expend this charge to add 1d6 to any d20 roll before the outcome is revealed by the DM. Instead of the usual effects of expending a charm, it is replaced by Lucky Silver when used. Appears to be an orb of shiny gold, except for the draconic symbol for 3 carved into it.
- 84 Iron Hide- AC increases by 1, but movement speed is halved and you cannot swim.
- 85 Lucky Coin- Once per day you can reroll a 1, and you must take the result. After using this, the next 20 you roll must be rerolled and you must take the result.
- 86 Sweet Heart- If you take an action in combat to eat a sweet food, you regain 1d4+1 hit points.
- 87 Sweet Horseshoe- You gain the ability to neigh like a horse. A successful DC 17 intelligence saving throw from a creature who cannot see you will reveal the true origin of the neigh to them.

d100 Charm + Affect

- 88 Sweet Comet- If you can see a shooting star, you can cast the Wish spell without using a spell slot. After you cast it, this charm disintegrates.
- 89 Sweet Clover- You can expend this charm to add a +1 bonus to any d20 roll.
- 90 Sweet Balloon- You can expend this charm to cast levitate on yourself without expending a spell slot. Shaped like a device from an unknown reality.
- 91 Sweet Rainbow- You can expend this charm to immediately know the location of the most valuable object within 30 feet.
- 92 Sweet Crescent- If you see something that is in direct moonlight, it will give off a blue glow if it is in any way magical.
- 93 Sweet Hourglass- As a free action, you can expend this charm to take 2 actions on your turn.
- 94 Holy Toast- It may just be coincidence, but the burn marks really look like your favorite god's symbol. +1 on religion checks. Can be consumed only once for 1d12 + 2 hp, after which the charm dissolves into burnt bread crumbs.
- 95 Raven Rock- You can expend this charm to summon a Raven under your command for up to a day. After the duration has ended or it reaches 0 hit points, the Raven turns into a puff of black smoke which rapidly dissipates.
- 96 Pact Stone- If you know Eldritch blast, it now deals 2d4+1 force damage per hit instead of 1d10.
- 97 Dark/Divine Nexus- Any radiant/necrotic damage you deal is necrotic/radiant damage instead.
- 98 Greedy Heart- Any time you receive a healing benefit, you regain an extra hit point. This charm cannot be removed when it is attached to a charm band.
- 99 Greedy Strength- You gain a +1 benefit to Strength (Athletics) checks. This charm cannot be removed when it is attached to a charm band.
- 100 Bloodcoil- You deal 1 extra damage on all melee attacks, but also take 1 damage when a melee attack hits.
