

German 326th Volksgrenadier Div.

December, 1944

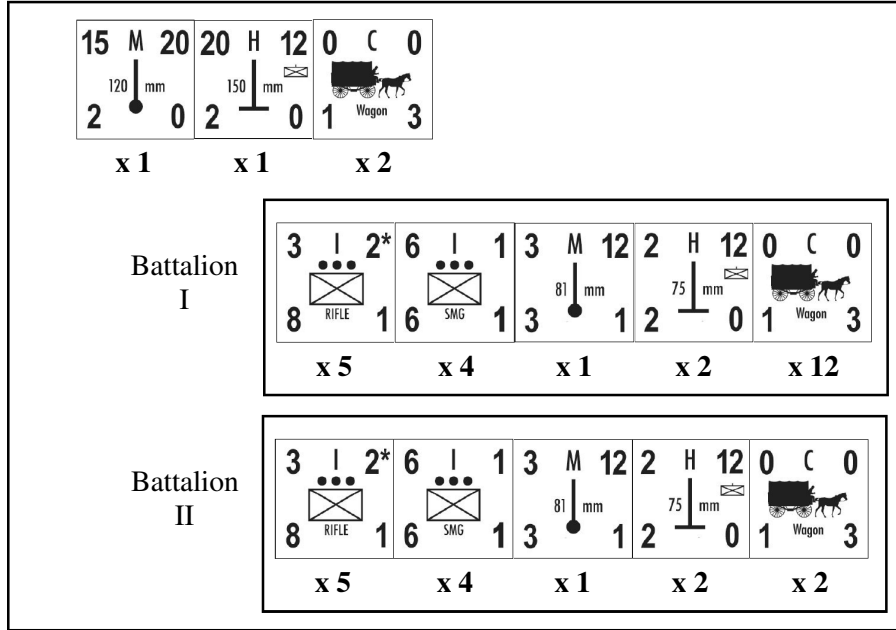

751st
Volks-
grenadier
Regiment

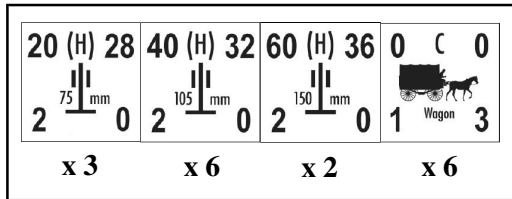

752nd
Volks-
grenadier
Regiment

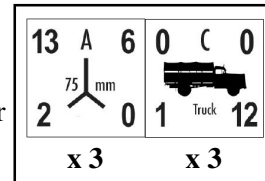

753rd
Volks-
grenadier
Regiment

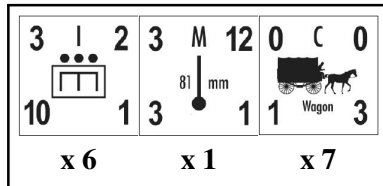

326th
Volks-
Artillerie
Regiment

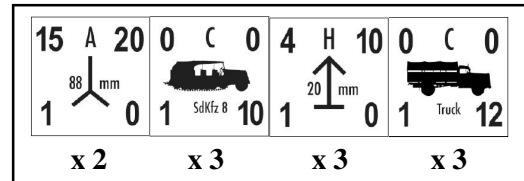

326th
Volks-
PanzerJäger
Battalion

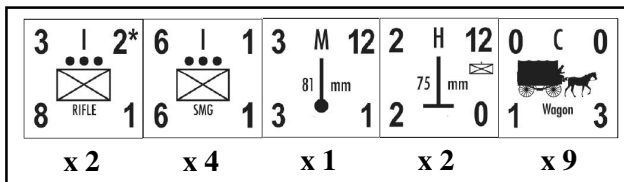

326th
Volks-
Pioneer
Battalion

326th
Volks-
Flak
Battalion

326th
Fusilier
Battalion

The 326th Volksgrenadier Division was supposed to support the Fifth Panzer Army on the Ardennes Offensive but, due to a shortage of horses to pull its artillery, remained in a largely static position south of Monschau for most of the battle. By January, the 326th had advanced to St. Vith but that was as far as it got before being forced back by the Allied counteroffensive.