

The REAL Dart - 5th Day of Life

FARWICK REGIME

OR: Farwick's Counter-Undead Plan

After a clearly a public and very targeted harassment and stigmatisation, Farwick has gone even further in accusing this scribe of the ridiculous notion of partnership with the Vndead. Had not this scribe fought at great personal cost against the Vndead on Blacklight Day? Had this scribe not brought to light suspicions of Sirrith activity from day one? Had not this scribe not laboured day and night to get to the truth known about of the Shadows? Why? Why target a scribe? Why put up such a large reward? The only answer can be that this is a sustained attempt to divert attention from the true issue. Darringmoor has been caught in a weak moment. Ripe for the overtaking of a new regime, heavily disguised as a force to counter the Vndead.

Farwick is a powerful and spellbinding speaker who has attracted a wide following of citizens who are afraid and desperate for hope. He has promised the disenchanting freedom from the shadow of Vndead.

Farwick is a powerful and spellbinding speaker who has attracted a wide following of citizens who are afraid and desperate for hope. He has promised the disenchanting freedom from the shadow of Vndead. But Farwick's rise to power has been rapid; far too rapid in my opinion. Before Sirrith's minions struck, he was practically unknown but now has been quickly introduced as our saviour. Who cannot forget the folly of recently accepting the Scarlet Sisterhood as our friends and allies? Who is to say that Farwick is not cut from the same cloth?

Am I the only one to see similarities to this - wake up citizens of Darringmoor and demand answers from your leaders! I am not afraid to ask these questions and you should also not be afraid.

Never forget that Gnomes make it happen.

Ellie Tinker.

Mysteries at Denhaven

You would have read in my hijacked broadsheet that our forces have won a great victory and have driven the Sardians from the walls of Denhaven. My correspondent from the Capitol has sent me her communique on the battle and there are a number of strange occurrences that she observed or recorded that need further investigation:

(a) How did the Elkian roth Heavy Foot manage to avoid the defensive lines south of Denhaven meant to intercept them?

(b) What truth is there to rumours that the Lord Kraan of Zarramoor was sighted in the city in the days before the attack on Denhaven?

(c) What was going on with the Legion of the Grey Wolf? They took no part in the attack on the city and it has been reported that they withdrew from the field halfway through the day.

Praises for the Supporters of Freedom!

I have been informed that over a hundred militia have turned in their 'eagles' at the gates to the Temple Mount. I salute you all! Stories have been reaching my ears of persecution taking place on some of those who wished to protest with, Farwick's bully-boys finding excuses to imprison good citizens on trumped up charges for minor offenses.

I implore you to keep the spirit of freedom burning for the Free Scribes of Darringmoor and strike a blow against Farwick by painting the following slogan on walls about the city:

Make It Happen!
