INTRODUCTION

This packaged scenario uses the rules of RUNEQUEST! With it, RUNEQUEST! players can sample the ruined city of Pavis on the Plains of Prax, 1610 years after the birth of Time.

A player can play the scenario solitaire by taking a group of his characters into the adventure and playing against the key. Alternatively, a player can act as Referee, using or changing the encounters as he sees fit, while other players form the band of foolhardy Adventurers risking death or dismemberment for loot and glory.

Those wishing to do solitaire runs should read this Introduction and the Background to the scenario, set up their characters, and read the room descriptions as they run into them on the map. A player Refereeing an adventure should familiarize himself with the map and room descriptions first, adding or changing what he desires.

Besides this book, players will need a copy of RUNEQUEST! and the various dice noted in Chapter I.

Note (1): Balastor's Axe is not keyed to any particular room. If playing solitaire, the player can attempt to make a 01-05 roll on d100 for each room entered. The first room in which a successful roll occurs is the room with the Axe. Important: someone with a 120% Hiding Skill hid the Axe. Subtract 20% from the character's Spot Hidden ability before determining if the Axe is found. Referees, of course, may put the Axe where they wish.

Note (2): When Adventurers are slaughtered or run screaming, the Monsters get experience rolls too.

This book is the primary creation of Steve Henderson, with help from Warren James and Steve Perrin. This adventure is tough. Beginning players should walk easy and be ready to run!

Good luck and have fun,

Steve Henderson

BACKGROUND

Past History

Twelve hundred and fifty years after the beginning of Time, the great walled city of Pavis lay under seige. The Pure Horse dynasty rulers, hanging onto their heritage from Pavis himself, were encircled by the forces of Gerak Kag, King of the Trolls.

Foremost among the embattled defenders was Balastor Brightaxe, Rune Lord and High Priest of the Cult of Pavis. At Joran's Breach he fought for three days and nights, but the fierce troll guards and the magic of the Dark Priests drove him back, though men and spirits died in droves in the struggle.

Falling back, Balastor rallied at the Gryphon Barracks with the remnants of his Earth Axe regiment. For another week they fought, holding the Gryphon Gate area and allowing the escape from the city of many of the Pure Horse peoples, who then began the trek eventually to Dragon Pass.

Surrounded and overrun, Balastor finally fell. A few remaining men bore him to the underground barracks area. As he died, he called on his patron Pavis for divine intervention. Pavis responded. The spirit which had occupied his steel Axe departed, and Balastor's spirit replaced it within the Axe.

Balastor's few companions hid the Axe within the barracks and then died to a man when the trolls poured down the staircase. The resting place of the Axe is unknown.

Current Situation

Now, 360 years later, Pavis is occupied again. The Lunar Empire, after sacking Boldhome, the capital of Sartar, has moved into the Plains of Prax. The Bison and Impala people have been smashed by the invasion force. With little choice the residents of New Pavis (built outside the cyclopean walls of the ancient ruined city) have opened their gates to the invader.

The legend of Balastor's Axe is well-known in New Pavis. The Imperials, wishing to wed their goddess to such a symbol of the spiritual life of Pavis, are outfitting an expedition to recover it. It also is rumored that the Sartar Exile Army, led by a Weapons Master named Argath (who claims some relationship to the former ruling house of Sartar) is also attempting to obtain the weapon as a symbol of the independence of Pavis.

A large number of trolls are in the area. Other creatures have been seen, including wyrms and giants. Obtaining the Axe will not be easy, but the Adventurers recovering it could write their own ticket!

BALASTOR'S AXE

Within the Axe is the spirit of Balastor, Rune Lord and High Priest of Pavis.

A Rune Lord or Rune Priest of the Pavis Cult (an Earth Rune cult) who picks up the Axe immediately attempts to ally the spirit of Balastor. If unsuccessful, or if the character already is allied, the Axe will be quiet and simply demand to be taken to the Temple, where another can ally it.

If a non-Rune person makes hand-to-weapon contact with it, there is immediate Spirit Combat. Balastor will try to take over the body of the victim, so as to live again. If unsuccessful after one minute (five melee turns) the spirit of Balastor retreats to the Axe and demands to be taken to the Temple of Pavis. If successful, he will possess the unfortunate character, substituting his Intelligence and Power for that of the character.

Balastor then will single-mindedly work for the revival and glory of Old Pavis. He will hate trolls and animal nomads. Otherwise he will be reasonable. Oh, yes--he will also try to take over the Cult of Pavis as it now exists.

If picked up with rope or a cloak or some such strategem, the Axe will go quietly.

● ROOM 1. Three Skeletons.

An old guardroom, fairly open and empty of furniture, holding only some over-turned racks for weapons and armor. Against the west wall stand three skeletons, who will attack anything entering the room. They all will attack the first person to enter the room, and will attack until he is dead. They will then attack the second person to enter, and so on, until all who enter (or all the skeletons) are destroyed.

Skeletons are fragile. Any blow penetrating their armor destroys the section of the body hit. Aside from the weapons and armor that the skeletons carry, the room is empty of worth.

● ROOM 2.

A long-unused latrine. On the south wall are broken and splintered toilet stalls and seats. Corroded tubs and cisterns for washing stand along the east wall. There is nothing of worth in the room.

● ROOM 3.

An old guardroom. At one time someone or something used it, since there are scattered pieces of refuse about, a pile of moldy sleeping skins in the northeast corner, and a firepit in the southwest corner. In the firepit are long-cold ashes, charred bone fragments, and a very good gemstone worth 828 Lunars. The gemstone will be found only by a careful search of the pit with a successful roll of the Spot Hidden Items skill.

● ROOM 4. Three Snakes.

Old forge and armor repair shop. There are a number of tools scattered about and some larger pieces of equipment still in place. Old ventilation tunnels lead through the west wall.

The three snakes cannot be surprised. They detect every party by the vibrations of the floor. They will not actively seek combat, but if the party searches the room they will be attacked by the snakes.

The only item of value in the room is a hammer that is a matrix for the battle magic spell of Repair. It lies on the floor among the litter.

● ROOM 5.

A room littered with more trash and dirt, along with remains of desks and tables. A thorough search of the room will turn up a scroll containing the songs and ballads of the army of Greater Pavis. The Library of Pavis will pay 500 Lunars for this scroll.

● ROOM 6.

A large room full of ashes and charred pieces of wood. Nothing in the room is of value.

● ROOM 7. Three Ghosts.

An ancient storeroom the walls of which are piled with bags of long-rotted grain. Broken bottles cover the floor, along with overturned kegs and remnants of smashed chests. Within the room hover three ghosts. Invisible, they will not warn anyone before attacking.

GHOST 1	GHOST 2	GHOST 3	The ghosts are bound to the room and cannot leave it. Characters can retreat from combat with them.

Ghosts fight strictly Power against Power. Both sides roll their attacks and, if successful, remove power from their opponent as follows:

Should the characters attempt to break through into ROOM 8, they will find the door bolted against them. The door requires three good slams with an improvised battering ram to break it down. Material for the ram can be found in ROOM 7.

● ROOM 8. Six Zombies.

An old barracks room, fitted out in once-comfortable style. The north and south walls each have three niches cut into them for beds. Rotten hangings cover the niches and a successful Spot Hidden Items roll for a character will allow him to notice that each niche holds a body. The bodies are zombies.

The zombies all will move to attack if any of them are attacked in any way, including magically. They will pursue into ROOM 7, but not beyond that.

● ROOM 9. Basilisk and Bat Familiar.

This room is Warded with a two-point Warding spell. The spell causes any entering the area to take a double-strength Disruption spell. It also will function as a two-point Countermagic spell against any magic being thrown into the area. The spell also sets up a loud keening noise fit to wake the dead (see the inhabitants of ROOM 10).

Benches and worktables with various gear set up on them fill the room. In the southeast corner stands a large metal cage with a Basilisk in it. The cage is large enough that only spears or missile weapons can reach the creature. Subtract 25% for all missile fire against the creature due to the bars of the cage.

Hanging from beneath one of the benches is a familiar in the form of a bat. It can be seen only by a successful Spot Hidden Items roll. It will use magic against the party and alert its master in ROOM 10.

● ROOM 10. Two Vampires.

A chill bare room, empty except for two heavy bronze coffins bound with iron. One is against the north wall and one against the south wall. The west wall holds bookshelves piled with scrolls, all esoteric essays on the nature of the world. The scrolls have a total worth of 780 Lunars if sold to the Lunar authorities, and 500 Lunars plus gratitude if sold to the Pavis Library. In the coffins lay the only inhabitants of the room. Jordak is against the north wall and Blodanga is against the south wall. Both vampires are human. Jordak is male; Blodanga is female.

There is a hidden compartment in the rear of the room, constructed with a skill of 115%; take 15% off the Spot Hidden Items roll necessary to find it.

Within the compartment is a spring-loaded mechanism that hurls a dagger with great force for 2d6 damage. The blade, coated with level 20 Blade Venom, will hit anyone standing directly in front of the compartment. The compartment also contains the wealth of Jordak and Blodanga. There are 328 Wheels, 1496 Lunars, and 428 Clacks. There are also the following items: one diamond worth 1000 Lunars, an emerald worth 10,000 Lunars, and an opal and silver bracelet worth 948 Lunars. The diamond, to a Detect Magic spell, will turn out to be magical. It is a 5-point Sensitivity crystal.

● Room 11. Gorp.

A huge room, once used as a drilling and practice field by the troops. Torches do not penetrate far into the inky blackness. Piles of bones, rubble, and other noise-producing trash litter the floor. From the northwest corner come low, rumbling snores. The wall enclosing ROOM 12 is crudely built of massive boulders. In the northeast corner of ROOM 11 is a small Gorp. It rests beneath and among a pile of bones.

Gorp attacks by moving next to a victim during the movement phase. If the victim fails a Dexterity x 5% roll, the Gorp has enveloped it. If the victim still can move after the first round of acid attack, they may try a second dexterity roll. Gorp eats away armor before it gets to flesh. It is immune to acid and weapons. Only fire or magic kills Gorp. When weapons pass through Gorp, they take damage from it.

● ROOM 12. A Giant.

This filthy room smells of sweat, spilled beer, and rotting flesh. Bones and old refuse lay on the floor. In the northwest corner are the carcasses of three oxen, several days overripe. Along the east wall is a pile of rotting skins on which the giant Cragclimber sleeps. He will awake to any large amount of noise in ROOM 11. Cragclimber is not hungry just now and will not attack the party, if not attacked first, in return for a bribe of 100 Lunars or one of the humans to eat later. Continued bargaining or questioning of him, however, will annoy him and he will then attack.

He speaks Giant, Pavic Tradetalk, and Darktongue. On a heavy leather pouch hung from his belt is his treasure. He has 156 Clacks, 178 Lunars, 9 Wheels, and 9 gemstones. Careful evaluation will prove the gemstones to be worthless pretty rocks.

NOTE: the following ROOMS 13-19 are inhabited by creatures of Chaos. A list of the creatures in the rooms is given in the following pages. Place them scattered through the area as you desire. It is also possible that a party attacking the area would be taken in the rear by a returning group of Broos. Immediately below is a description of each individual ROOM.

● ROOM 13.

Guardroom for the Broos. There is considerable trash on the floor, but not enough to impede progress. A small rubble wall has been built just in front of the door to delay entry. In the southwest corner is a crude, strongly built cage with a small Dragon Snail in it. The Broos on guard will release the Snail if things go bad for them in a fight.

Living quarters for Highowler, shaman of the Broos. There has been a crude attempt to show the magnificence of Highowler. The walls are hung with stained tapestries and half-cured skins cover the floor. In the northwest corner is a large bronze-bound chest.

In the chest are 1381 Clacks, 328 Lunars, 48 Wheels, and a single diamond worth 1389 Lunars. There also are three jugs of liquid: Jug One - three doses of battle magic spell Mobility; Jug Two - seven doses of 3-point Healing; Jug Three - two doses of Wasting Disease (this disease will start in the acute form and, if a character does not make his hit point % roll at the end of one hour, it will move to the Terminal form of the disease).

● ROOM 16.

This room contains the altar of the Broos. By the south wall is a large stone slab with manicles on it. The slab is heavily bloodstained. Behind and above the slab is a crude woodcarving of a horned demonic creature.

The altar furnishings include a large golden chalice. It is worth 10 Wheels in gold, but careful appraisal will show that it is the chalice stolen from the Pavis Sundome Temple four years before. The Temple offers a reward of 500 Lunars for its return. The only other item of value is a dagger that is a matrix for Bladesharp 3.

● ROOM 17.

Barracks room for the Scorpion Men. Generally littered with trash and refuse, the northeast corner additionally has been used as a latrine by them and is really foul.

● ROOM 18.

General gathering room for the Broos and Scorpion Men. There is a crude kitchen arrangement in the northeast corner and supplies are stacked in the northwest corner. Overall the room is less littered and filthy than most of the others in the section.

● ROOM 19.

Sleeping quarters for the Broos and Forkang the Ogre. Rough bunks line the walls, with general junk and gear scattered across the floor.

Windwhistler talks and barterers with adventurers. He will meet a party at the door and exchange information for money. He will not let anyone in the room with him. If attacked he retreats into the room and takes to the air, floating at about 20 feet above the floor and striking down at individual opponents. He will generally try first for any archers in the party. If he severs an opponent's arm, leg, or head, he swallows it and it is gone.

Treasure is piled in the northeast corner. It includes seven broadswords, one iron spear, 3546 Lunars, 41 Wheels, 7236 Clacks, and jewelry as follows:

- a very good gemstone - 528 Lunars
  - a pretty stone - valueless*
  - a flawed gemstone - 128 Lunars
  - some very good jewelry - 145 Lunars
  - some costume jewelry - 75 Lunars
  - a good gemstone - 194 Lunars
  - more very good jewelry - 1116 Lunars
  - an excellent gemstone - 900 Lunars
- * this stone is a 2-point Healing Focusing crystal detectable only by Detect Magic.

● ROOM 21.

An old latrine. The west side of the barracks was used for this purpose. It has been broken, charred, and destroyed, and any odors there fled long ago.

● ROOM 22. Four Ghosts.

A Temple anteroom, it has hooks on the north wall from which to hang clothing, and large tubs for ritual bathing and cleansing of worshippers. Within the room, invisible, are four ghosts. They will warn anyone not of the Death Rune Cult of Humkt to go away. If ignored, they will attack.

Ghost Three will attempt to possess a character. If successful, it will attempt to carry out a successful deception and escape with the character's body.

Combat with ghosts is on a straight power vs. power basis. Both sides roll their attacks and, if successful, remove power from their opponent as follows:

die roll	power loss
01-10	3 points
11-40	2 points
41-00	1 point

● ROOM 23. Six Zombies.

The hall of worship for the cult of Humkt holds regular lines of low benches across the width of the hall. The benches are old and dust-covered, and nothing seems to have entered the room in a very long time. Along the north and south walls stand three figures each in armor with long spears. The figures are motionless.

They are zombies. They will not attack unless attacked or unless someone not of the cult of Humkt attempts to enter ROOM 24. They will attempt to kill only those who attack them or who try to enter ROOM 24.

● ROOM 24. A Spirit.

This ROOM is the Inner Temple, where especially holy ceremonies were held. Black velvet, now musty and dirt-covered, hangs on the walls. The floor is paved with obsidian, polished smooth and inlaid with a single gold sword running east to west the whole width of the room.

Within the room dwells the powerful spirit Ironarm, a servant of the god Humkt. The spirit will attempt to possess anyone not of the Humkt Cult who enters the door. It will then attack the other members of the possessed one's party. If the possessed character is killed, it will then attempt to possess another, and so on.

All Rune Magic spells are as described in Chapter VII of RUNEQUEST! Sever Spirit is like unto the gaze of a Basilisk. If the user's power overcomes the character's power, the character dies. If unsuccessful, the victime still takes 1d6 directly to his Hit Points.

● ROOM 25.

The Holy Room of the Temple, only priests were allowed here when the Temple was in use. Along the west wall stand the dusty remains of an altar to Humkt-who-bore-the-first-sword. Behind the altar exists a hidden door. Temple treasures rest in the compartment it covers, including religious ornaments worth 2500 Lunars on the open market. If returned to the Temple of Humkt in Pavis, however, the Temple will give the returnee free training in every fighting-oriented skill he has, for a total of 10% per skill. The items below are not included as religious ornaments: they are the ultimate treasures of the Temple.

A GOLD SWORD - The holy sword of the Temple, worth 100 Wheels in gold if melted down, but the Temple of Humkt in New Pavis will pay 10,000 Lunars for its return to them. If kept, it will in and of itself serve as a holy place for attracting spirits for anyone. If a character keeps the sword, it should be kept in secret, for the cult of Humkt takes vengeance on anyone having one of their sacred swords.

AN IRON SWORD - Of Dwarvish make, it was a trophy of the regiment, gained in a victory over a Dwarvish army. It is now untempered, but it is very well made. Examination will show that it is also a matrix for Bladesharp-4 and Fireblade. If tempered again, it will be a valuable weapon for a Runelord.

A LEAD CLUB - Another battle trophy, of Troll make. A relic of the Troll hero Orzanak, this club is very important to the cult of Kyger Litor. The Kyger Litor cult Temple in Pavis will pay 10,000 Lunars for its return to them. Of course they cannot come up with that kind of money immediately, and would much prefer to take it from a non-Troll's dead body. The club will serve as a matrix for Bludgeon-3 and Coordination.

NOTE: the following rooms are inhabited by Trolls. A list of the Dark Troll, Great Troll, Cave Troll, and Trollkin dwellers comes after these room descriptions. Scatter these denizens through the area as you desire. Trollkins normally do sentry duty, as they are much the lowest on the social scale.

● ROOM 26.

The guardroom for the Trolls. They have scattered some wooden benches around and built a low wooden barricade across the mouth of each alcove leading out into the hallway.

● ROOM 27.

The armory and storage room. On the north walls are racked various crude weapons, mainly clubs and spears with fire-hardened tips. There also are two bronze short-swords, somewhat damaged from combat. Against the south wall lay bags of various foods as well as other supplies such as oil and torches.

● ROOM 28.

Mess hall and dining area. It is comparatively clean, but tables and benches are strewn haphazardly.

● ROOM 29.

The kitchen. Bags of food and supplies also are stored here. Cooking occurs in the north half of the room, with the south half given over to brewing --there are several kegs of beer there and equipment for making much more. The beer is cheap and does not taste good.

● ROOM 30.

Barracks room for Trollkin. Crudely built bunks piled with sleeping skins line the west wall. There is clutter around the bunks, but the rest of the room is clean.

● ROOM 31.

General common room for the Trolls. Many tables, chairs, benches, and other items fill the room.

● ROOM 32.

Latrine, as in the old days, but the Trolls have cleaned out the old pits and are re-using them. Here is stored the Troll treasure: in the pits, well-covered. Three heavy bronze chests contain the Troll wealth.

CHEST ONE - 1382 Lunars, 42 Wheels.

CHEST TWO - 138 Wheels, one jug with three doses of Power Blasting (1d6 potency), and three matched emeralds each worth 300 Lunars.

CHEST THREE - 361 Lunars, 28 Wheels, one ruby and opal bracelet worth 18,365 Lunars, and three scrolls.

Scroll One: a secret technique scroll written in Auld Wurmish. Reading it and practicing with it advances the character using it 15% in the use of an Epee. It requires one month of practice.

Scroll Two: a general map of all areas of the barracks except for ROOMs 8-10 and 23-25.

Scroll Three: a letter of credit for 15,000 Lunars drawn on the Temple of Kyger Litor in Pavis. It is signed and sealed with a round black circle pierced with a gold sword. (Referee Note: the scroll is a trap. Presenting it to the Temple gives notice that you have killed and robbed Trolls. The Temple inherits the money if it kills the bearer of the note.)

● ROOM 33.

Barracks room for Great Trolls and Cave Trolls. Rough, crude furnishings, made of massive wood.

● ROOM 34.

Barracks room for Dark Trolls. The furniture is better made and generally more costly than that in ROOM 33.

● ROOM 35.

Storage room for valuable loot, including non-preishable foods and several kegs of good beer and ale. A major item is 3000 Lunars worth of baled cloth redeemable in Pavis.

BALASTOR'S BARRACKS

Beneath the ruins of Old Pavis, treasure glitters and the spirit of Balastor Brightaxe, last defender of the Pure Horse dynasty, impatiently lingers. There waits as well a host of powerful and brutal creatures determined to make your expedition a one-way trip. Adventurers will need all their cunning to emerge victorious, or emerge at all....

This complete RUNEQUEST! adventure includes historical background, area and barracks maps, room-by-room descriptions, and a cast of more than 60 different denizens of darkness. Made for game Referees, solitaire role-players will also find this expedition an absorbing one.

This book is based entirely upon the role-playing game RUNEQUEST! You must have that rulesbook to use this adventure.
