RANDOM ALIENS!

HYPERSPACE MESSENGER

The Hyperspace Messenger™ is a series of very short supplements for the White Star™ role-playing game. The goal is to create quality usable content which can be completely explored within the scope of only six-to-twelve pages. Although this is only the first supplement in the series, we at Dwd Studios hope to release additional supplements in the years to come.

Although this supplement is designed to integrate to your White Star™ game, its concepts are fairly universal and you can, with very little effort, modify it for use in other games as well.

Space is vast and your characters are likely to run into many aliens out there. Are they going to be your friend? Shoot you in the face? Who knows? But more importantly, what are YOU going to do to IT?

The White Star core rulebook provides guidelines for playing a few types of aliens, and there seems to be no shortage of supplements shared on the net giving options for more. This supplement offers an alternative: random aliens!

The concept came to us while discussing aliens in various role-playing games, including classics like Traveller and Star Frontiers, but what really got us thinking was the Star Wars d6 RPG. The idea in that setting is that space is huge and the number of potential alien species so vast that it would be silly to try to list them all. So instead they stat out only those we've seen in movies or read in books and leave the rest up to the imaginations of the players.

This small supplement for the White Star role-playing game provides a simple step-by-step process to create a random alien species. This can be used by players if the Referee permits to create a random alien to play in a campaign, or might be used by the Referee himself in order to generate a series of aliens for use in his setting. At its core this supplement is a series of tables. It is up to the creativity of the players and Referee to help flesh out the results of these table rolls to make a believable race with a culture all its own.

For example, if you rolled 3 your race is "Medium" sized. You then roll 2d10 which results in 12. Therefore your alien averages 5 ft 10 in (4 ft 10 in + 12 in) and has an average weight of 180 lbs (120 + 12x5 lbs).

5-6	Mostly humanoid. Some very obvious differences, such as different hand, arm, or leg configurations, placement of head, length of neck, etc. Nobody will mistake the alien for human, but the alien can use equipment designed for humans without penalty.	0
7	Barely humanoid. The alien's posture doesn't even appear humanoid. The shape of hands, face, arms and legs are very alien. The species normally has to use equipment designed specifically for it. If forced to use equipment designed for human hands, he suffers a -1 penalty to its use (ability checks, To-Hit rolls, etc.)	-100
8	Totally alien. The alien appears to be a totally different strange shape, at least to a human onlooker. Maybe an amorphous blob or a strange insectoid, etc. It's difficult for this species to even sit in human-made chairs. It has a body shape and function that requires special equipment, clothing, armor, and technology. If forced to try to use a piece of technology made for humans, the alien suffers a -2 penalty to all rolls.	-200

Step 15: Special Abilities

Some aliens also possess other special abilities. If your XP Value total up to now is 1800 or less, your class is permitted the full 10 levels of experience. If greater than 1800, your alien class will only be permitted to attain 8 levels of experience.

You may roll on the Special Abilities table up to 4 times. If being totally random, roll 1d4 to determine how many times. Each time you roll, add 200 to your XP Value and reduce the maximum level your alien class may attain by 1.

For instance, if your total XP Value so far is 2200, then your class only goes to 8th level. If you roll on this table twice, your class may only reach 6th level and your XP Value becomes 2600.

Step 16: Final Touches

The “XP Value” total is how many XP are required to reach the 2nd level of experience. Each level after that is double the cost of the previous level. Put it all in class description format and try to describe all this randomness into a cohesive and playable alien character class.

GET CREATIVE These tables are going to give you some flesh and bones, but it’s up to you to add the meat. Don’t feel too restricted by these tables either, they’re not here to box in your imagination, they’re all here to encourage it. You might get results you didn’t expect and it might take you in a totally different direction than you planned. But then again, you can also use these tables as menus from which you build whatever alien species you choose.

ILLUSTRATIONS An alien needs to spur your imagination, and they say a picture is worth a thousand words. If you lack the artistic talent to illustrate the alien yourself, turn to the web: there are many great artists on Google+ and DeviantArt.net willing and able to produce great illustrations for reasonable rates. The illustrations in this supplement were drawn by Khairul Hisham at hishgraphics.com... start there if you wish!

SHARE This product is covered under OGL and therefore you should feel not only permitted, but encouraged to share what you build with the rest of the world. There is an active community on Google+ that shares such content, and it’s a constant flow of great stuff!

Examples

The aliens on the following pages were built using the system presented in this supplement. Feel free to use them in your games or view them as examples of the way this supplement can be used to generate fun playable results.

MAERANN

Maerann are tall graceful bipeds covered in soft hairless skin. They are mostly tan, with a darkened pink series of stripes along their torsos. Their large eyes are intensely colored. Maerann stand 7 ft 3 in tall and weigh around 210 pounds. Their expected lifespan is only 29 years, and they try to live those years to the fullest. They reproduce sexually, and create litters of 2-8 live young. Their home world is mostly water with fifteen large sprawling city states built into rock outcroppings. They are not primitive, but had they not interacted with other species it would have taken another century to develop FTL drives. Scientists believe these aliens were once amphibious and lost use of their torso gills as they evolved to live on the islands away from water predators. Markings along their torsos support this, but are nothing more than cosmetic today.

WEAPON/ARMOR RESTRICTIONS: Maerann pass fighting styles on generationally and some legal matters are still settled by combat. They may use a dagger, laser pistol, or spear. Light Armor and shields are permitted.

SAVING THROWS: Maerann have +2 on Saving Throws against poison and sonic effects.

HISHAM

SENSES: Their large eyes give +1 to any checks related to vision. Their ears are not ideal for directional hearing, -1 to any checks related to hearing.

CLINGING: Maerann flesh has microscopic soft hairs allowing it to cling to surfaces and move normally, like a gecko or spider. On their home world they build their cities on mountain islands and use this form of transportation as commonly as humans walk.

HYPNOTIC VOICE: Maerann have an amazingly soothing yet powerful voice. This gives them a +1 bonus to their Charisma scores (max 18). Once per day, they may use their voice in such a manner as to cause a Charm Person effect (as per the Meditation) on one victim. Onlookers will know the Maerann used its ability, but not the victim.

WATERBORN: Maerann receive a +1 to all checks while in the water and can swim at a speed of 9. They have fins on their forearms and lower legs and prefer to wear clothing that won't restrict those fins, even when not near water.

LEVEL	XP	HD	BHB	ST

SINDARAN

Sindarans are a light-brown rubbery-skinned alien standing near 5'9" and weighing around 165 pounds. They appear lumbering and lazy, but have an alertness to their eyes that contradicts that fact. They have prehensile tentacle arms ending in unusual hands containing four thumb-like fingers which close around a central finger, which is an extension of their arms. Their feet contain a mass of seemingly random tentacles, which defy shoe designers. They are mostly bipedal but have a long tail ending in a hand, which can be used in all ways like a normal hand. The Sindaran home world is filled with amazing technologies and very accurate holograms, which they culturally enjoy. It has slightly elevated levels of radiation, but they've developed protection against it. They have a pleasant odor some find similar to fresh-baked bread. Their lifespan is 83 years to the average, and they are all genderless. Around midlife they lay eggs (usually 1, but rarely 2 or none) which are self-fertilized.

WEAPON/ARMOR RESTRICTIONS: Sindarans are not generally violent, but may use clubs, daggers, firearms, grenades, laser pistols, mono-daggers, mono-swords, staffs, and swords. They may wear light armor and may use shields.

SAVING THROWS: +2 on Saving Throws against radiation and illusions or holograms.

SENSES: Sindaran noses are long and move around when they speak. They are not as well suited for smelling as a human and they have -1 to any checks related to smell.

HIGH TECH: This race is highly intelligent (+1 to rolled score, max 18)) and well-educated engineers. They get +2 on any roll to use tool kits to repair or engineer things.

RUBBERY: Sindarans have coarse dense skin strengthened by networks of small muscles (-1 to rolled Strength), most versatile around the upper torso. They may absorb and grow different number of pairs of tentacles. A Sindaran may have 2, 4, or even 6 tentacles, depending on work needs, and can adjust the number of tentacles once per day. They still have a primary limb, but can do things humans can do with their off-hand with all other tentacled arms/hands.

ALIEN SHAPE: Sindaran are unusual shaped and they prefer gear designed for them. When forced to use other equipment, they suffer a -1 penalty to any rolls.

XIN-XIN

Xin-Xin are a petite race of humanoids standing 5' tall and weighing only 130 lbs. They typically live over 150 years and reproduce sexually, giving birth to live young. Unlike most human cultures, they do not choose mates for life, but for the moment, and pairing for life is reserved only for the elderly who settle down for financial purposes. Xin-xin have long membrane "manes" growing from their necks and shoulders which resemble capes. They have growths from the backs of their hands which are long and hard like fingernails, which they call their "spikes." Both spikes and manes must be trimmed regularly. The small but mighty Xin-xin come from a home world which is mostly an urban sprawl. Violent crimes there have forged them into formidable warriors. They tend to talk in street jargon and lack eloquence, but make up for it with their moxy. Though slight of build, their speed and violent street-level upbringing makes them hold their own even against the largest of alien brutes.

WEAPON/ARMOR RESTRICTIONS: Xin-xin can use swords, firearms, and laser pistols. They may wear light armor but may not use shields. At higher levels, they tend to prefer no armor at all.

SAVING THROWS: +2 on Saving Throws against falling damage and stun effects.

STREET SAVVY: Xin-xin are comfortable in an urban setting and receive a +1 bonus to all rolls while in cities and alleys.

MANE: The Xin-xin's long cape-like membrane can be grabbed with free hands and used to glide (even steer), as long as gravity and atmospheric pressure permits. As teens, they like to base jump off tall buildings and perform stunts. As the Xin-xin gains levels, they learn to use their manes in combat as a form of shield and distraction, which allows them (if unarmored) to improve their AC by an amount equal to their Base Hit Bonus.

SPIKE: Although able to use weapons, Xin-xin prefer to fight with their spikes. These cause 1d6 damage.

QUICK: Xin-xin characters receive a bonus of +1 to their rolled Dexterity scores (max 18). Their fighting styles focus on quickness, speed, and accuracy over brutality.

AMIRI

Amiri are a peaceful race of explorers and scientists native to a humid swamp world. They stand 3 ft 2 in and weigh 54 lbs. They are akin to plants in that their bodies are constructed of a mesh of fibrous flesh, ranging from brown to red. They live 92 years and begin life a neutral gender. At some point, most choose to reproduce by cellular division (budding). Their shape is quite alien; they have a many-muscled mouth on the top of their heads facing upwards, from which they may create beautiful deep bass music and song. They have two tentacle arms ending in dextrous hands with only three fingers, and move around on a multitude of small tentaclepods.

WEAPON/ARMOR RESTRICTIONS: The Amiri never developed their technology for war and only use primitive weapons if driven to fight. They may wear light armor but may not use shields.

SAVING THROWS: +2 on Saving Throws against electrical attacks and Meditations.

SWAMP DWELLERS: Amiri receive a +1 bonus to all rolls while in a bog, marsh, or swamp.

ADVANCED MINDS: All Amiri have +1 to their Intelligence and Wisdom scores (max 18).

CRYSTALS: Amiri have no eyes or ears, but grow three crystals in their torsos. The center one vibrates while the others sense vibration, creating an active sonar giving them 360 degree "sight." They can even perceive color and texture. The center crystal's vibration can be varied and can produce wavelengths in the audible or visible spectrum (like a flashlight), while the side-crystal receivers can sense radio waves. They can tune-in to a radio-wave comms signal with a 2 in 6 chance of success, though they consider this a breach of privacy.

GROUP HARMONY: The Amiri's crystals harmonize onto a common wavelength when within 100 ft of one another, which create a type of shared mind. They may communicate freely with one another through this link and peruse one another's memories. They tend to avoid memory-searching, though, and value privacy and individuality above all other ideals. Amiri in possession of sensitive knowledge are licensed to wear inhibitor harnesses which prevent this type of synchronization.

ALIEN SHAPE: Amiri are very unusual shaped and they prefer gear designed for them. When forced to use other equipment, they suffer a -2 penalty to any rolls.

LAVOTHIAN

Lavothians are big and blue. They are basically bipeds with large feet, hands, and heads. They have four eyes and unusual mouths with a split lower jaw. They have a large bony ridge which frames in their great heads. Most of their flesh is thick and coarse, though feathers grow naturally from their forearms and head ridges. They stand 7'6" tall and weigh 240 lbs. They live 65 years and have two genders. They mate for life and give birth to live young, though their fertility cycle is twelve years (they traditionally wed during a fertility cycle and celebrate both together every twelve years). They live in great clan houses with many generations. They are deeply spiritual warriors and bards who evolved on a world with three other intelligent species, all of which now extinct. Their songs tell tales of their ancestors culling their homeworld of the weaker species. Many Lavothians go on lifequests, a time filled with wanderlust, where they travel the galaxy to make names for themselves and bring honor to their clans.

WEAPON/ARMOR RESTRICTIONS: No restrictions on weapons, armor, or shields. They train with all forms of combat and destruction.

SAVING THROWS: +2 on Saving Throws against poison and stun effects.

SENSES: Lavothian's lower pair of eyes see in the infra-red spectrum. They blink alternatingly closing their top and bottom pairs of eyes and their brains merge the two into a keen sense of color and heat patterns.

BATTLESONG: When a Lavothian enters combat and sing songs of ancestors, they work themselves into a rage. Each round there is a 1 in 6 chance that the rage will begin. Once raged, melee combat is the only option and the alien gets +2 to hit and damage. It requires a saving throw to end the battlesong before enemies are dead.

REGENERATION: Lavothians heal 1 hit point every turn (ten rounds).

COMMUNE WITH ANCESTORS: A Lavothian can enter a trance once per session and ask the Referee any one yes/no question about the story, which must be answered truthfully.

ALIEN SHAPE: Lavothians are very unusual shaped and they prefer gear designed for them. When forced to use other equipment, they suffer a -2 penalty to any rolls.
