Verity Squires

Magic-user, Human, Female

Description: Verity is the 'Sage of Horticultural Lore' for The Gardeners of Walshale. Verity is a pretty, slim, 5'-6" tall blonde-haired woman in her late twenties. She wears a grey hooded mantle, edged with embroidery and finely made clothing that is a little worn. She hides her arcane ways as much as possible, favouring discreet protective magics rather than offensive castings, which she always has ready. She has a tattoo of a thorned bramble winding up her left leg - this was apparently 'all the rage' amongst her friendship group in her late teenage years.

Silas Fairbarn

Witchfinder, Human, Male

Description: Silas is the 'Smeller of Witchly Garden Diseases' for The Gardeners of Walshale. Silas stands 5'-8" tall and is 35 years old. His hair is black, as is his silver-buttoned jacket. He wears a wide-brimmed, capotain hat, but with a single, silver buckle in the band around the base. A small, worn, old book hangs from a chain around his neck. This is his book of protections against devilry. In combat and dangerous situations, Silas typically holds a lantern in one hand and his long sword in the other. This longsword is inscribed down the one side of the blade with passages from a witchfinders book which tell of a witchfinder's unyielding power over devils and demons.

Broggel of Yawmouth

Tasker, Hook-nosed Wart Goblin,
Male

Description: Broggel is the 'Potter, and Soilshifter' for The Gardeners of Walshale. He is a touch over 4 feet tall. His skin is russet-coloured and his nose runs almost constantly. He wears no armour, favouring bare skin to proudly show off his prodigious girth, which he sticks out and rubs when he feels the need to impress. He does wear a loin cloth hidden underneath his sagging belly. He bears a bronze necklace with gold ring suspended on it. The ring is worthless, but Broggel believes it contains the essence of an ancestor that looks after him, sending him visions in his sleep. He is missing a finger on one hand which was bitten off by a dog many years ago.
