

She's Gonna Blow!

Adventure Concept

Scientists near Rykon believe a volcano is about to erupt! They hire the adventurers to investigate and drop in an alchemical concoction that will simmer the volcano. But, when they get near the volcano, they notice some unusual lab equipment. It looks like... yes, there's a laboratory under the volcano! Somebody is forcing the eruption!

The adventures will first encounter some of the hired thugs in a small camp outside of the volcano complex; during the encounter they can find clues that lead to a man made tunnel system leading into the volcano cone. This tunnel leads to the underground laboratory of Dr. Flavious a rather mad scientist who has taken it upon himself to cleanse what he portrays as the unclean of Rykon. In the tunnel complex the adventures will come across more thugs and the two Hephais Hounds. Finally making their way to the laboratory proper here they will first have to fight Me come who will defend Flavious till death and then finally the quite mad scientist himself who will continue to rant of the unclean of Rykon.

Flavious has invented a device that will increase the lava production of the volcano, this will cause the volcano to erupt and cover the town of Rykon (unless the adventures stop him). A byproduct of his research, Flavious has hit upon a lava resistant bioflux technology that allows himself and his minions to work within the volcano, he calls this HEPHAIS'S EMBRACE. Hephais was the ancient name for the god of fire in Rykon.
